Here we go again!

"Is McDonalds really green and white?" "Do you think Hardees will go out of business?" "What do they serve at Burger Chef?" Orion students speculated about all the fast food restaurants popping up along M-24. It seemed Orion was bombed with new fast food industries. "Is it because of the Silverdome in Pontiac or the new K-mart?" "Is Orion becoming a suburb of Detroit?" Also visible were the subdivisions, condominiums, and apartments trespassing on Orion's formerly green, quiet property. "Where are all the beautiful fields?" "They're being dug up for stores and restaurants!" "Where's all the green going?" Despite an abundance of lakes, sailboats, bike trails and dirt roads, just how long can tradition hold out against change?

But will the green go too?

a) Dan Conners, Sherry Edwards, Peggy Bushman, Lisa Phillips and Anita Coin enjoy sliding on a slide just as much as they used to when they-and Orion-were younger. b) Kevin and Kathy Davidson and "Pretty Boy" are proof that motorcycles aren't the only thing to ride in Northern Oakland County. c) Ron Chupp daydreams as he tosses pebbles into Lake Orion. d) The "Dragons" took their mascot's name from the mythical dragon supposedly living in Lake Orion. e) Gwen Alderman and Sue Petiprin stand in front of one of the wall graphics painted to get away from traditional drab colors. f) These "firecrackers" show that natural beauty is still alive in Orion.

Teachers break tradition with September strike

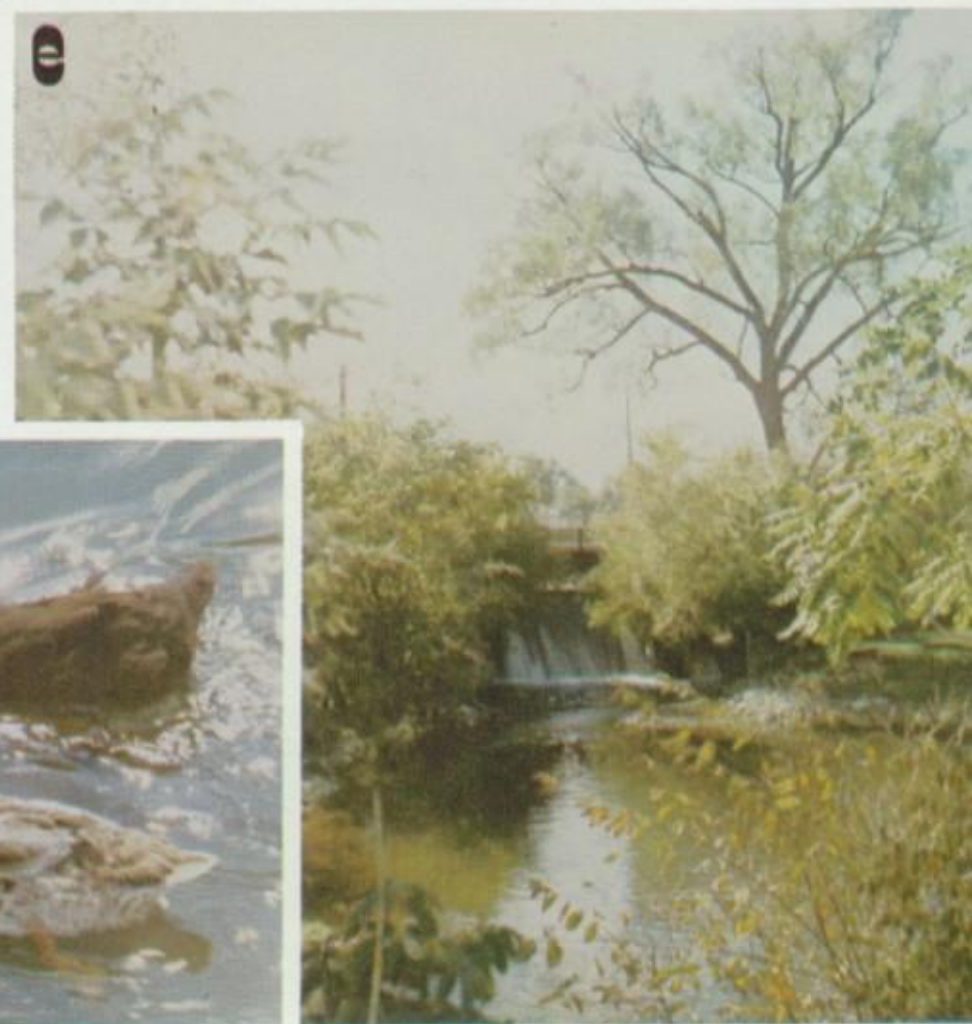

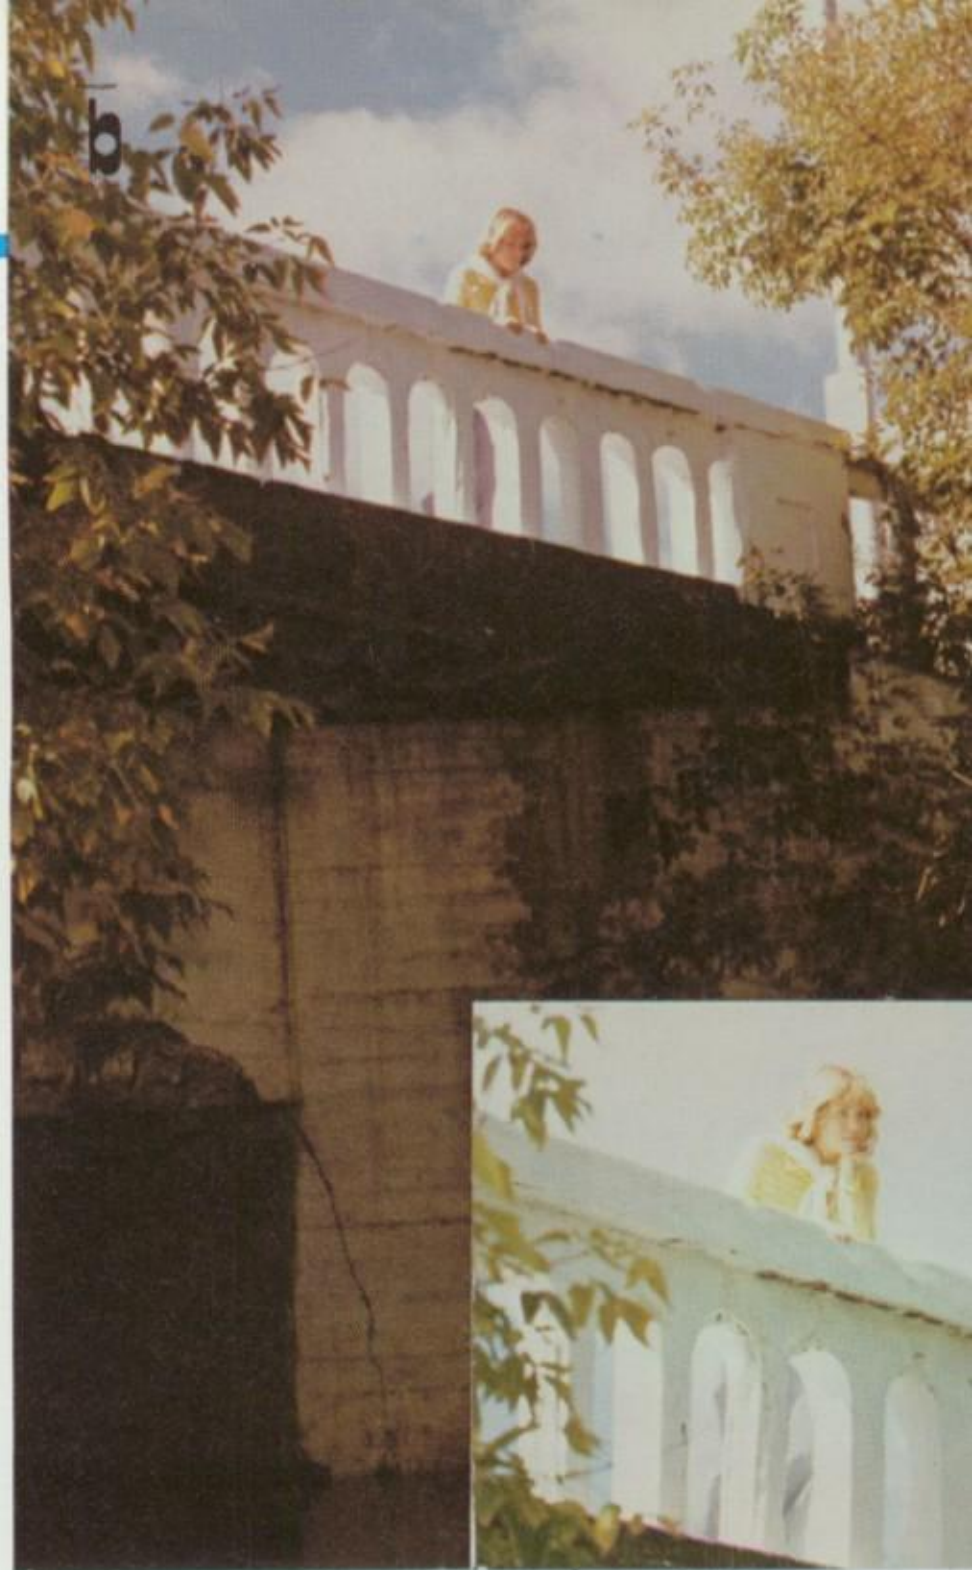

"Orion teachers refused to show up for their first day of work," the headline read. "Will we start on schedule?" was the main question asked when rumor of a teacher strike became fact. For the first time teachers made demands that the board refused to accept. "We want medical care and a two year contract," the teachers stated. "Medical, but . . .," the board returned. The teachers did strike, but after an all night bargaining session they began classes on schedule. However, the question remained, a new one in Orion, "What about next year?"

a) Fast food chains, a common indication of Orion's growing industry. b) Dave Brown and Katie Godwin discuss the teacher strike. c) The K-mart water tower symbolizes acceptance of the much discussed discount store. d) Mac's, on M-24, quickly a favorite place in Orion. e) The Twin Lakes Apartments, one of the many complexes being built around Orion. f) Terry Schram, Bonnie Deatherage, Dean Land, Laren Herr and Scott Batoha feel the pull between change and tradition.

a) Though the pollution of the city may be moving in, a cloudy day in Orion is not an unusual sight. b) Andrea Greer reflects on the way things used to be at the creek running through the center of town. c) Todd Raymond, Marty Houtari, and Lorann Thurber enjoy time off from school by talking at the Public Recreation Area on Kern Road. d) The nearby cornfield on Scripps Road is one of the many in Lake Orion's agricultural community. e) The water dam in Orion has an almost tropical look along with a useful purpose. f) Ducks, along with other wildlife, abound in Orion.

Orion: When does suburban become urban ?

Is Orion going city? It would seem that way by outward appearances, but Orion still has many nature areas left.

Within Orion's thirty-six sq. miles, Bald Mountain contains 3,000 acres of land set aside for nature, swimming, and picnicking. 1,700 acres of lake keep Orion deep in fish and other wildlife. Clarkston, Walden, and Greenshield roads have also been sanctioned as "Natural Beauty Roads."

The Jaycees, Scouts, and Little League have clean-up drives each year. They, along with other concerned individuals, are trying to keep Orion beautiful. Even with their help, can Orion stay the way it is? We'll have to wait, and Turn the Page.

Since it takes students to organize Ski Club or Future Teachers and students to keep table tennis or painting in the curriculum, this year the DRAGON has decided to combine the former "Student Life" and "Organizations" sections into one more complete section called "Student Activities."

As you turn these pages you will see not only the well known students at LOHS but also the average students. They may be in the lunchroom chatting with friends or possibly in the parking lot trying to escape to Mac's without being caught, while some will be seen stumbling out onto a foggy football field at 7:00 with the marching band.

Hopefully you will see a little bit of yourself in these pages too!

Q: What is the life of an average student like?

a) Parking lot! One way Rick Willingham finds a way to talk to his friends or travel up to Mac's. b) Jeff Ziegelbaur and Cheryl Reynolds, a couple who can commonly be seen in the halls. c) With six full classes it only seems right for a locker to pile up with Chemistry, Algebra II and Comp II papers. d) There's more to L.O. than the grounds of the high school. Behind the school is the cross country field where there are many beautiful trees. Judy Elliot puts one into use during fourth hour break. e) Bill Penala and Kim Wotton find time to talk during a soccer game?

"How was your weekend?"

"T.G.I.F." Thank God it's Friday! Suddenly it's sixth hour and you're beginning to get restless. Eyes keep glancing toward the clock every few minutes awaiting that wonderful sound. By now you do not feel like attempting anything because your mind keeps wandering to the upcoming weekend. Of course each individual had his own idea and definition of fun whether it was rushing to the Big Boy with a group of friends after an exciting Varsity football game to create a disturbance or just watching a Shirley Temple movie. Many times students' weekends were filled with doing homework, like cramming for a huge biology exam or finishing up a final draft for Comp III. No matter what it was, Lake Orion weekends were always very active.

a) Sam Menzer, Linette Herbert, Drew Cole and Joni Hauxwell start their weekend at the Big Boy on a Friday. This favorite hangout is located at 955 S. Lapeer Rd. Oxford. b) Even though not considered a favorite passtime, babysitting is experienced by almost everyone at some point. c) A part time job occupies Lee Wright's weekends at Dino's Pizza, 3016 Baldwin Rd. Pontiac. d) Some say "how boring" but here, settling down and watching a good movie on the television is the highlight of the day for Jeff Griffith and Jerry Dywasuk. e) Some students, like Doug Jones, discover the talents they never knew they had at the Dug Out, 4 N. Broadway, Lake Orion. f) Sue Webb and Kristen Kollasch get together and turn a dreaded job, washing the dog, into a good time.

"I'm not quite ready yet!"

"Where are my shoes? Iron my dress. Fix my tie. Can I borrow some money? Is there enough gas in the car?" Have you ever gone to get ready for a big date and your little brother jumps in the shower just when you need it? Getting dressed up is an adventure that we do so rarely, but when we do, it seems like a huge chore.

Seniors moved like robots while posing for Senior pictures for fear that their bangs might fall. Even though the occasions were few, we managed to clip on those ties and curl our hair. Senior Pictures, Homecoming, Junior Miss, Prom, and other various activities also demanded that we break up our blue jean tradition and spiff up.

a) Janey May decides to change her traditional hair style and has it trimmed and curled at Merls, on the corner of M-24 & Clarkston, for a dance given by the seniors on November 18. b) Lori Peskey chooses a dainty gold chain to accent her prom dress. This year's prom was held on June 3 at Roma Hall. c) Graduation also inspires us to slip on a dress or a suit to watch the seniors eagerly accept their diplomas. d) Pat Nackerman chooses a wrist corsage at Jacobsens, 545 S. Broadway, Lake Orion, decorated with roses and baby's breath for his date for the Christmas dance. e) Dave Campbell checks out a suit at Hiller's Store for Men, 47 E. Flint, L.O., 693-6217.

After much debate, float building was cancelled because of unnecessary rowdiness. In place of the floats, classes decorated cars the morning before the parade.

It started with Spirit Week; hat day, t-shirt day, jersey day, farmer day and green and white day. During Friday's pep assembly the Seniors swept all the spirit points by winning the pyramids, skit, and overall assembly. Saturday came the parade with the band, decorated cars and the Homecoming representatives. At the Football stadium people gathered to see the Dragons stomp the Big Reds 16-0. The Juniors and band took points for their cars and Vicki Spencer and Bart Griffith were announced King and Queen of 1977. The day ended with the dance featuring "Orion."

a) Lynne Cole, Mike Daugherty, Mig Loubert, Jeff Deckebach and Denise Ko attended Girls and Boys State during summer to "experience democracy." Here Sue Webb and Teri Breault are practicing a spread eagle during one of the daily practices. c) Laying in the sun is one of the many advantages one has over the summer months. Pomalu Stone enjoys every minute. d) Twirlers Lou Anne Smith, Kathy Buckner and Tracy Wilson are using the talent they have acquired over hours of early morning practices. e) Lake Orion athlete Bart Griffith goes through one of Coach Holcomb's warm weather practices. f) Mystic Lake Summer yearbook class taught Ann Burt the basics of layout and design.

Is there life after high school? Or after school gets out in June? For Orion Students, last summer meant jobs, camps, workshops or just sunning.

For the cheerleaders there were almost daily practices as well as competitions and camp while the twirlers headed for a week's workout in Marietta, Ohio. This year our cheerleading squads came home with four plaques and two trophies. The twirlers earned superior markings and brought back eight ribbons.

Our girls' volleyball team took in some extra practices at Oakland University and many guys sweated away the months in pre-season workouts for football, cross country, and the girls' varsity basketball team.

Other activities included the bands annual trip to Traverse City for the Cherry Festival, a year-book workshop for DRAGON staffers and attendance at special summer programs such as the one at the University of Tennessee, Martin Campus, attended by Sherrie Bates. Many teachers used their vacation to pick up necessary college credits in their field and large numbers of staff and students alike took to the highways for touring or camping. Some like Sharon Ward, even took that long anticipated trip to Europe.

—“Hey, do we have a homeroom today?”—

"Hey, do we have a homeroom today? Who's my homeroom teacher? Where's my homeroom?" From a far and distant corner, the answer to these questions is emitted from a small, screen-covered cubicle, "This is Mr. Duris, your principal. We are having a homeroom today for the purpose of . . ."

The classrooms of the school were used for several functions, one being homeroom. In this small, four-walled room, gathered a group of students in the same grade and section of the alphabet. For three years, this group would meet for homeroom to complete several important duties, ranging from voting for Homecoming Queen to scheduling the next year's classes.

The fifty classrooms in the high school, however, served instructional purposes also. In these rooms, the sixty-five teachers attempted to teach everything from Chemistry to English. Sometimes, students had to use every spare moment to do their homework, but others needed the teacher's expert help every spare moment.

Those students who excelled in the classroom passed into a very selective group of academicians known as the National Honor Society. This year the N.H.S. was actively involved in student life, arranging everything from a bake sale to a blood bank. This group, sponsored by Mr. McGraw, was extremely selective, only allowing students with a minimum of G.P.A. of 3.5, to join. This group only had twenty-five members this year. Each member was evaluated by an application which showed his interest in the community, good citizenship, and a schedule of all classes attended. A selection committee of thirteen teachers then decided which of the applicants would be accepted.

Did you participate in any sports? Even if you were one of those people who didn't participate in a league sport, in your own way you may still have been a weekend jock.

Almost everyone was athletic in some way. Racketball was one sport that became very popular due to the fact that University Racketball Club was so near. Many Lake Orion students spent hours playing tennis to get a head start on daily practices, and many spent their free time swimming at Greens Park and other nearby lakes.

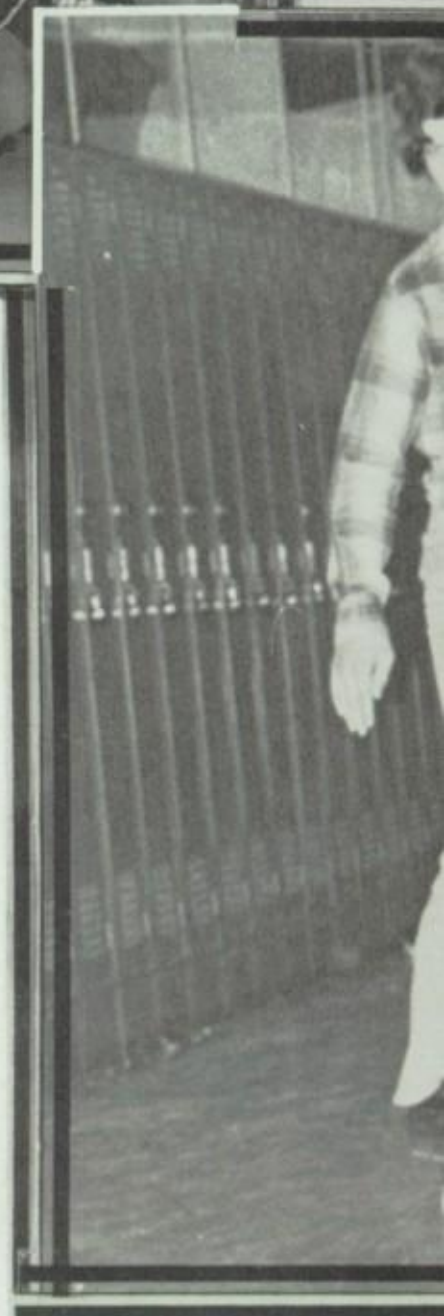

Another sport that kept many students busy was downhill skiing and due to the number interested Lake Orion began to organize a Ski Team. During the summer Orion also had a water-ski team in town and hockey games were informally organized during the winter.

The Band was another school club that also got into the act by having regular roller-skating parties once a month.

To many, being active in a non-league sport was just as important as being on a school team even though they didn't get as much official recognition.

a) Lake Orion High School's '77-'78 ski club spent many hours shussing Pine Knob's many slopes. They were sponsored by Miss Boyer. b) Doug Crawford prepares to make a quick turn as he steadies his position. c) Raquetball enthusiast Charlie Suddeth practices his forehand in the gym while waiting for class to begin. d) Suzanne Mangis packs up her gear while preparing to go to Pine Knob. e) Beth Taylor sums up the feelings of many skating fanatics while trying to tie a perfect bow.

Are You a Weekend Jock?

Talent: Lake Orion is loaded

Last spring, LOHS held its second annual Fine Arts Festival. The event, which was sponsored by the Publications classes, was an attempt to expose the students to the various creative talents within the school. Most of the festival took place on Friday, May 20, but many things took place all week. There was a Publications open house, a choir concert and even a photo contest. Then on Friday, after a picnic lunch, things really got going. In the gym there were arm-wrestling, dancing, gymnastics and even judo demonstrations. For movie fans there were films and to top it all off we got our yearbooks and held a pen party.

Also in May was the 1977 LOHS talent show. It included two rock bands, gymnastics, modern dance and various other talents. One band consisted entirely of sophomores; namely Ron Sampson, Matt Frey, Chuck Gallinat and Jim Sweeney. Sue Samosiuk's gymnastics and Leslie Shook's modern dance routine came off without a hitch, despite performing on Friday 13.

A "mystery farce" is certainly an apt description of Lake Orion High School's 1977 All-School Play, "Ramshackle Inn". The play was a fine production directed by Mrs. Burgess, who was assisted by Mrs. Peng. The play starred Greg Mach, Debbie Parker, Lori Hagemann, Meg Godwin, and John Hruska. Also in the production were Mark Hopper, Marty Petz, Mike Daugherty, Kathy Van-camp, Tim Griffin and Mark Chuey. Many of the actors and actresses helped out in the behind the scenes work as well as on the stage. For instance, Barb Kopp, Dale Schelske, and Mark Mach were also members of the stage crew. Much of the success of the play was due to the publicity staff, stage crew, prop crew, costume makers and make-up crew. One saddening fact concerning the 1977 All-School Play was that Mrs. Burgess, director and also a school librarian, was retiring after many years of valiant service to scores of students. If Lake Orion High School's All-School Plays of the future are as successful as were those under Mrs. Burgess' direction, the production staff can certainly be proud.

This year's band program has been expanded to include six performing groups. The Marching Band, Symphonic Band, and Wind Ensemble were attired in new uniforms purchased by the Board of Education and the Band Boosters. The Concert Band was added to the curriculum to provide room for the increased enrollment. A second jazz band was also added to provide jazz experience for more students. The band sponsored fund-raising activities such as candy grams, roller skating parties, candle sales, tag day, car washes, and the jazz band dinner dance. The band students also redecorated the band room and Mr. Schadel's office during Christmas vacation. Summer will probably find the band traveling once again to Traverse City for the Cherry Festival.

CHOIR EXPANDS

LOHS

This year's 48 member LOHS choir has been VERY active. In November they participated in a fall Concert held jointly with East and West Junior Highs. They also presented a Christmas Concert in December. A pop concert was held in March, which was a first for LO, and the Spring Concert brought the year to an end. A Choir Council was organized to handle choir activities.

The 1977-78 Twirlers expanded to eight members. During the summer they practiced in preparation for competition at Twirler Camp in Ohio where each girl received a superior rating. The LOHS twirlers fascinated the students with creative routines.

"Need help?"

"Yeah, I'm having a little trouble with my engine." "I don't know where the trouble is exactly, but it's been making a funny sound."

"Okay, let's take a look at it." . . .

Cruising was great but there was another side to owning a car. Some students visited the gas station so often that they had their own personalized coffee mugs at the place.

In the fall, when the lot was fenced in, rumors of "priority parking" began to circulate. There was much indignation and discussion among the students whose cars were a definite necessity. For some, their car was a part of their personality, no matter how much trouble it was to keep their set of wheels in running order and they couldn't imagine leaving them at home.

Let's Cruise!

High School students liked to keep moving around. Many resembled roaming nomads with the most popular oasis being McDonalds or Richardsons. Those with the cash checked out the appliance stores, looking for 8 track tape decks, Am-Fm radios or CB's.

Others were busy making their cars sound and look meaner. This served mainly to drive parents up walls and psych out the competition.

Then there were vans with carpeted walls and fancy innards for the ones who loved comfort. Indeed, for some students, their car, van or pick-up was a second home and the parking lot, their official territory.

Student Council experienced a rebuilding year as only nine vets returned. However, twenty three rookies joined the action.

The Leadership class was held with an open classroom format as members ran around the halls frantically in a seemingly short fourth hour trying to get their projects completed. The Council was divided into several committees ranging from Ethics to Appropriations. When problems or suggestions arose, such as the lunch tray controversy, they were given to the committee chairperson who notified the group of the problem. Action was taken to find a solution as quickly as possible. Members also worked on individual projects, such as open lunch, the attendance policy, and the parking lot, and tried to change or improve these things for the better. Leadership class was no "Mickey Mouse" course. It was these people who had to wrestle with such problems as smoking, fire alarms, and attendance.

Row 3: Lynne Cole, parliamentarian, Jenny Golden, secretary, Sue Hart, Leslie Shook, Beth Richards, Dawn Peach, David Campbell. c) Nickels, dimes, and quarters from the pop machine keep Student Council's $8000 yearly budget in good shape. d) Student Council's file cabinet is jammed with hordes of policies, projects, and forms. e) The Constitution, re-adopted and amended every school year, states the basic concepts and purposes of the Leadership Class. f) Mr. Davis, advisor, takes more than just fourth hour to keep the Council running smoothly. g) Denise Kobe is pretty upset after losing her thirty cents. Many people lost their money, but instead of notifying Student Council, they kicked the machine making the problem worse. h) The Student Council telephone is usually off the hook during fourth hour as members must contact people outside the school system to make their projects successful. i) The calendar in room 315 lists all activities that have been okayed by the activities coordinator. j) The student lounge is enjoyed by many. Student Council supplied the benches and picnic table through funds earned from the candy machines.

Lines of Communication Remain Open

Wasn't it convenient choosing Jeff Deckebach to be the Student School Board Representative? As both president of Student Council and school board representative, Jeff had no problem reporting news back to Student Council and vice-versa. The student representative was allowed to make comments and sit with the board during meetings. He also received literature sent to the board, but could not participate in financial matters or executive sessions. Everything from public complaints and suggestions to the open lunch issue was discussed at these meetings and the representative was allowed to be a part of the scene. The student body of L.O.H.S. benefited by finally having recognized representation.

Debate Club's population remained stable at four members. They spent the year debating at eight tournaments so they could qualify for districts. When they attended the Sandusky Debate Tournament, Jim Gau brought home a trophy for the highest score reached by an L.O.H.S. member.

The SCEPTRE, an award winning weekly newsmagazine added subscriptions, and reworked the publication's cover design this year.

The SCEPTRE boasts total "in-house" publication from researching through writing, type setting, copy fitting, paste ups, and printing.

The Journalism-Newspaper II class published thirty eight-page issues printed by Mr. Miller and his Graphics II classes.

Mr. Saunder's Dragon Broadcasting Club, (DBC), was on hand for filming of basketball, wrestling and other sporting events. Second and Fifth hour announcements were handled by DBC as part of their radio-TV media coverage of the Lake Orion High School events.

"Mom, I need a ride to the mall", "The spectator bus is leaving at 6:00", "Are we taking a plane to Florida?" Students depended on cars or buses to take them to school, or trains and planes to go as far as a foreign country. One such student, Claudia E. Sanchez, traveled to Lake Orion from Monterrey, Mexico to stay with the Godwin's for ten months. Claudia was not an exchange student. She graduated a year ago but came here to learn English before going to college. In Mexico they have high school for two years, and everyone stays in the same city and attends one of the five inner-city colleges. The things Claudia liked about our country were hamburgers and the houses, "because they are made of wood and not cement." She was surprised at how well we drive here because, "... in Mexico, no one stops or pays attention and there are many accidents."

"You mean we actually got a bus?" This year, classes seemed to have better luck with those bus requests for field trips. The Varsity Cheerleaders appeared at Roma Hall to kick off the United Way Campaign, while SCEPTRE visited the OXFORD LEADER office to explore the set up of a somewhat bigger local newspaper. Business classes explored offices and the Secretarial-Clerical Lab went to a workshop at O.C.C. rather than their annual Kresges tour as in the past. They listened to a speaker and looked at different areas of career opportunities open. On October 26, Mr. Davis and Student Council members, Diane Caylor, Jenny Golden and Dawn Peach headed to Lansing for a youth energy convention.

One exchange student traveled to L.O.H.S. instead of away from it. Youth for Understanding sent Isabella Neira from Brasilia to live with the Beckers. She studied English for two years before coming here. Why did Isabella come to Orion? "To learn English and get to know another country."

" GOT ANY CASH? "

The Seniors, with Mike Daugherty as President, sold T-shirts and senior magazines along with the movies and dances they ran. While the Seniors did their thing, the Juniors, headed by Jim Burt, sponsored dances, as well as their candy and pennant sales. With Bonnie Rebel as President, the Sophomores used buttons and candy as their fundraisers.

The CTC, a "good citizen" club led by Mr. Robinette, did not participate in any fundraising, but they did raise spirits at Christmas time when they went Christmas caroling to houses and nursing homes.

However, candy-grams, suckers, and candles were sold and concerts and roller skating parties were given as a means of support for the Band, conducted by Mr. Schadel.

With Mr. Cleveland as the teacher, the Distributive Ed. class had a big money maker. They ran the school store, the Dragon Hut, complete with a spring raffle and a year-end sale.

A deserving organization outside L.O.H.S. received a donation from the Buttons Club, led by Ms. Gardner. They sold Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets, doughnuts and carnations to make their money. They also visited nursing homes.

A group of students called the Future Teachers Association, sponsored by Mrs. Verscheure, sold Tom-Wat products. They sold everything from new Mickey Mouse Club Coloring Cloths to Snugglers Hi-Top Lounging Socks.

"You can't have your cake and eat it too." Oh the saying held true for many here at Lake Orion High. Many times one would look across the table and see an anguished dieter gazing longingly at your apple crisp, eyes feasting on what mouth could not, and then suddenly the poor soul would topple over because of hunger. After reviving him, the well meaning bystander would offer the dieter a bit of food. "NO THANKS" he'd say between clenched teeth, "I'm on a diet."

Lunch time was not only a time for relaxing and eating a leisurely meal with some friends, it was also a time for some students to show off their hidden talents. Almost every day, while enjoying lunch, someone was hit in the back of the head with a cold mushy pea. Sophomores, intimidated by Seniors, took the upperclassmen's trays up to the trash compactor, one by one. Others confused the cooks with "Gimme extra cheese," or "Hold the lettuce" or "What's on the salad plate?" Some, who had forced them to give up their spot in the lunch line or to leave a newly purchased hot lunch to go outside in the knee-knocking, teeth-chattering cold.

no job is finished...

A student's life was filled with paperwork including homework, reports, and tests. Approximately 38% of L.O. graduating classes continued their education which entailed taking ACT and SAT and filling out college applications. About $\frac{3}{4}$ of these students applied for financial aid which meant even more forms to fill out, although only less than 10% actually received assistance.

There was a lot of red tape involved in schedule changes so students were urged to take care in selecting their classes. If you wanted to drop a year class first you needed a note from your parents. Then your counselor and teacher discussed it. If they agreed it was best for you, then the counselor filled out a drop/add sheet and sent it to Oakland County Schools Computer Services to be processed. It returned in quadruplicate copies and was distributed to the counselling office, attendance office, counselor, and one for the student. An office secretary then typed these changes on a drop sheet for teachers.

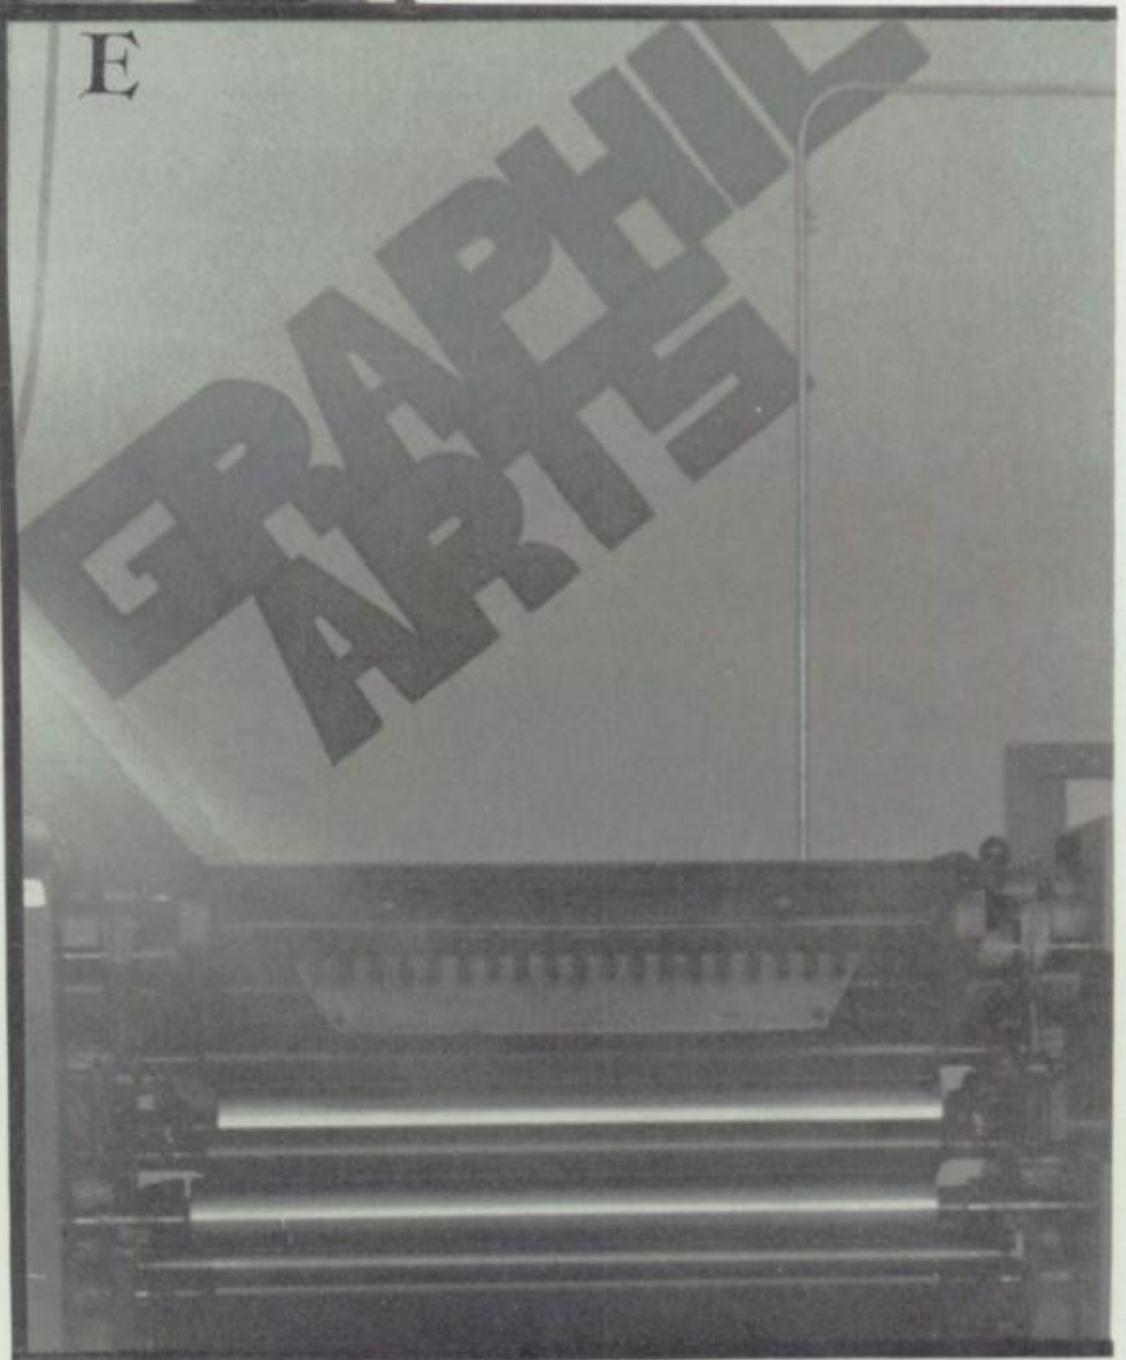

Students also put in a great deal of their time working on School Publications. SCEPTRE switched this year to an eight page weekly. The staff was split into two sections where one week group A would write their stories, while group B pasted up their layouts and vice versa the next week. This meant added pressure to Newspaper II members as they always felt busy. The other publications class, Yearbook II, published AFTERMATH 9 this spring, an annual collection of works by many talented students.

The honors assembly, preparing graduation programs, and keeping records of book fines owed was also a lot of paperwork for those involved. There was much confusion over the attendance policy too. The student handbook stated that a parent must call to excuse an absence by 2:30 that day or a note must be submitted the day you return. Many students were disappointed with their first encounter with an unexcused absence because they did not read the hand book carefully.

BLIZZARD DOESN'T STOP L.O.

Despite the "Great Blizzard" of 1978, LOHS still had spirit. Spirit was displayed by Student Council when they took on the "Snow Ball," which replaced Basketball Homecoming. Saturday, January 21, there was a dance featuring "Impulse".

SPIRIT AT L.O. BRINGS OUT ROWDIES

Consider all those classes and all the fledgling minds that visited them this year. The classes are the basic unit of school. They deal with administration, learning and graduating.

The homeroom is for administration; in it we find, in alphabetical order, the gang from the same alphabet group. The report cards, bus cards, emergency cards, and all election balloting are done in homeroom.

The learning is done, of course in the daily classes, a routine hardly disturbed except for an occasional pep-assembly or fire drill.

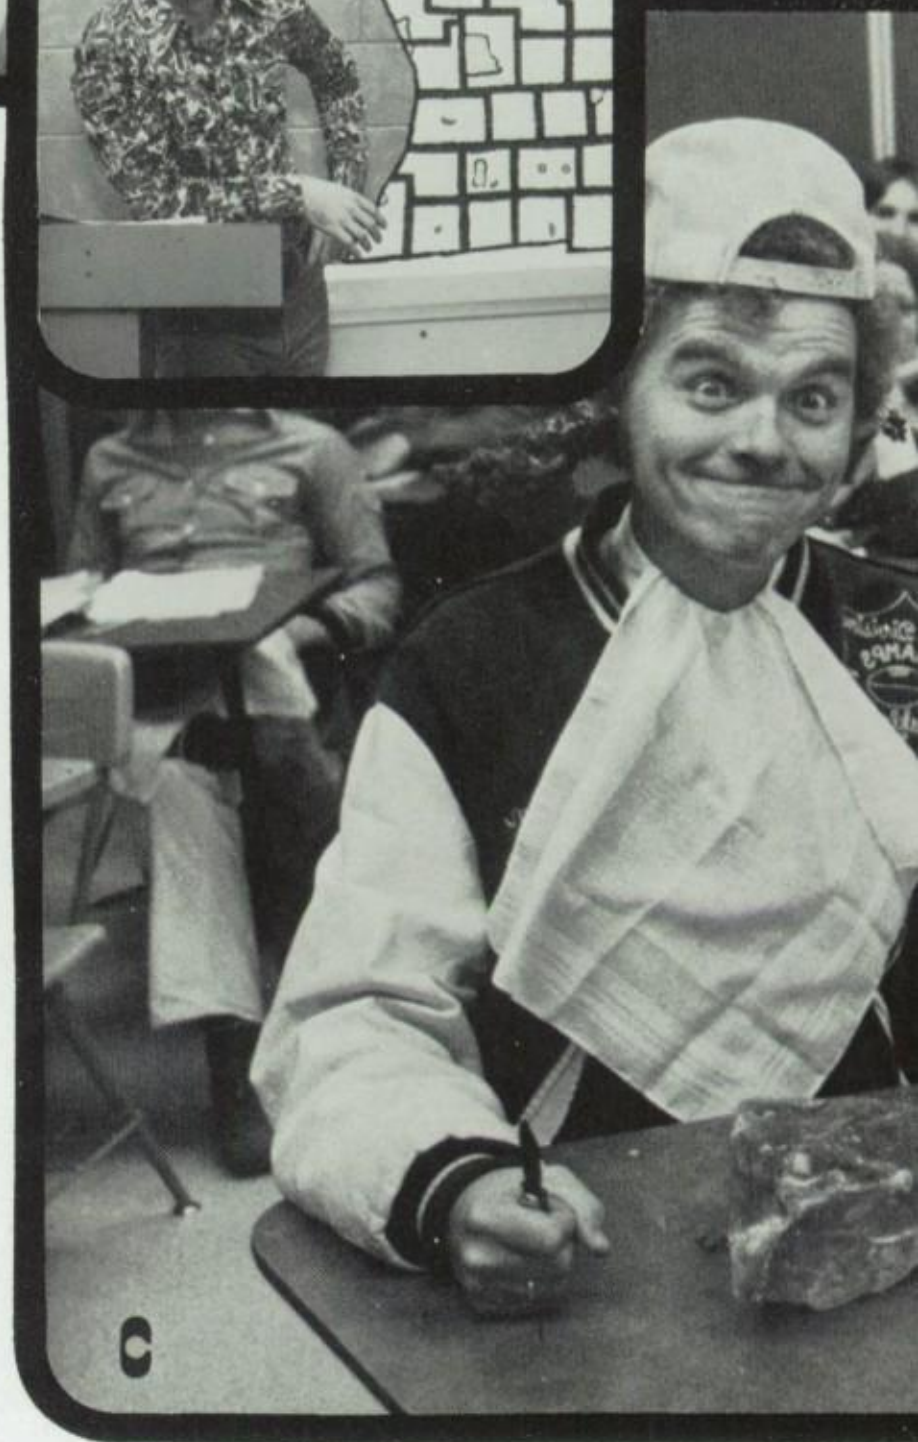

The graduating happens as the student proceeds from sophomore to junior & then to senior and finally to the graduation ceremony itself.

These classes form the basic school unit and the teachers run the classes, each in his own special way.

Academics

Q: What goes on in all those Classrooms?

A: Turn the page...

a) If rigidly structured classes are all right with you maybe you should have been in this class. Although it looks loose, this Comp III class is on a very tight schedule in order to finish its objective—a ten page paper! b) Mr. Hatch runs his classes on rather informal terms, generally at ease with the students. c) Crazyness is one of the methods Mr. Hoganson uses to get his points across and here he is in rare form. d) An Orion graduate herself, "Fitz," as Miss Fitzpatrick is known, gets in on the students' level. e) Not exactly the right time for this activity, but then an enterprising student must use every minute.

Lake Orion has seen many teachers come and go over the past years. 1977 boasted one of the biggest turnovers of new teachers in recent years. September saw many familiar faces turn up, plus an additional nine new teachers. What do they think of Lake Orion?

Mr. Robert Weller, new to the History Department, really thinks that "Lake Orion has a lot more to offer, academically, than a lot of other schools. I like school out here in the country, except it's not much different from Waterford, where I live. They're both pretty rural."

Mr. Roberts in the English Department, who was a substitute in Northern Detroit for two years, says that "small towns have many advantages, but so does the city. The students here are similar to the ones I 'subbed' for before."

Besides Mr. Young and Mr. Wojdyla, Mrs. Fredericks, Mrs. Schadel, (yes, they're related), Mrs. Cottone, Miss Dickson and Miss Wojtonowski have joined the faculty.

Mrs. Schadel, our new choir teacher, has already increased the size of the choir. She taught in Waterford and Pontiac previously and also taught here before as a long-term sub in 1968. She stated that "the fifty kids in choir are very enthused and talented. I have known Lake Orion kids for many years and have thoroughly enjoyed working with them."

NEW TEACHERS ARE IMPRESSED WITH LOHS

Judy Wojtonowski, the new face in the library, says that "Lake Orion is very different from Detroit where I grew up. The people here are a lot different. They're friendlier."

Of the over 1,500 students attending Lake Orion High School this year, could you tell someone how many students went hunting this year? Could you say what days are missed most often by the student body?

Did you know that of all the days, Monday and Friday are missed most often? Or that most people skip pep assemblies? You probably already knew that.

But did you know that approximately 105 to 161 students are absent every day? Did you also know that 122 students got advanced excuses to go hunting? The attendance office has all this information right at hand, and can tell how many days YOU personally missed in less than two minutes.

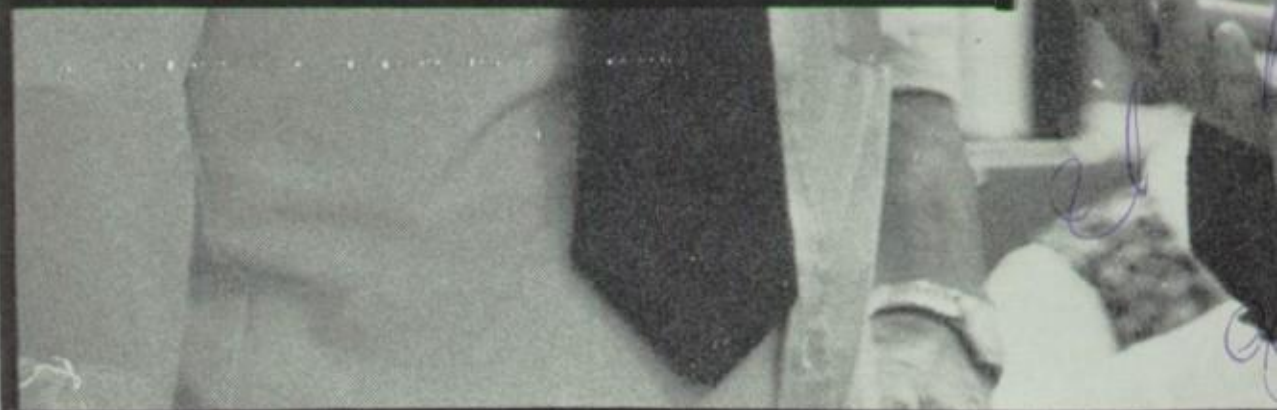

COUNSELORS AND ADMINISTRATORS ARE HARD AT WORK (AND EVEN HARDER TO FIND...)

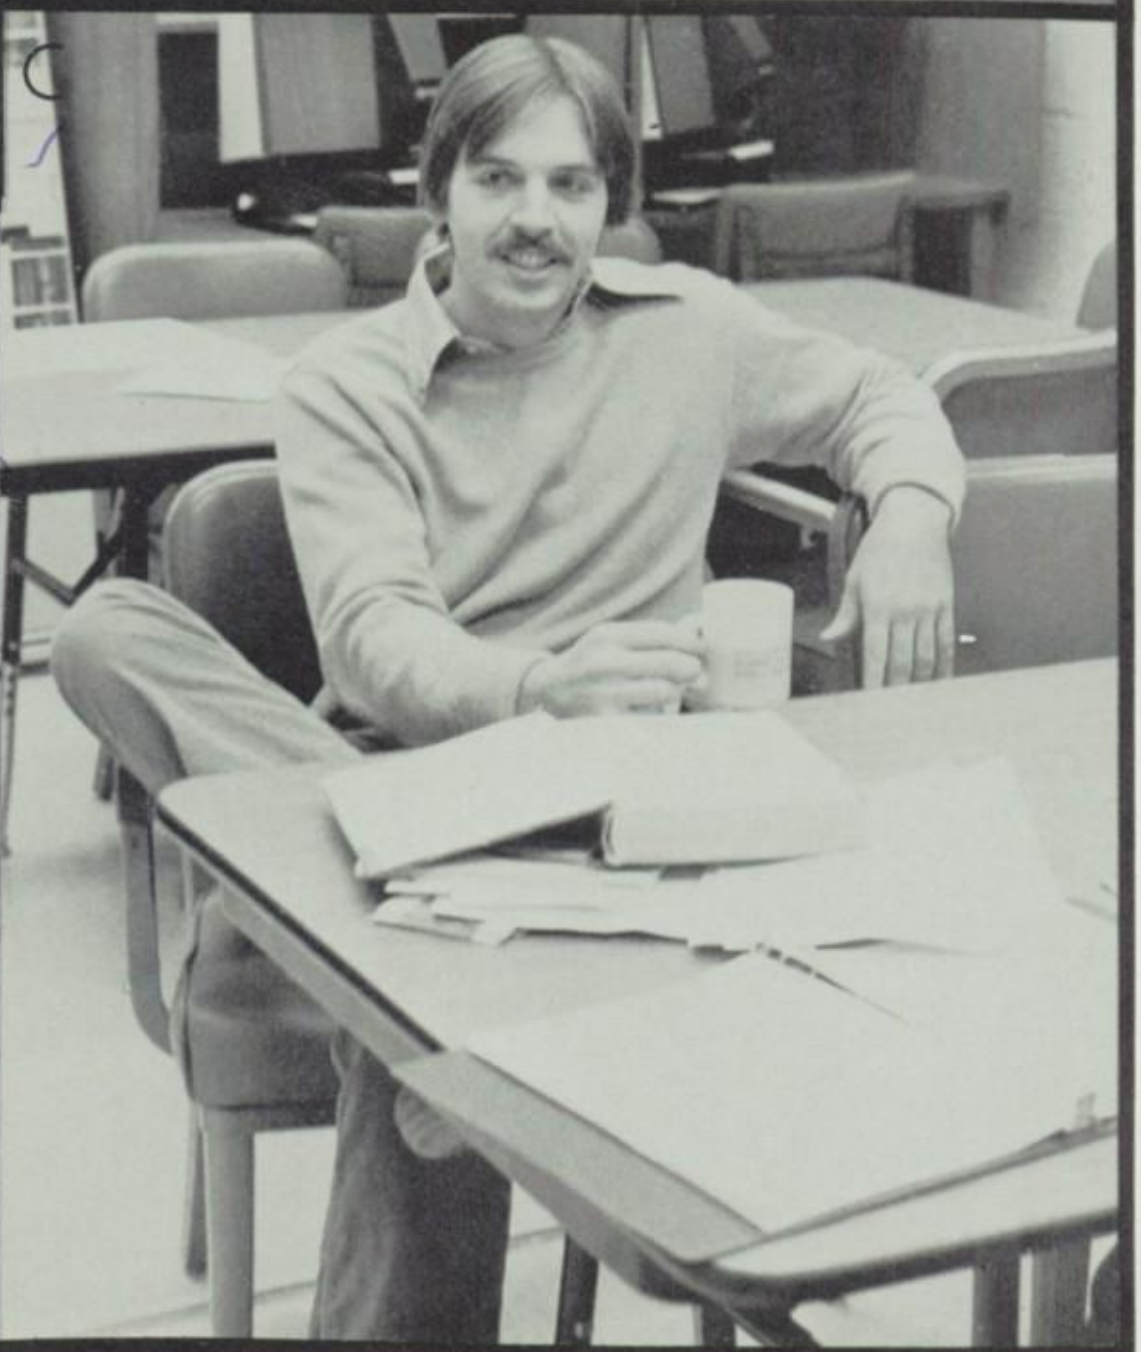

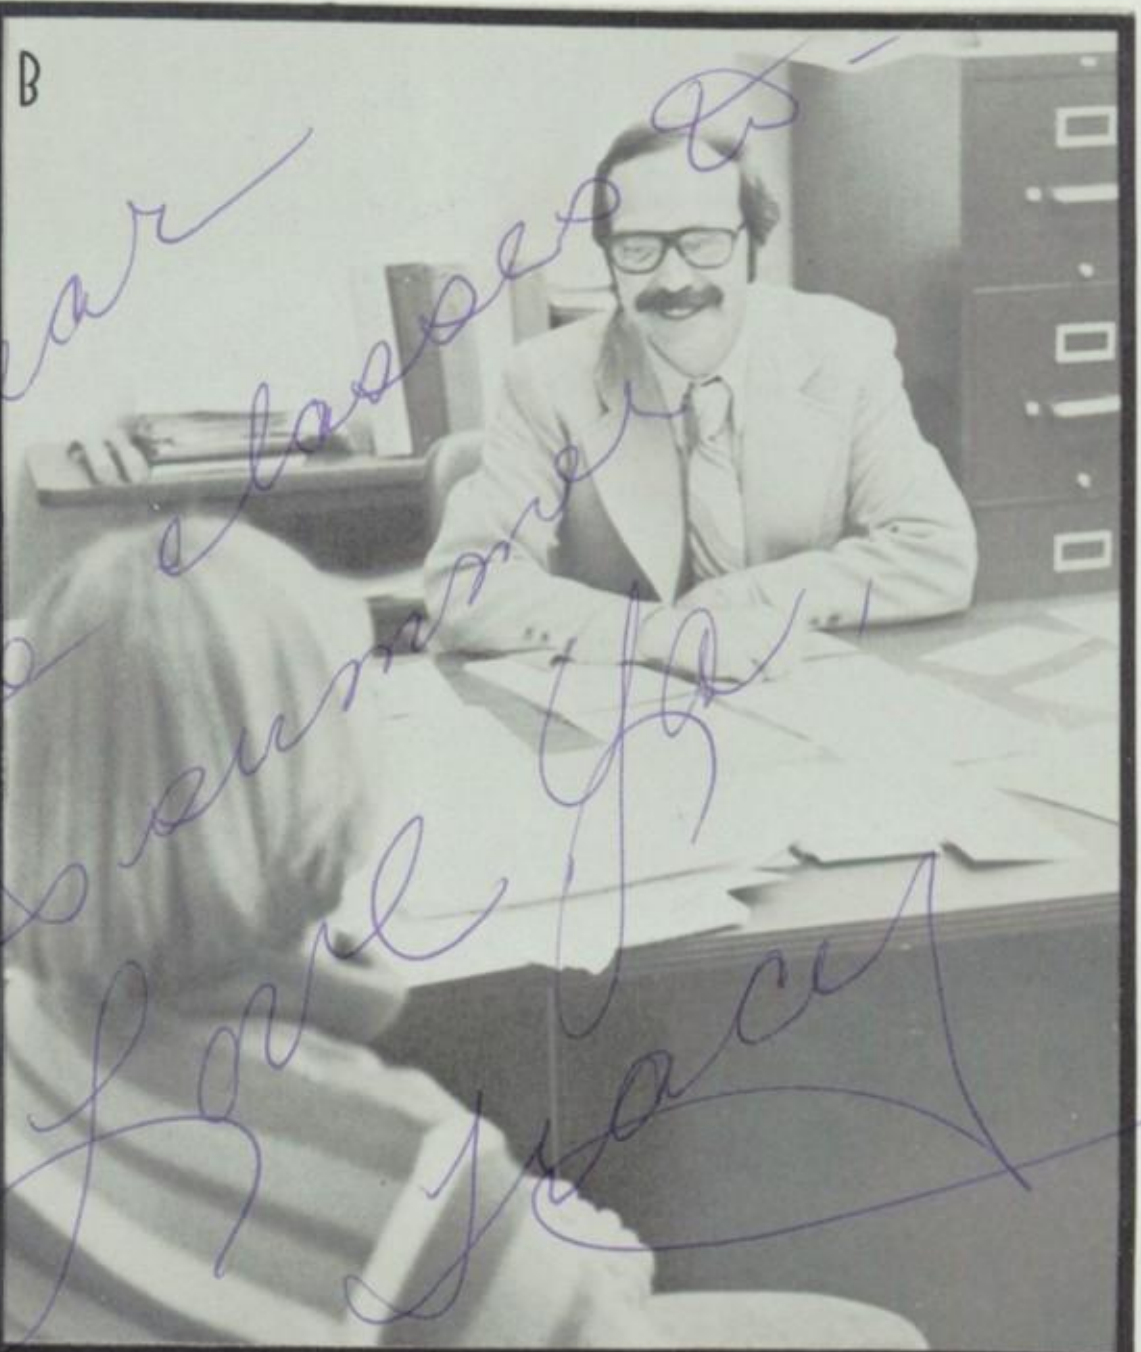

An attendance policy is also in force for teachers. Most never miss more than ten days, which is their allowed absence rate. If they miss more, it is deducted from their paycheck.

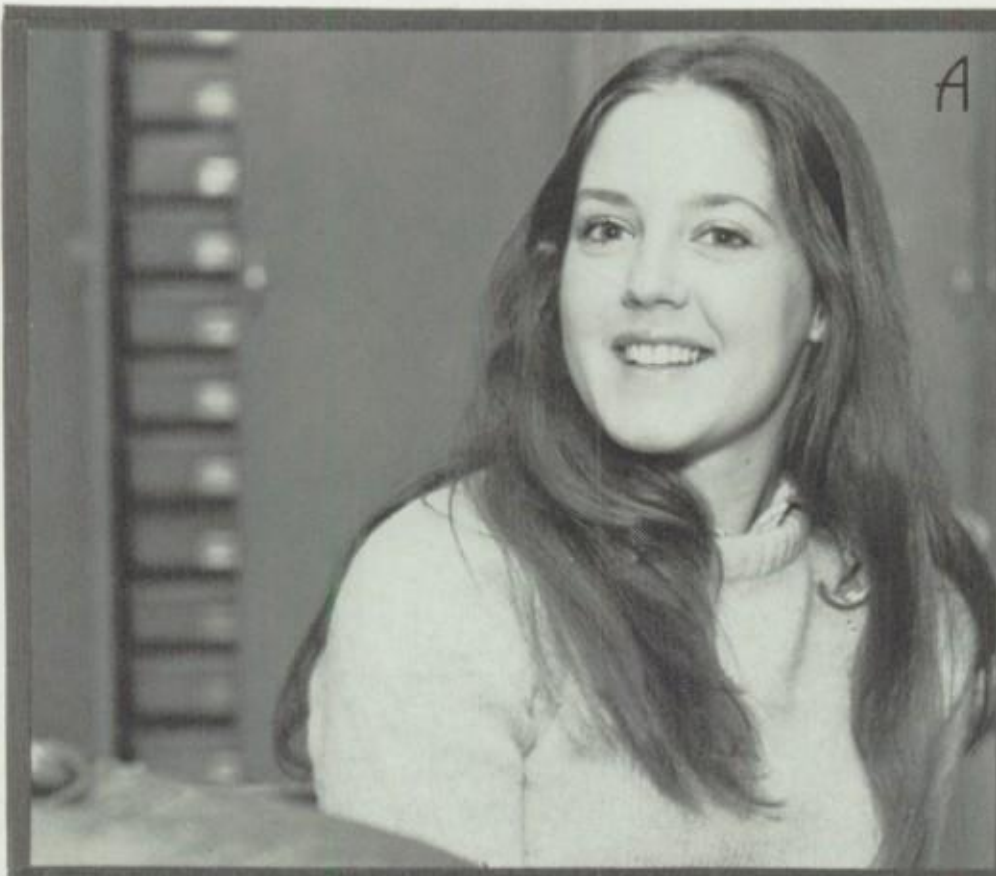

Though teachers seldom give advanced notice, they do call Mrs. Miller in the morning by 6:15 and say that they're not coming. She then calls in a substitute.

When you're sitting in class without a teacher, do you wonder if the teacher just never showed up? Well, very few have ever done that, because if they did, they would be subject to disciplinary action by the Board of Education.

a) Mr. Duris and Mr. Kinser, Principal and Assistant Principal in charge of attendance, respectively. b) Mr. Schiabile talks with student, Reggie Pankau. c) In charge of over 300 students, Counselor, Mr. Hughes, takes a well deserved break. d) David Cleveland, Rich Coaster, Barbara Cottone, Calvin Darbee, Dennis Davis, Julie Dickson, Joseph Duris, Joyce Dwyer, George Elias, Kathleen Ferguson. e) Miss Wertenberger looks up a students' record.

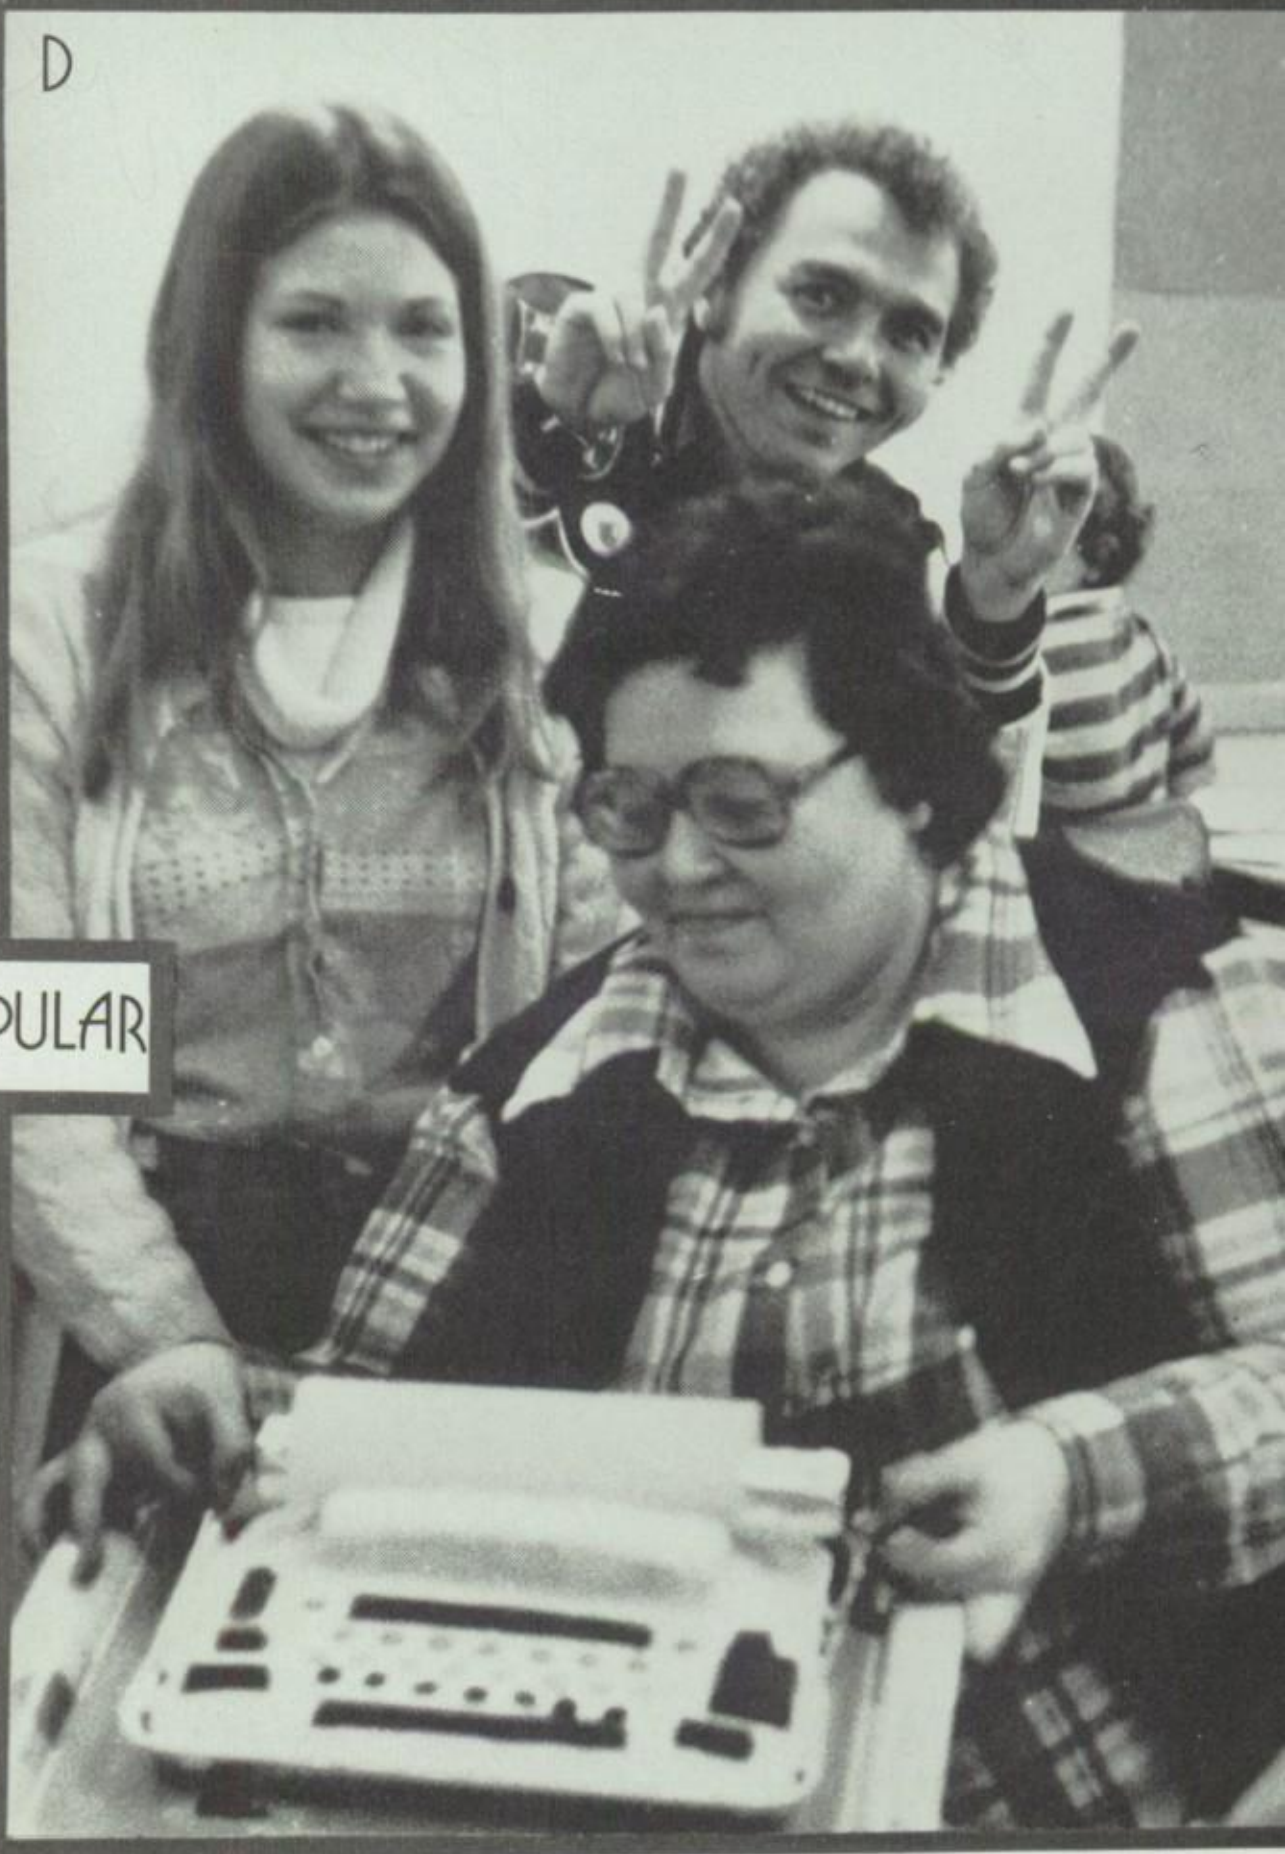

For those students who planned to go into business, Lake Orion offered a good curriculum of business; courses from note-taking to computing. The classes are pretty popular, and according to Mr. Newcomb, "The students enjoy the courses, there are a lot of openings for jobs because of the variety available, although they start at the bottom and have to work their way up. The reason they're so popular is because they pay well."

Mrs. Modell, also in the Business Dept., comments that, "The students really seem to enjoy the classes, but I guess the only way you could tell would be to ask the students themselves."

BUSINESS BECOMES POPULAR

a) Amy Booth relaxes for a bit during Accounting. b) Theresa Watts works in the Dragon Hut, selling goods from records to candy. c) Lynn Brockman files book fines as part of her duties as a co-op student. d) Mrs. Strieter exhibits a cake in the shape of a typewriter baked by a typing student. e) During typing class, Lori See carefully examines her finished assignment for mistakes. f) Terri Naugle types an article for the SCEPTRE.

This year's music department was headed by Karen and Rob Schadel. As in years before, the chorus and bands gave their annual Christmas and Spring concerts where the talents of all of Lake Orion's musicians, sixth through twelfth grades, were combined to produce a most pleasing result.

The autumn of 1977 marked the return of Mrs. Karen Schadel as the chorus director, after a nine year absence. Not many people know it, but she taught in Lake Orion for the first semester of 1968 and then retired temporarily in order to give full attention to her "motherly duties."

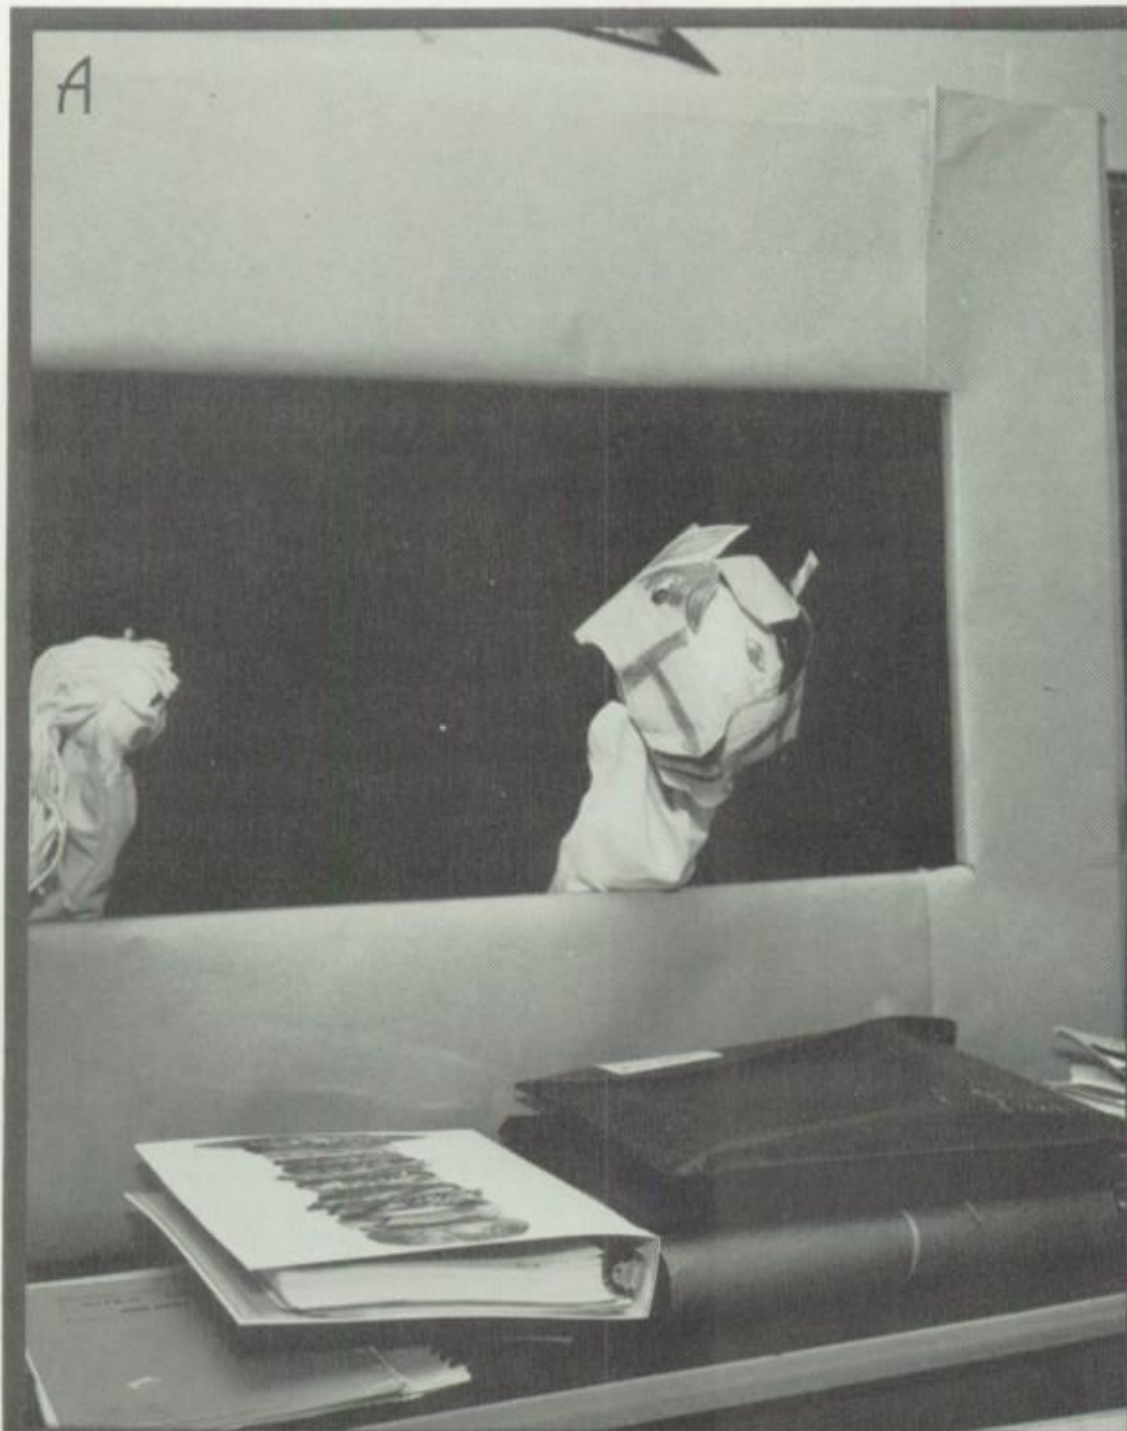

When asked why she decided to resume teaching, Mrs. Schadel said, "The lads (sons Robbie and Scottie) are both in school and then this job for teaching half days opened up, so I grabbed it."

On the other side of the music department stands Mr. Schadel, director of the Symphonic Band, Marching Band, Jazz Band, Concert Band, and the Wind Ensemble. He has been with the Lake Orion system since 1968.

NEW FACE ADDS TO MUSIC DEPARTMENT

a) John Hruska conducts the band in Mr. Schadel's absence. b) Cindy McClure awaits the opening notes before beginning her routine. c) Mr. Schadel conducts many talented musicians ranging from jazz players to wind instrumentalists. d) Mrs. Schadel returns to Orion to direct the Chorus. e) Kevin Nevaux keeps in beat with the Jazz Band. f) The Lake Orion Marching Band performs at outdoor sports events and various parades. g) Rhue Hollens, Gary Hughs, Judy James, James Johnson, Gary Kibby, Wayne Kimball, Mortell Kinser, Martin Malatin, David Malone, James McGraw.

In the fall, the English department added three new teachers this year. Mrs. Julie Dickson, Mrs. Sue Fredericks, and Mr. Scott Roberts. At the beginning of the second semester, Mrs. Vest left and was replaced by Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Dickson. It also changed in another way. Some of the once quarter classes became a semester long, such as Comp. I and II.

English didn't dwell only on conjunctions and adverbs though, as students learned communication in the Radio-Television and Drama classes. Also, journalism was included and the students in Newspaper II put out the weekly newspaper, the SCEPTRE. Yearbook students published Lake Orion's 240 page yearbook, the DRAGON.

The Debate, Forensics, Humanities and Reading Lab classes got students directly involved in projects and they received credits as well.

LANGUAGE ARTS ADDS NEW CHARACTERS TO CAST OF 14

a) Help! We're being invaded! Not really though, it's a puppet show put on by Mrs. Peng's Kiddie Lit. Class. b) Kevin Nevaux, Wendy Zilka, and Denise Latulippe pose for the camera in Comp III. c) Donna Rutt displays dramatic talents in a Drama play. d) Sherry Haddix, Cheryl Kisabeth, Tina Rachels, and Connie Collier relax in their Comp I class. e) Lisa Fitzpatrick aids sophomore Bill Monaghan in Science Fiction Class.

Part of Orion's recent growth has come to the science department of our high school.

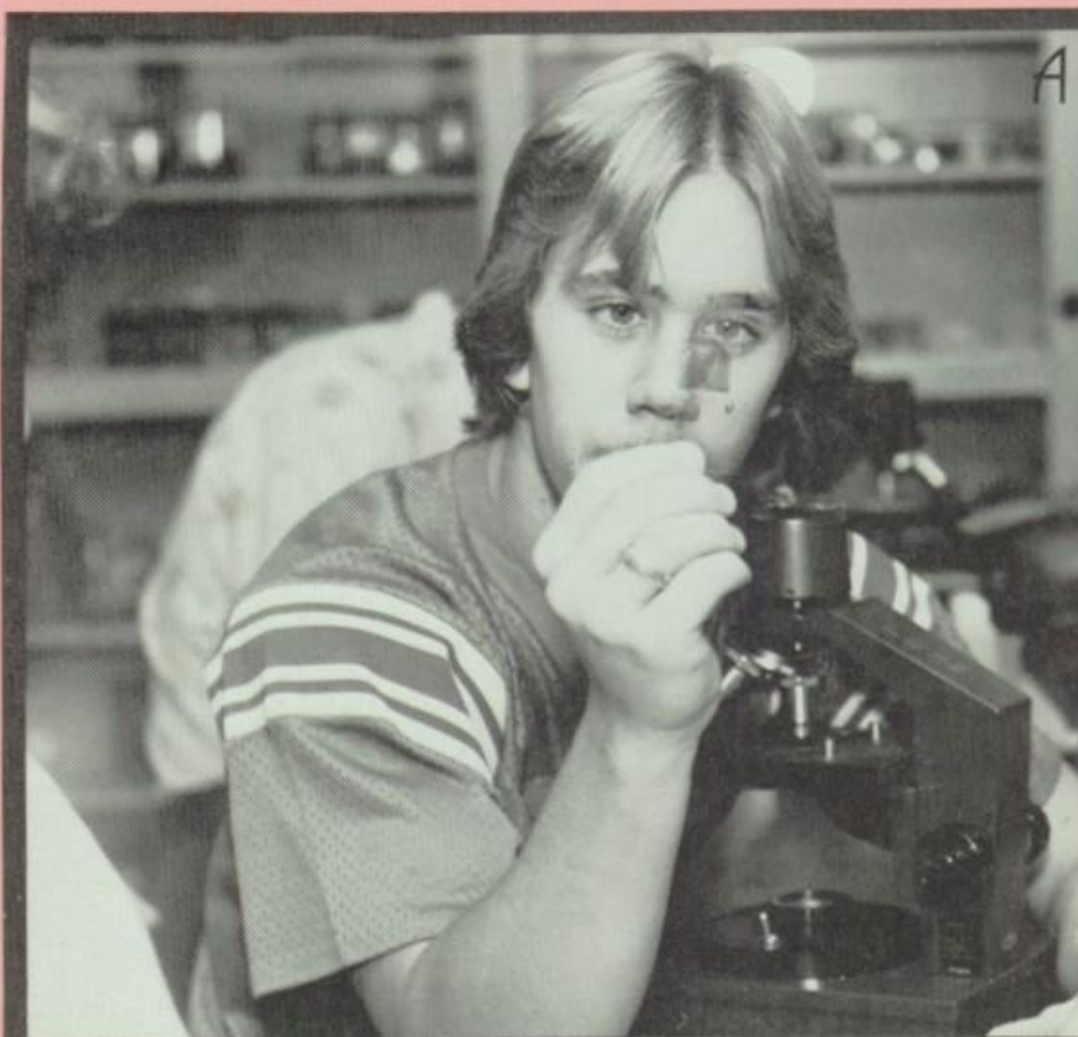

Mr. Haynes' new laboratory room, finally completed at the end of September, was added to update old facilities and to handle the increased load of students taking first-year chemistry. The old facilities were replaced with counters that have sinks, electrical outlets, storage cupboards, drawers and gas jets. A demonstration table was installed with many safety features including an emergency shower.

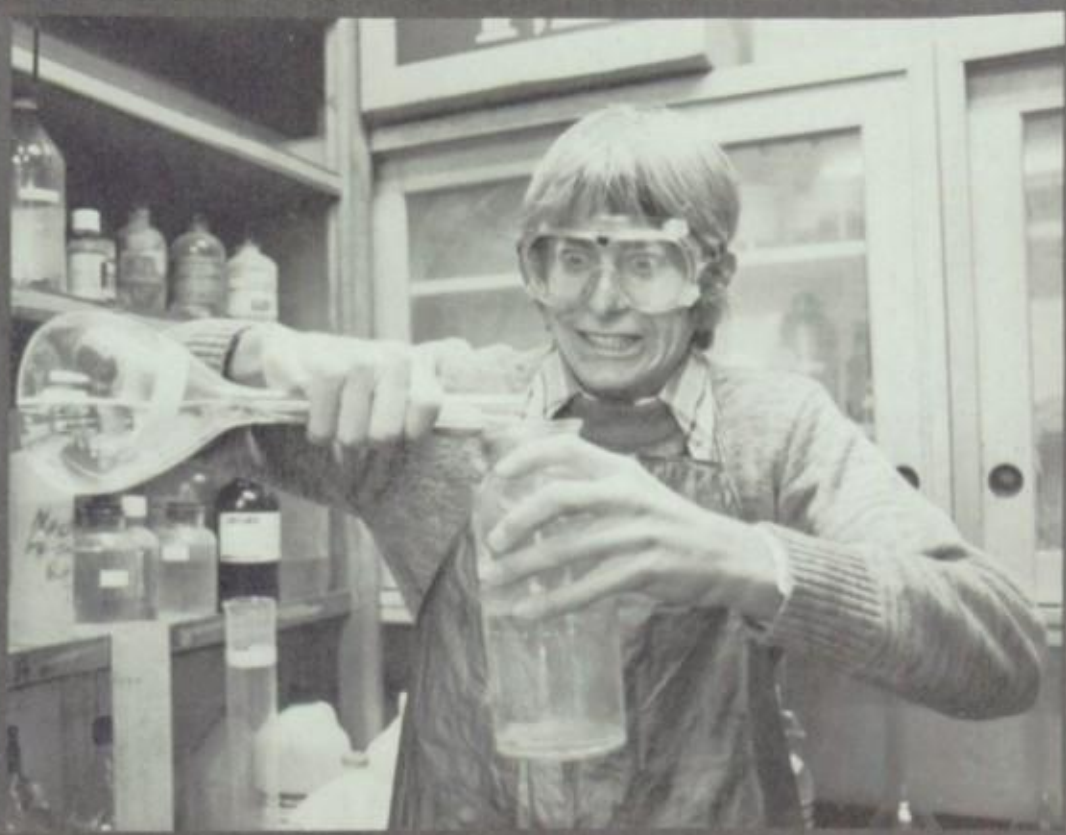

The science department strained under the ever-increasing class-load. Mr. Haynes and Mr. Robinett shared a total of ten chemistry classes (Mr. H. had five Chem. I and Mr. R., two Chem. I and three Chem. II.) According to Miss Wertenberger, counselor, "The science department always receives good marks from our students who go on to college."

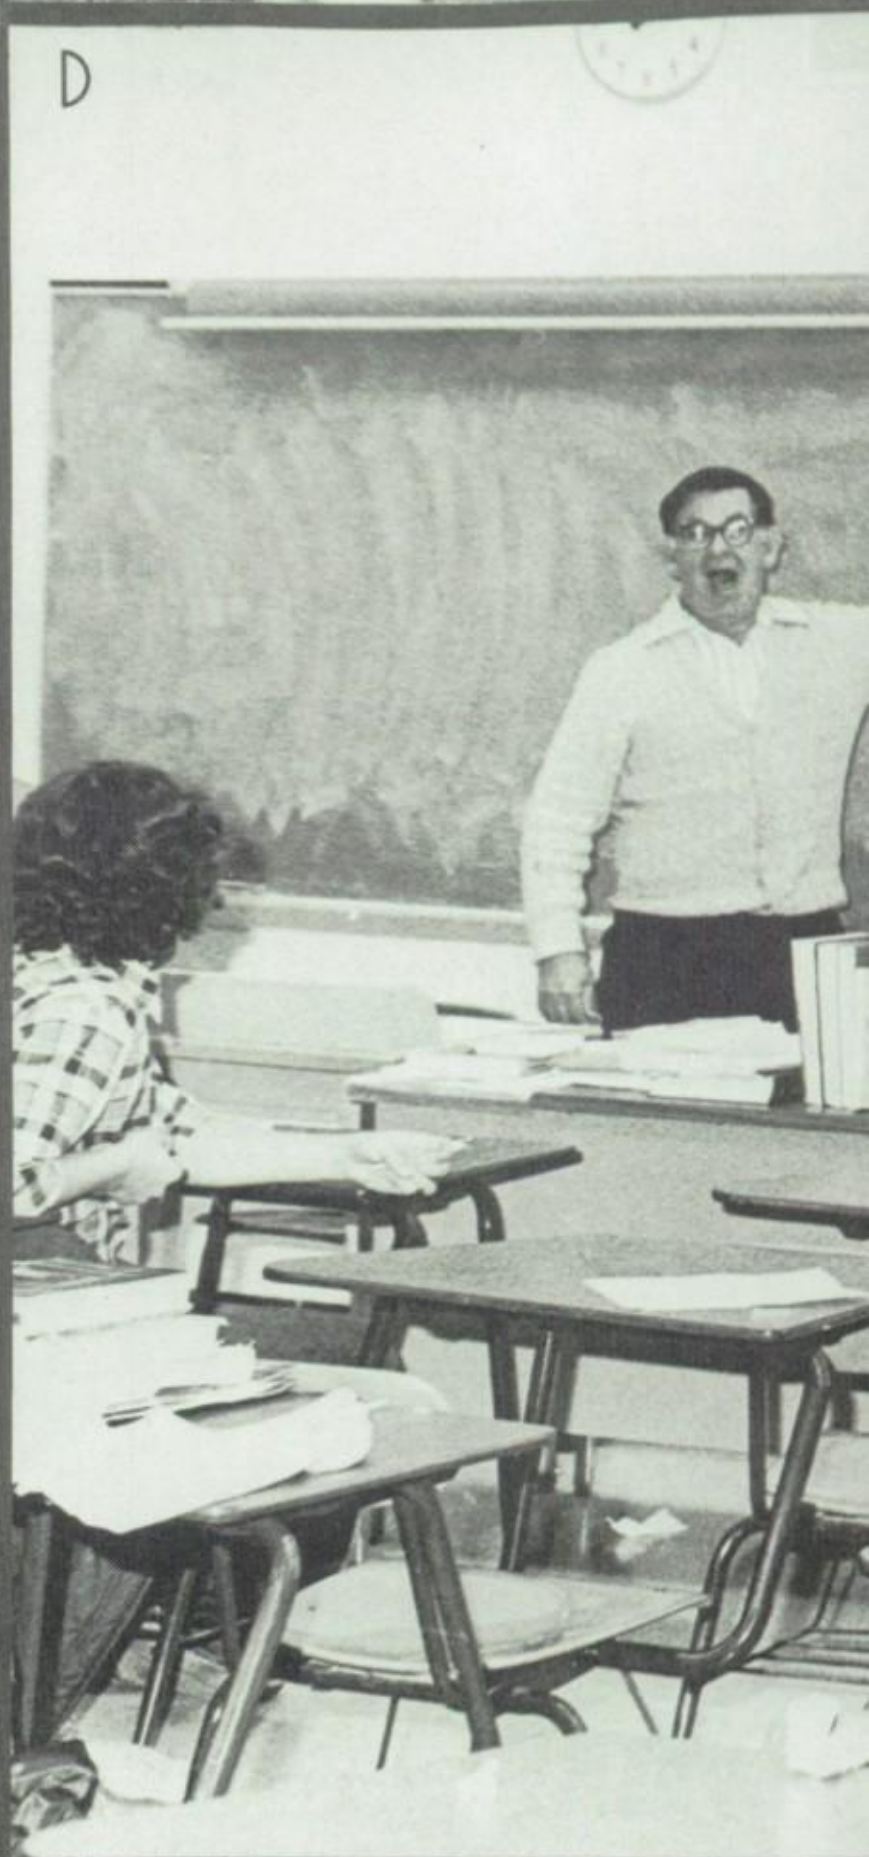

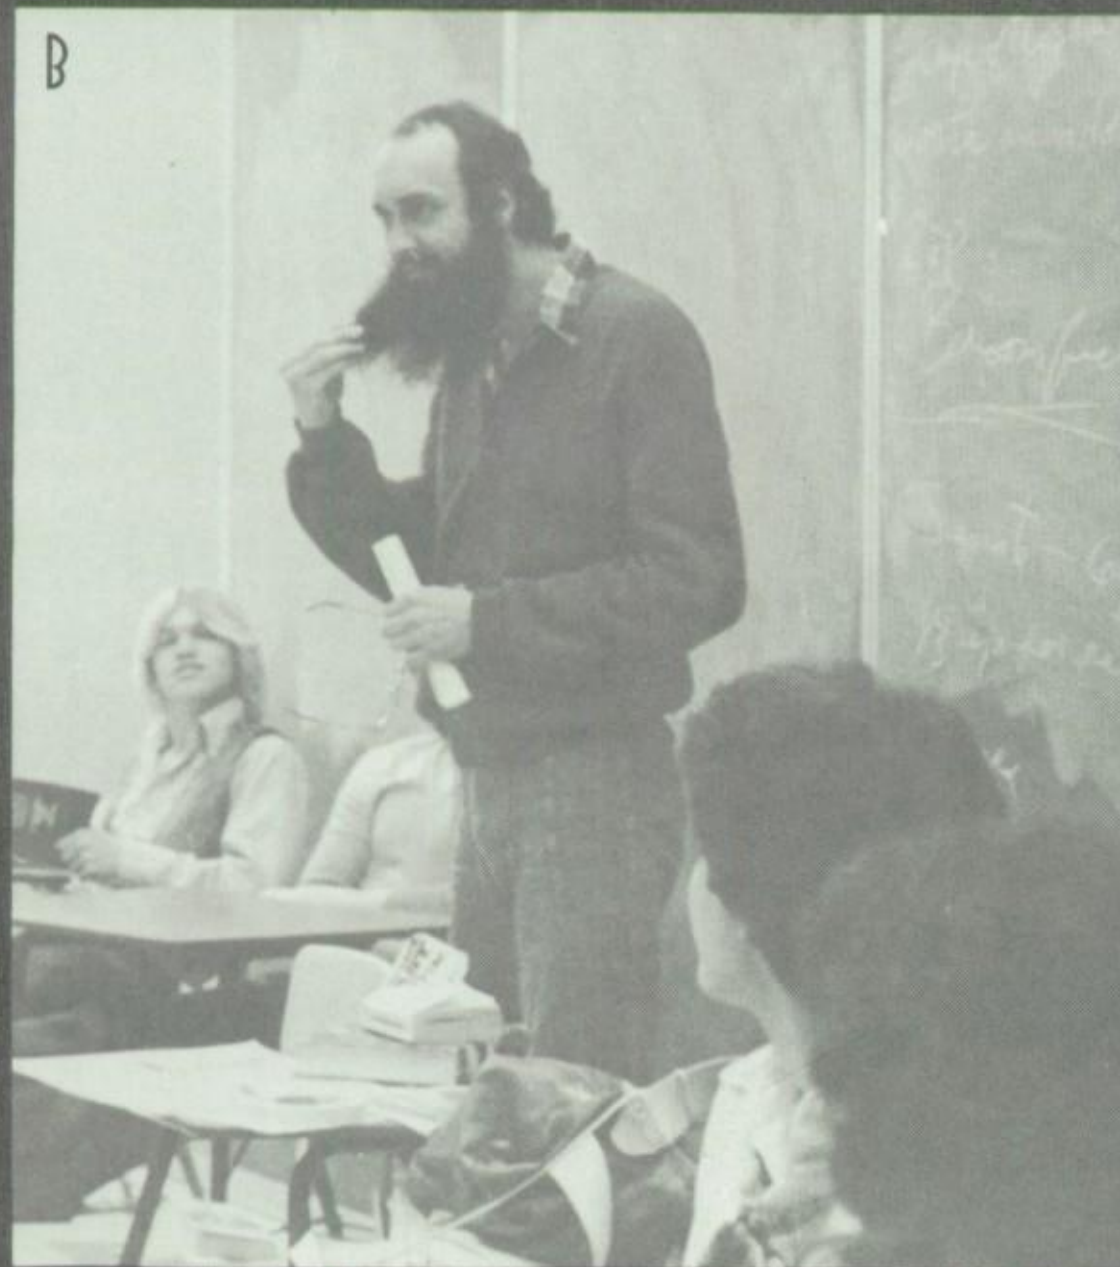

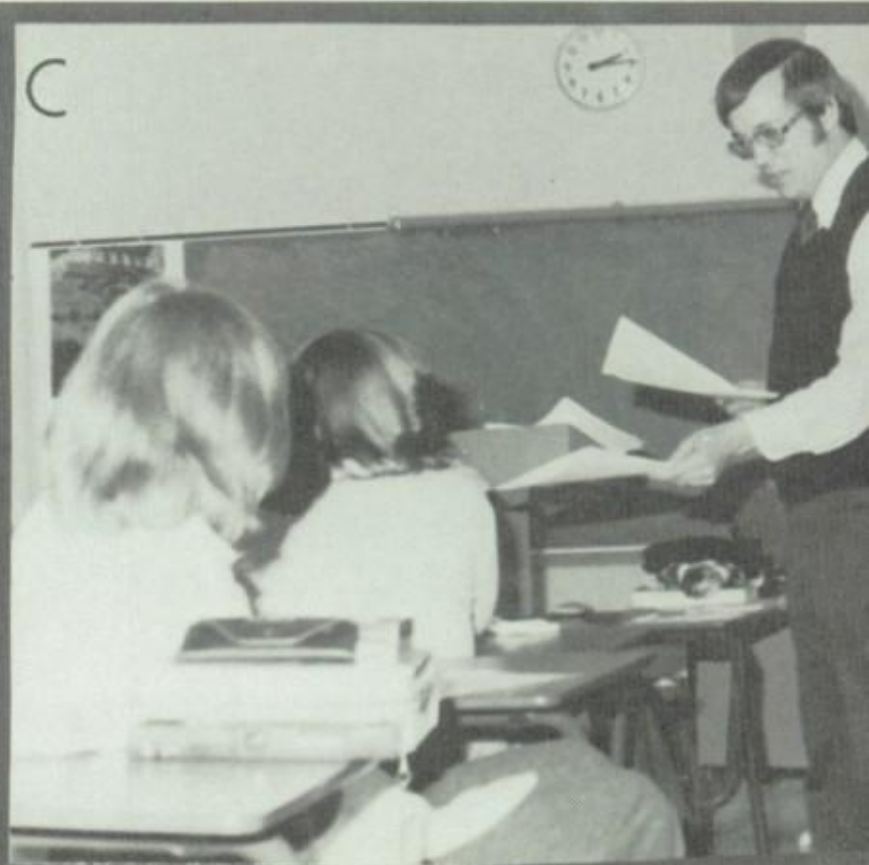

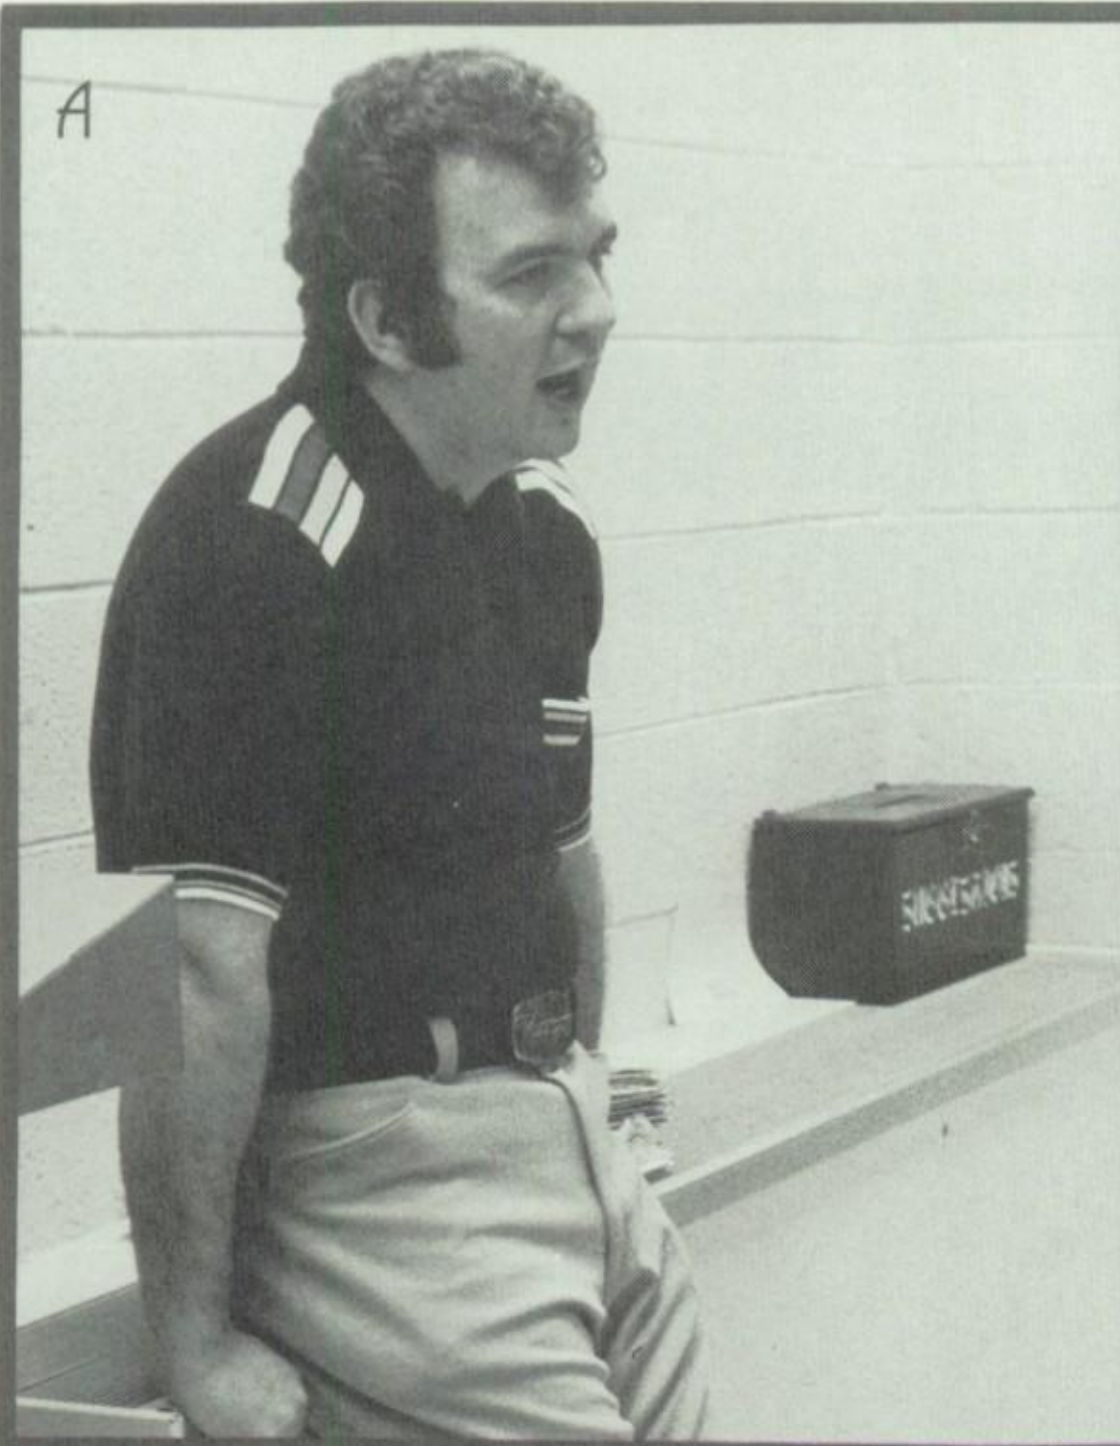

1978: A YEAR OF GROWTH FOR LAKE ORION SCIENCE

Another addition to the department was Mrs. Ray, who took on three physics classes, in addition to two math classes.

a) Jeff Ziegelbaur scrutinizes a biology specimen. b) Brian McIsaac and Larry Gore carefully monitor their experiment. c) Theresa Beste with an indicator experiment. d) The science department feels the space squeeze a little more that some of the other departments because of the lack of functional space. e) Wendy Zilka checks the balance of the scale. f) The load that Mr. Haynes and Mrs. Ray handle is occasionally relieved by a quick chat or a bit of laughter. g) Fred Miller, Ella Modell, Cheryl Mooney, Lewis Mundy, Valjoan Myers, Yolanda Neira, Gary Newcomb, Ruth Peng, William Petrak, Michael Polinsky. h) Tim Turner and Frank Olson take turns peeking at a slide under a high power microscope. i) Dave Golladay hams it up, but still shows that in the lab, safety comes first.

"I believe that studying without a text is harder on the students," commented Mr. Davis, on the subject of the class, Contemporary Social Problems. This class, a history mini-course, was introduced in 1973.

Teachers such as Mr. Davis and Mr. Hatch relied on newspapers, magazines, and current issues to fill the nine weeks course. "One of the main topics I deal with is the problem of facing your problems. If you like yourself and feel good, then you can cope with them," stated Mr. Davis.

Many students considered this class to be a refreshing break from the regular history classes for they were able to discuss themselves and also to learn what was going on in the world.

a) Mr. Davis keeps warm while holding a discussion in his history class. b) Mr. Birleson tugs on his beard as he makes a point. c) Mr. McGraw gets serious as he hands out tests. d) Mr. Cherry stands in a familiar pose as he teaches his history class. e) Jan Popovich, Jane Ray, Scott Roberts, William Robinette, G. Brett Saunders, Karen Schadel, Rob Schadel, Judith Skiba.

If you thought you had lots of homework, feel sorry for the kids who get math classes after you. If Mr. Henry L. Alder, President of the Math Association of America, gets his way they'll have much more to do than you did.

Mr. Alder, according to the UPI wire service, wants more basic work done in high school, because "some college freshmen with good math grades in their high school records aren't performing at the level indicated by their lofty high school marks." One of the comments in his association's report asks math departments across the country to give students grades that accurately reflect their performance.

The President of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, which collaborated with the MAA on the report, John C. Egsand suggests, "Calculators (which have been used to reduce the tedium of complicated calculations) should be used to supplement not (take the place of) necessary skills."

The main theme of the report was "Any student who is unable to use, understand, and interpret a math problem is very handicapped in the field of mathematics."

The report also stated that parents should insist that students do assigned homework.

Mr. Kibby also added emphasis to this by placing copies of the article at strategic places around his room, to the dismay of many students.

a) Karen Irish and Tracy Wilson listen to Mr. Kibby's lecture. b) The enrollment in the Foreign Language department is on the increase, and devices like this could system free Mr. Londo and Miss James for more personal attention. c) Mr. Young, Tim Owens, Sue Sinnott trade Geometry books. d) Any geometry student will recognize these equations. e) Mr. Polinsky works on a problem in his Elementary Algebra class.

"It's something everyone can do if they try, and it's fun," replied Mrs. Bozgan, explaining the fulfillment found in art classes.

"Self expression is also a big part. As you can be creative and give everything you make your personal touch."

Early in January, the ceramics class received a much needed pug mill, which recycled clay. The mill was brought jointly by Student Council and the School Board.

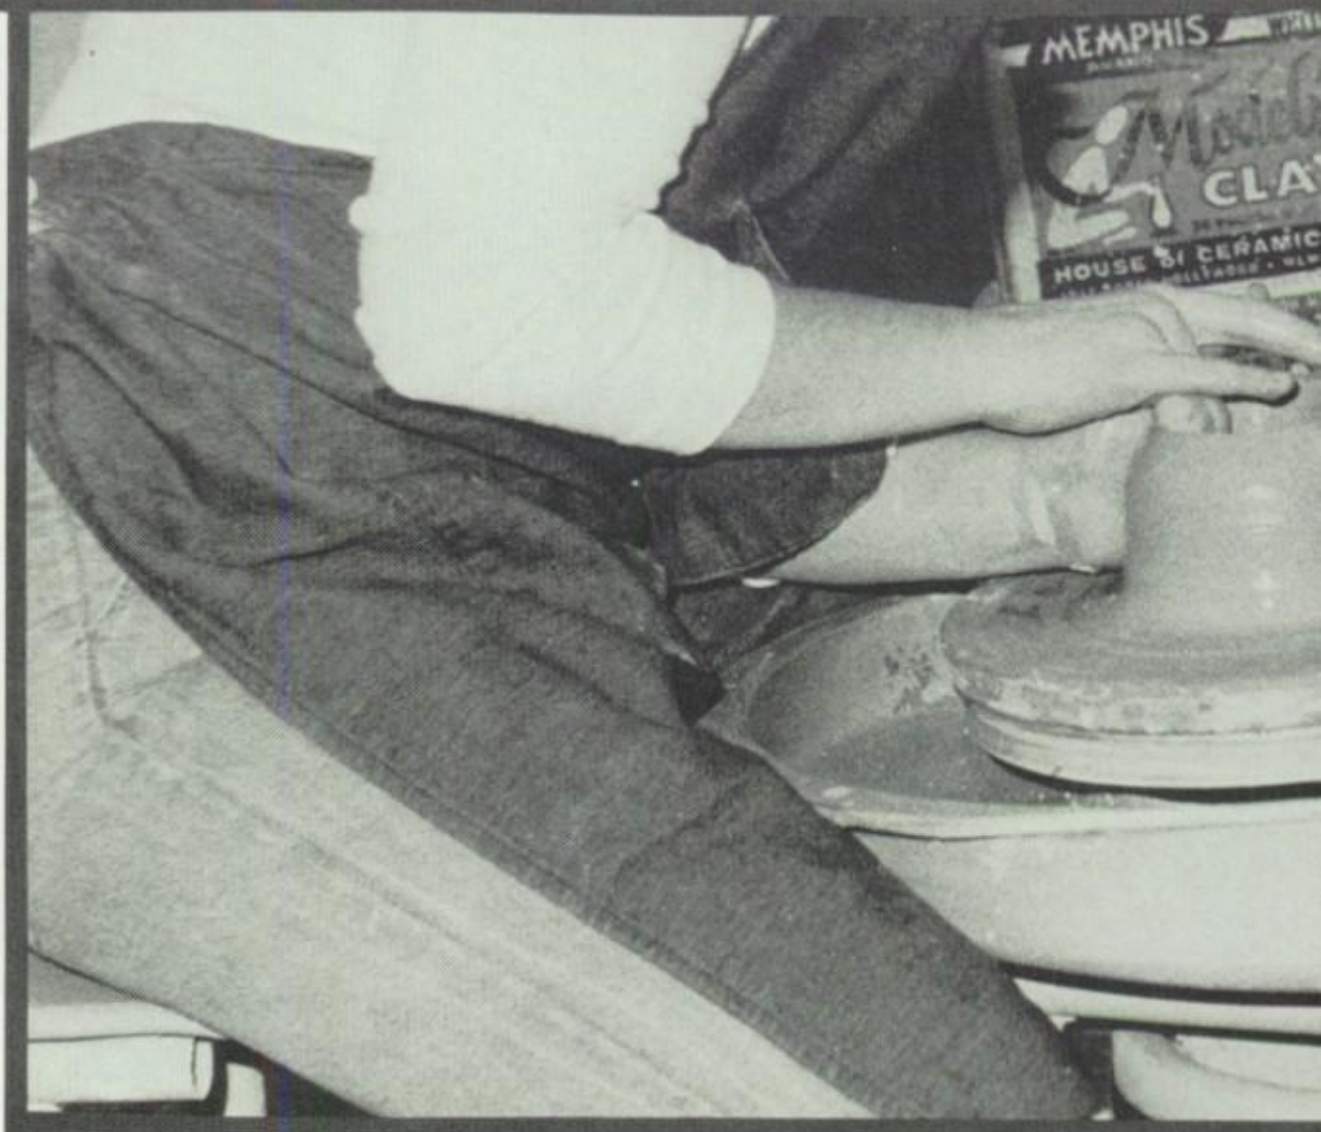

"Each year, I learn more. I learn better techniques and become more confident," stated gym teacher, Marty Malatin. "It's not that the students are friendlier this year, but they do seem easy going and tranquil."

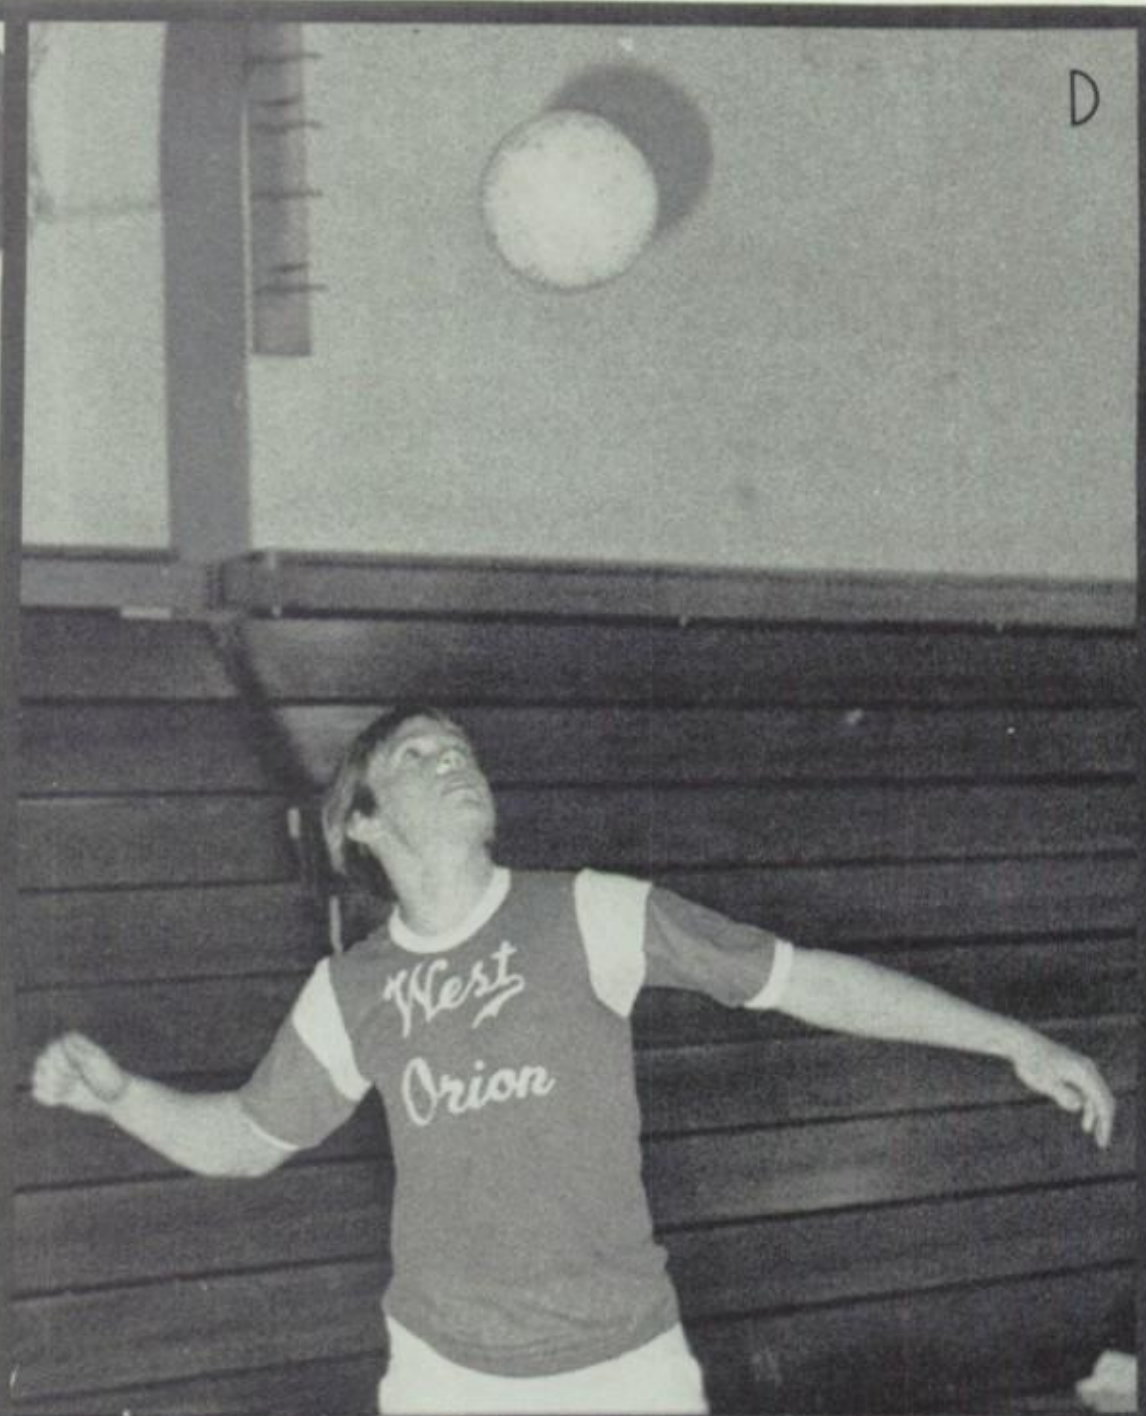

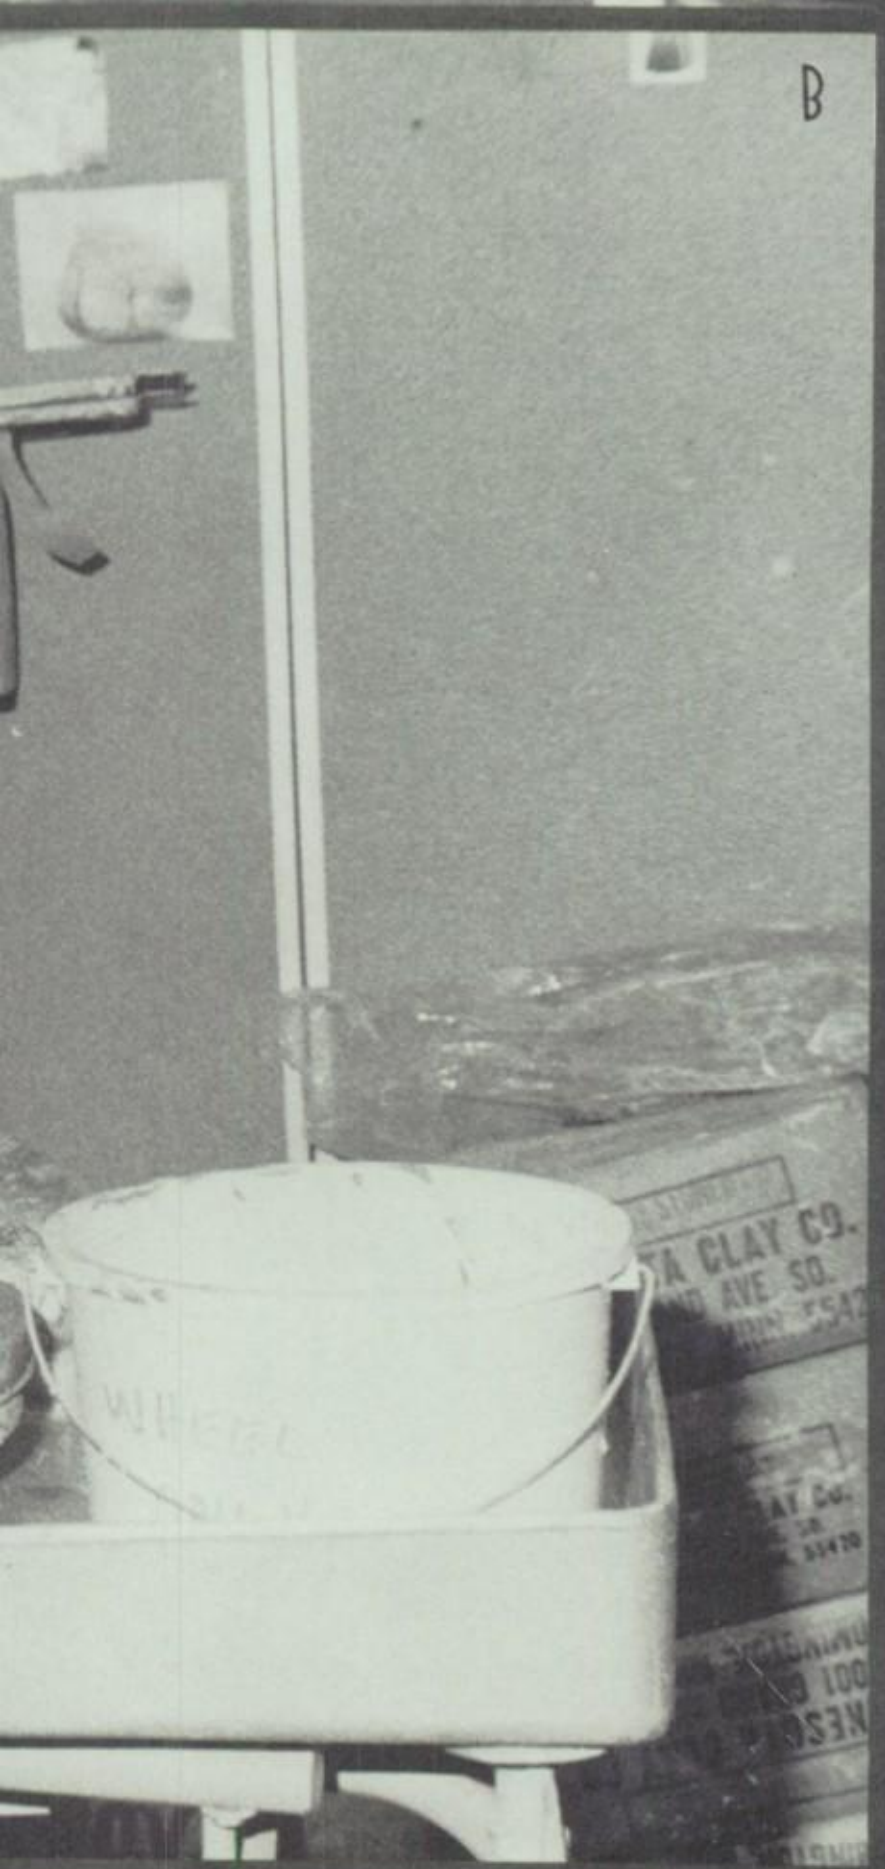

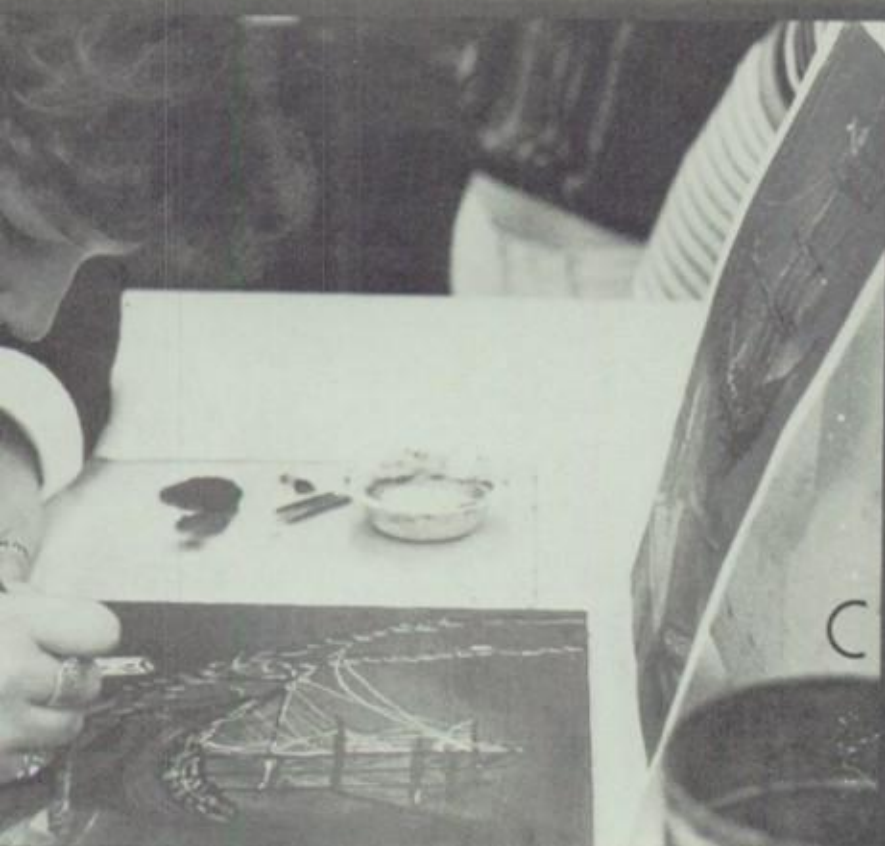

Mr. Malatin felt that his classes and the other gym classes were improving, class participation was up and the teachers were able to try new techniques. He holds an annual "agility relay" in his weightlifting class which added a competitive touch to the otherwise boring agility-exercises.

PARKING LOT, NEW BUILDING OUT-HOAG

As it looked last December, the chances of a new high school, parking lot, and open lunch were slim. In an interview with Asst. Superintendent Mr. Hoag, it was discovered that there were not enough students coming up to fill a second school, let alone the funds. Money for a new parking lot was nowhere to be found. There was also the question of where to put it. Open lunch would not be allowed until the parking lot was fenced and a guardhouse constructed. Then parent and board approval would be given. When would these needs be fulfilled? Not many people knew the answer to that question.

a) Richard Valentine, Leon Verderese, Nancy Vercheuve, Barbara Vest, Robert Weller, Jean Wertenberger, Martha Wojack, Judith Wojtanowski, James Young and a bad day. b) Lake Orion School Board, Jeff Deckebach (special student representative), Don Emeigh, William Fitzpatrick, James Glaspie, Thomas Fisher, Patricia Taylor, James Middleton, not pictured Roger Tyrrell. d) Apartment complexes like this one house, a growing part of the population. e) New buildings or no, there was a constant call for improvements on this one. A malfunctioning locker presents a threat to personal security. f) Lake Orion, one of the few systems in the area that is still growing. g) Superintendent Mundy.

Of all the courses offered here at Lake Orion, shop and home economics are considered by some to be the most practical. Between these two programs a student can accomplish anything from making cupboards to baking cupcakes. The teachers who teach these courses cover a wide range of material, and a student who is serious about pursuing a career further can refer himself to NEOVEC (North East Oakland Vocational Education Center). The courses offered are more specialized and equipped to give students marketable job skills.

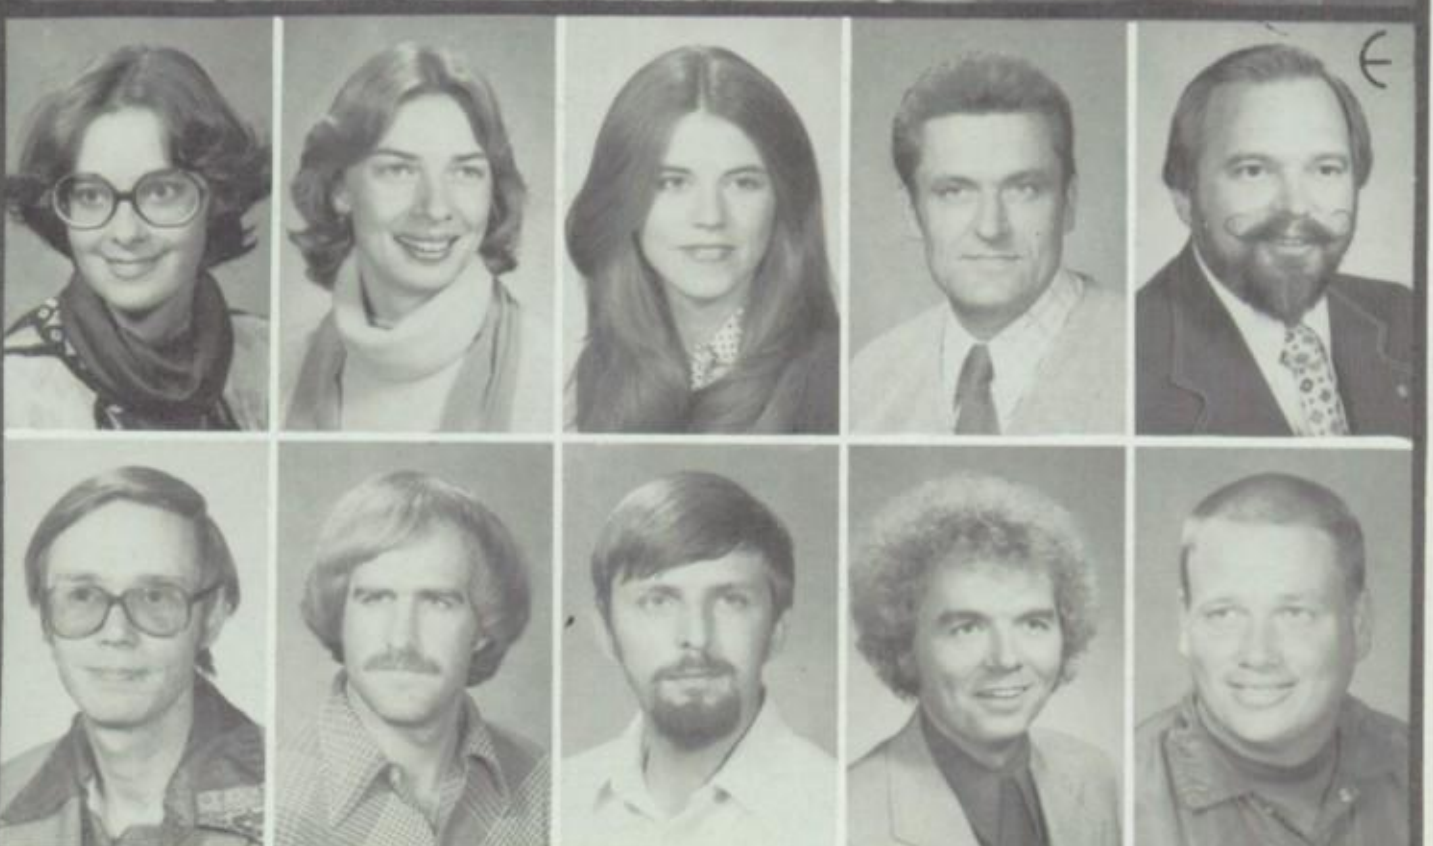

"Most of the students enjoy commuting in order to better their education in this type of field," commented Cal Darbee.

These specialized jobs usually pay good salaries, and students this year were able to check the "Career Information Center" in the Counseling office for job information.

STUDENTS LEARN JOB SKILLS

a) Students learn vocations at NEOVEC. b) Garry Sommers improves his drafting skills. c) Mike Geech demonstrates the correct way to mix chemicals for developing pictures. d) Bob Schrah and Tim McIntyre work diligently in Machine Shop. e) Lisa Fitzpatrick, Sue Fredrick, Peggy Gardener, Donald Griffith, Ernest Gruenberg, James Hansmen, Michael Hatch, Arthur Haynes, Don Hoganson, Douglas Holcomb. f) Teresa Warren sews a fine seam.

"Yuk! hamburgers again!" "Do you have any pizza left from yesterday?!" "That stuff looks like . . ."

Being a cook is probably one of the most unappreciated jobs in the school. But what if no lunch was here when you got here? What if bus drivers quit? Would you walk? If the custodians left, would you bother to stop and pick up that wrapper you just dropped?

Where would you be today without school? Probably home sleeping, partying, or working a job. But have you ever stopped to wonder what cooks, busdrivers, and custodians think of the students? One of the many cooks stopped just long enough to say this, "I've been in the district for about six years, and I enjoy working with the students and teachers, but sometimes I just feel like yelling and screaming at them. In fact, I have before!"

SCHOOL SYSTEM EMPLOYEES SMOOTH ROUGH WEATHER

Now picture a woman sitting behind a desk, surrounded by phones, all of them ringing. Her eyes are glassy and red, her clothes rumpled, and hair mussed up. On her face is a look of utter frustration.

Outside, you can't see past the window because of fog.

This is a scene from a typical foggy day. Confused parents and students call the school to see if it will be postponed or cancelled for the day.

Mrs. Hanna, the switchboard operator, and one of the six secretaries at the high school, says that "zillions of calls come in here on days like that. It gets pretty frustrating too. What's really frustrating is that parents let their little kids call, and they don't know what to say. It's not often, though, that you can get hot coffee served to you at your desk!"

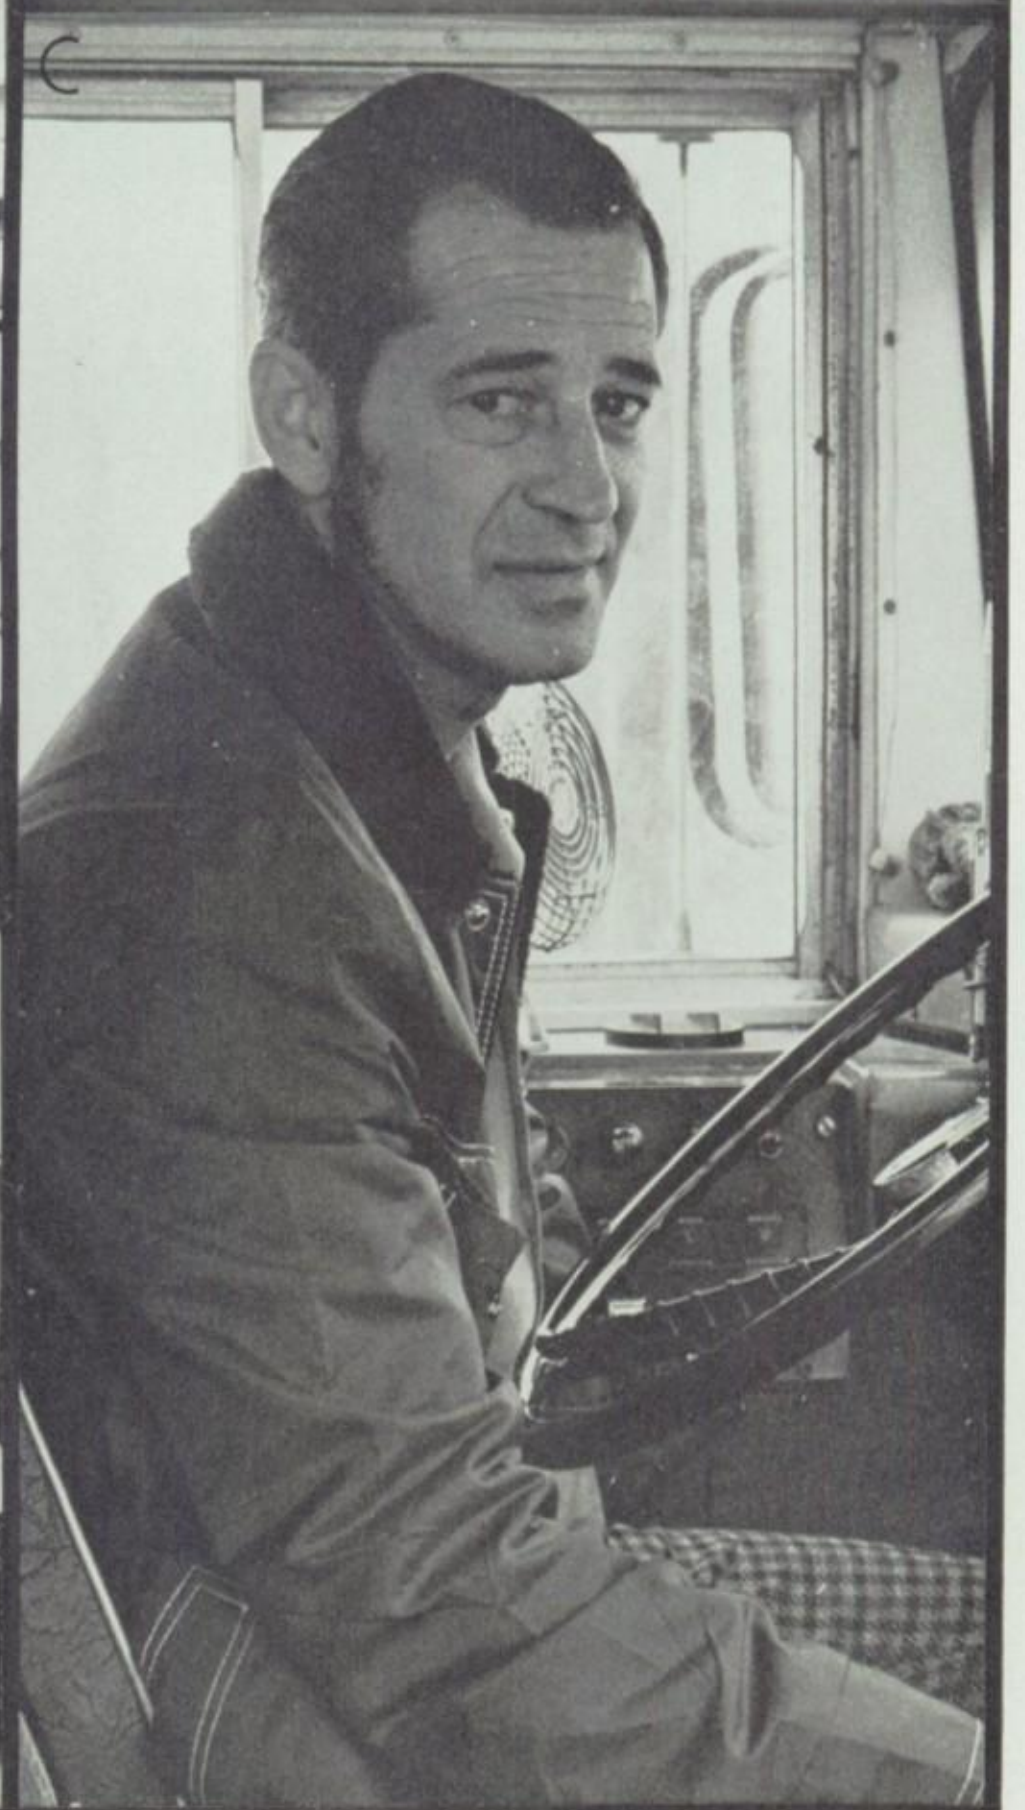

"But I can understand people's problems. Maybe they missed the broadcast on the radio. They have to know if there's school or not. But if I get really busy, you'd better stay away from me . . .!"

She adds, though, that generally she really enjoys her work.

ACTIVITY CLASSES NEED THOSE TEN DAYS

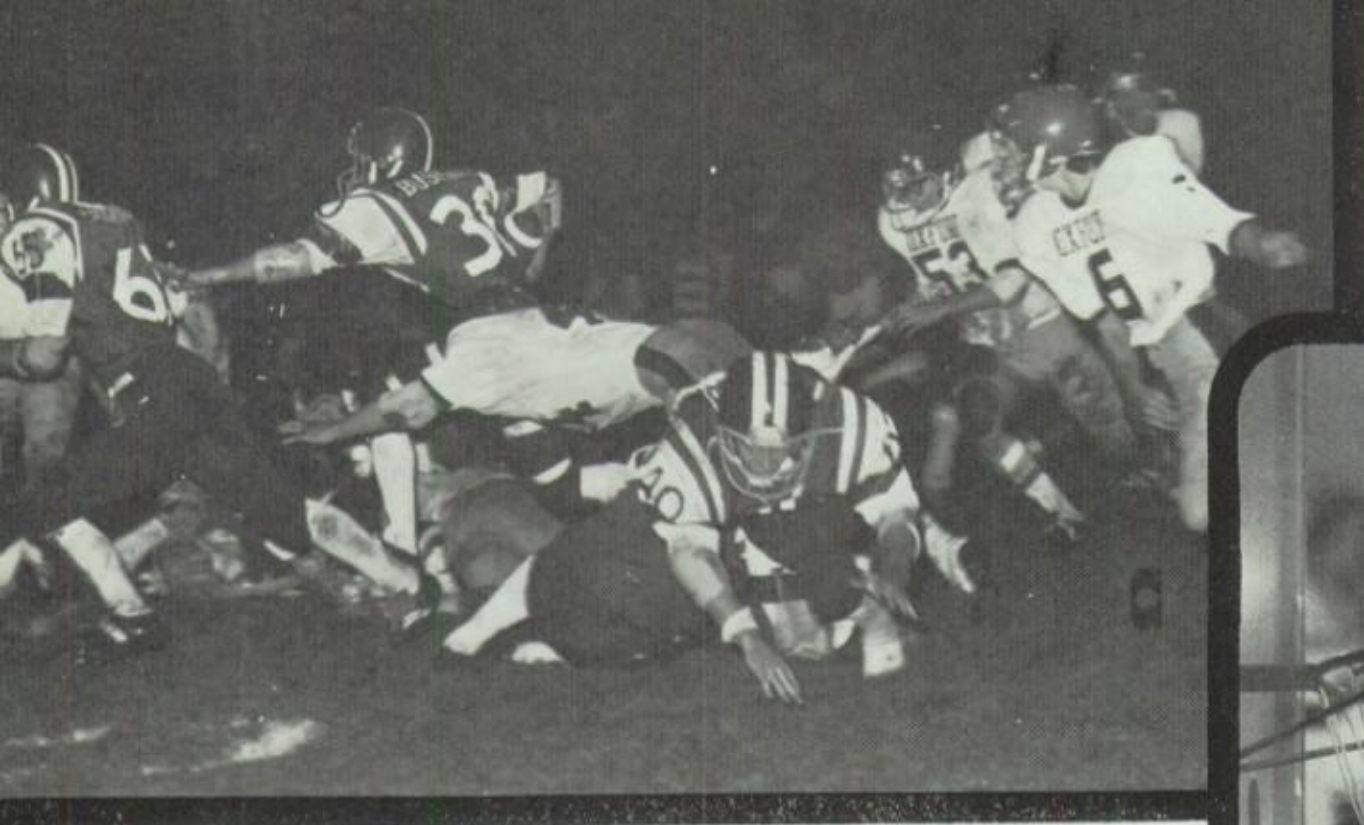

Let's say you've had an activity class, say tennis, third quarter, and your parents decide to take a two week vacation to Florida to escape the snow.

Last year you would have gotten an advanced excuse and would have been able to go. This year, however, when you got that advanced excuse, the office told you that it wouldn't be excused. Nonetheless, you took it around to your teachers. But when you got to your tennis teacher, he shook his head and said that you would fail the class.

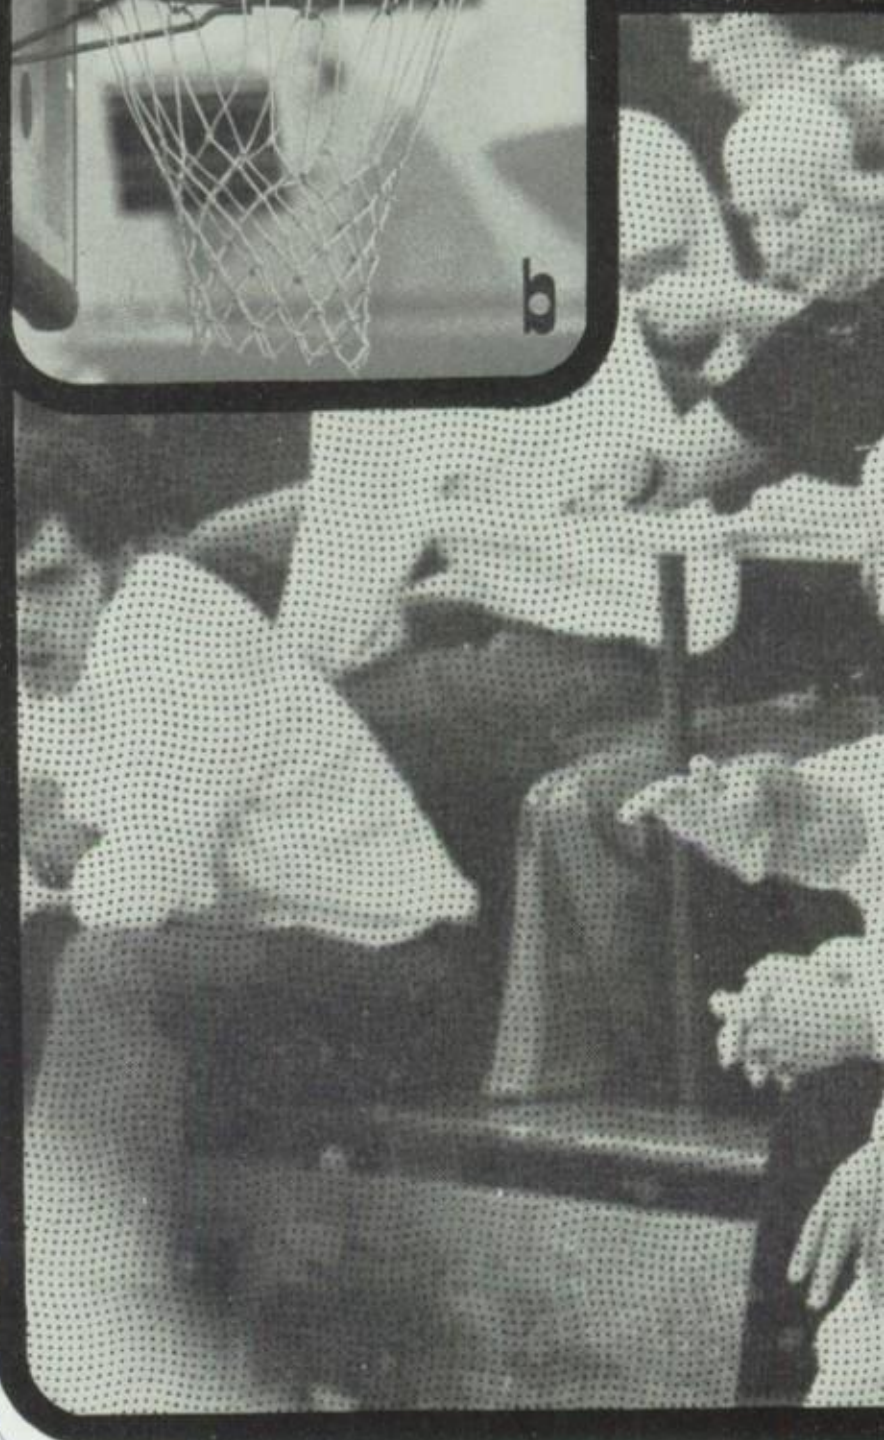

Here's one way which the new ruling about vacations could be summed up. Miss just ten days, advanced or other, and those vital credits can be burned.

a) From left rear to right front, the counseling office girls—Tracy Lindberg, Nancy Smith, Virginia Parker, Michelle Savard, Sue Viers, Peggy Gallaher, Lorraine Thurber, Joni Hauxwell, Sandy Hagen, Ann Poritt. b) The anonymous typist, without whom nothing would get done. c) From left rear, the A.V. aids—Ken Barrette, Chris Jones, Jim Henry, Denise Kobe, Brian MoVety, Roy Gilbert, Guy Caylor, Mike Pelteir. d) From left rear to right front, the library aids—Sandy Herzog, Shannon Robidou, Brenda Ritenbury, Sharlene Dunn, Cheryl Throesch, Chris Keopper, Leah Pace, Kim Paine, Kay Nicholson. e) From left rear to right front, the attendance office—Ann Burt, Vicki Furney, Mary Racska, Lori Hosington, Theresa Walter, Janet Sheffer, Cindy Rice, Laura Hill, Cheryl Fritz, Lori Moller, Mrs. Walters, Karen Rhinehart, Cindy Vreeland, Dawn Letwin, Jeannine Taylor, Pomalu Stone, Lisa Buhl, Annette Line, Bettu Charbeueau. f) From left rear to right front—Tracy Wilson, Patty Mickens, Lori Hutcheson, Linda Gregory, Debbie Strausser, Lori Roy, Karen Upton, Jamie Deal, Jane Delaura, Donna Choike, Carolyn Bonning, Janet Lyons, Carol Leach, Theresa Rodding, Lori Beer, Debbie Dunn, Tammy Wrathel, Linda DeVary, Ann Parker, Cheryl Fleshman, Carol Sims, Theresa Zempel, Nannete Thomas, Mary Koehn.

Again this year each coach hoped to have a winning team, anticipating that each team member would put out his utmost ability. For the golf team, the goal of winning the league title was achieved. Girls Varsity Basketball also did exceptionally well, taking second in the league, losing the Oakland A playoff game by only four points. However, it was more of a rebuilding season for both J.V. and Varsity Football teams. Either way each participant was ready to turn the page toward a new adventure in the field of sports, whether it was to be in college or, for the underclassmen, during another year at L.O.H.S.

Kim, I'm so happy we were able to become good friends over this season. So bad I didn't go to East so that we could meet sooner. But I don't regret going to West at all. Track has been fun this year and you really added to it. Kim, you a super great friend. Thanks for listening to all my long life stories. And of course for complaining and hoo-bling around with all of my, our aches and pains. Let's stay in touch this summer. I love ya alot. We'll get together and go swimming or something. Love-always L.Y.H.A.S. P.M.A.

REGIONAL CHAMPIONS

Breaker Breaker: The "lucky 7" has stricken the 1977 guy's track team. Seven school records were broken. A height of 13'7" was reached in the pole vault by Bob Gibson while Joe Bressman soared over the 6'2" mark in the high jump. Ric Mitchell dashed to the finish line with a time of 2:00.6 in the 880 yard run. Co-captains Eric Maxwell and Ed Hagen impressed us all on the high and low hurdles with times of 14.8 and 38.6 respectively. The relay team consisting of Ric Mitchell, Kevin Davidson, Tim Rock, and Eric Maxwell zipped through the mile relay with an outstanding time of 3:27.6. Paul Loubert doubled his pleasure by breaking two records! Paul amazed fans with distances of 136'9" and 51'9" for the discus and the shot put respectively. The drive and determination of Paul and his teammates won them the title of Regional Team Champs and League Co-champs. Coach Valentine added, "It was the most exciting team in recent years because we had good hurdlers and good field events people. Also, history was made in Lake Orion when Eric Maxwell placed sixth in the State Finals."

RECORD BREAKERS!
GIRLS SECOND IN LEAGUE

As a first year track coach, Mr. Wood had quite a position to fill. With less than one-fourth of the previous Oakland-A championship team returning, Coach Wood pulled them through for a second place win in the league. The girls ended the season with just four losses, six wins, along with eight broken records, and the largest group of girls sent to state.

Cheryl Duggan attended state with a L.O. record time of 16.1 seconds in the 110 yard hurdles. Laura Rose and Jackie Schroeder each clinched two records and qualified for the state meet. Laura ran the mile and the 880 yard run with times of 5:33.1 and 2:27.4 seconds respectively. Jackie threw 102'8" in the discus and 37'1½" in the shot put. Setting three more records for L.O. were Robin Youngquist—220 yard dash, Pam Fix—2 mile run, and the 880 yard relay team of Jennie Golden, Robin Youngquist, Judy Shutt, and Judy Elliott.

Pleased with his first season coaching girls track, Mr. Wood stated, "I liked the dedication and enthusiasm that the girls showed."

LIGHT HITTING. INEXPERIENCE MAKES 1977 A REBUILDING YEAR

Lake Orion's Varsity Baseball ended a lackluster season with their win-loss record standing at 2-17. Just the same, with the exceptions of light hitting, each player put forth his utmost ability. The season was a rebuilding process, and thoughts of being number one in the future were still on the team's agenda.

This year's Junior Varsity Basketball team was somewhat inexperienced but their attitude tended to pull them together. This year's captains were Bill Olson, Junior, and Curt Smith, Sophomore. Coach Gary Newcomb noted, "This team's value for next year's Varsity team will be the time and effort that they put in during the summer to improve themselves. But all in all, I enjoyed working with these fine young men!"

J.V. PROVIDES GOOD PREPARATION FOR V.

"Short of height, the girls battled taller teams all year. They played an exciting brand of run and shoot basketball. As a team they played aggressive defense and improved immensely as the season wore on," replied Coach Gary Kibby.

The girls ended the season with a win-loss record of 7-10, holding successive wins over Oxford, Clawson and Eisenhower.

This year's awards went to Miki Gabriau for Most Valuable, Most Improved to Daleann Blythe, and Best Defense to Reggie Pankau. There were other individual departments such as leading scorer, Lori Golladay, Leading Rebounders Lori See and Jeanette Becker, and most steals to Reggie Pankau.

What the 1977 Softball Team lacked in skill, as one of the youngest teams in the league, they made up for in energy and hustle. With their five wins and four losses, they placed fourth in the Division.

Captains Sheila Decker and Rita Mullins were named Most Valuable Defensive Player and Most Valuable Offensive Player respectively. Along with Kim Duddles, they were named to the All Star League.

As a team, they worked exceptionally well together. One team member commented, "We've got a lot of potential and the future looks good for us."

THIRTEEN proved to be unlucky for the Varsity Dragons of 1977. The "mean green" faced a tough season this year with just thirteen returning Dragons. Only two of these thirteen, Kevin Lamb and Bart Griffith, were starters for the Varsity team of 1976. Quad-captains Dennis Sulisz, Jeff Tait, Kevin Lamb, and Bart Griffith worked with Head Coach Doug Holcomb and Assistant Coaches Marty Malatin and Rob Weller to rebuild this practically new team. This year's Most Valuable Player was senior Jeff Tait while Kevin Lamb received the Leadership Award and Dennis Sulisz clinched the award for Outstanding Line Play. The Romeo Bulldogs, who finished first in the Oakland A, gave Orion its toughest competition with a score of 52-6. Senior Dave Golladay gave fans a reason to cheer as he scored LO's only touchdown in that contest. The 1977 Dragons finished with a record of 3-6, placing tenth in the league. Coach Holcomb seemed very optimistic as he added that "next year's squad should be more experienced and should improve its record."

This enthusiastic group of girls just couldn't say no to opportunities! They found it hard to let anything pass by. During the summer the Varsity Cheerleaders practiced seven hours a day in preparation for camp, where they took a fifth place trophy. In the talent division at camp, Leslie Shook performed her modern dance to "Funeral for a Friend" and was invited to Nationals. The girls then made their comeback at the USCA Grand National Championships where they finished sixth out of eighty-nine teams. They also received the first runner-up award for their pom-pon routine to "Crunchy Granola Suite."

When school started their enthusiasm still carried on. They performed as the "Say Yes" cheerleaders for the United Way kickoff. The team also participated in the Kingston Competition, bringing home a first place trophy in the Varsity Division. Leslie Shook was crowned 'Miss Cheerleader' in the High School Individual Division. Coach Kye Ferguson added, "The girls got along extremely well this year. This can usually be a problem because Orion Cheerleaders work together so closely for so long. I feel they've had a mutual respect for each other as people as well as for each others' skills. They've been a fun team for me to work with too!"

Although they were a young team, Mr. Valetine found the 1977 Harriers the easiest he had ever coached. "They worked hard and gave 100% of themselves." Despite having less natural talent, their cooperation and drive led them through a fifteen win, four loss season and to the North Division Championship.

Leading the team as Most Valuable Runner, Jeff Ziegilbaur also received All League honors. The Coach's Award went to two runners, Mike Geeck and Jeff Dzenski. Scott Parker was named Most Improved Runner. Also recognized was Pam Fix, being the only girl on the team.

Mr. Valentines's praise for his team was equalled by the team's praise for him. One member commented, "He's more of a friend to us than just a coach. He makes us want to work."

JV STILL SHINES ON THOUGH INJURIES PREVAIL

The Junior Varsity cheerleading squad attended U.S.C. cheerleading camp at Waldonwoods last June. They placed fourth in overall team competition, allowing them to compete at the U.S.C.A. National Competition in Lansing where they placed third in the J.V. division. Lake Orion had the only J.V. squad allowed to compete in the pom-pom division. Jill Bullard placed fifth at camp and in the top thirty at the National Competition for individuals.

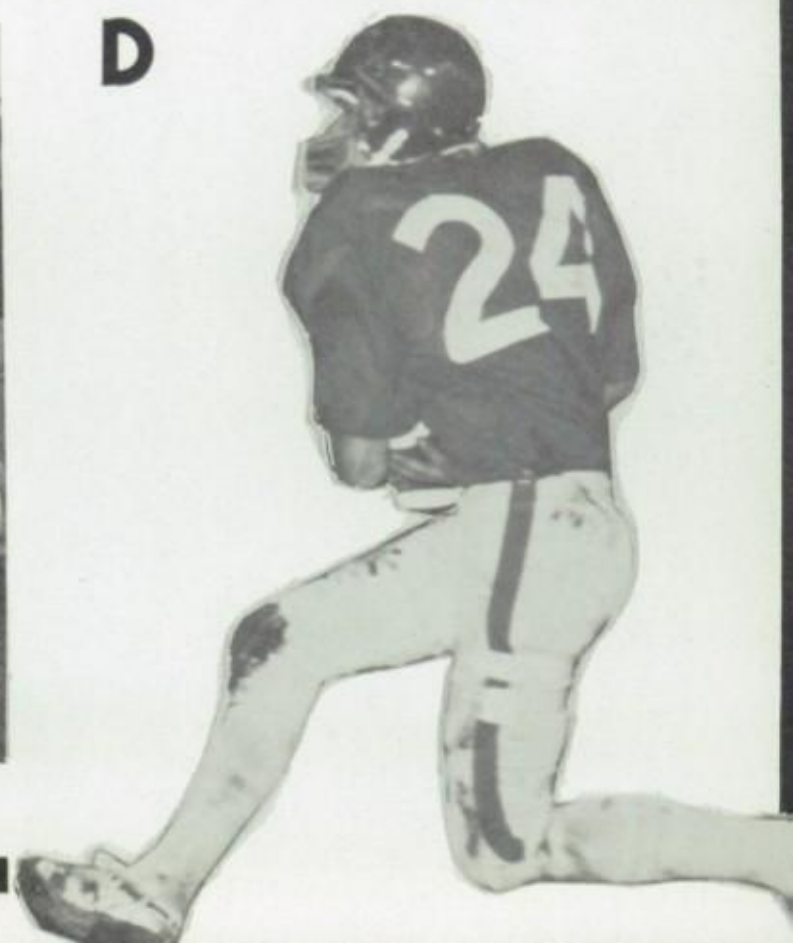

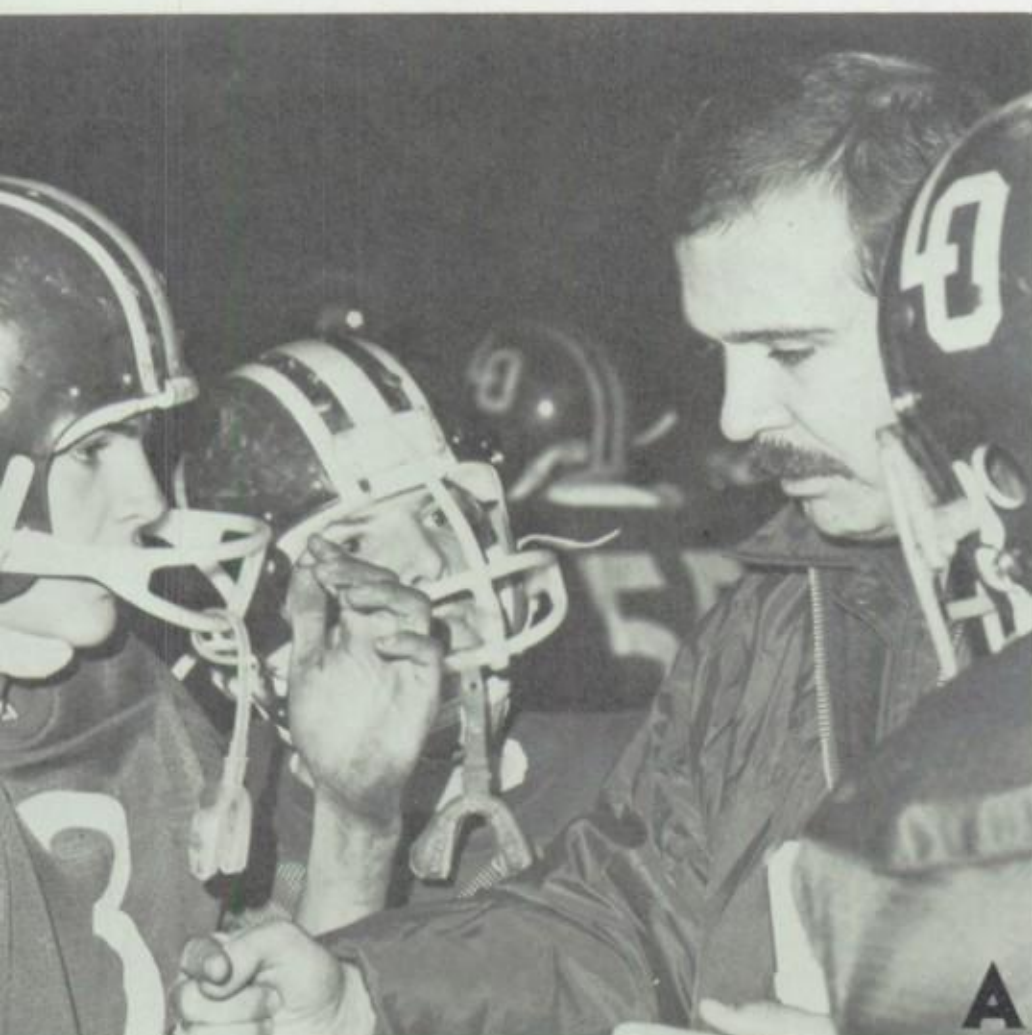

Despite a grand beginning the squad suffered one catastrophe after another. Originally there were eight members of the squad and by basketball season there were only six that remained cheering. One person quit, another broke her ankle, and everyone else had had some ailment or another throughout the year. Although there had been numerous injuries they managed to pull together a mount and to cheer in only two days for the Kingston Competition. Despite all, they were proud to announce they placed first in the J.V. class division.

Second row: Chuck Parrisi, Harvey Allison, Dave Lowe, Don Wrathell, John Bach, Jamie Guinn, Andy Corker, Steve McKinnon, Chuck Skylis. Third row: Rick Helm, Rob Hallock, Mike Berg, Garry Sommer, Greg Braun, Mike Kaddatz, Greg Hammond, Scott Vanderwerf, Mike Baldwin, and Assistant Coach Wojdyla. d) Brian Lamb, who was later moved up to Varsity, carries the ball down the field.

It was more of a rebuilding season for the '77 J.V. football team. Although the record was 1-6-1, the majority of the players stayed with it and tried their hardest. When asked why he went out for the team, Jeff Bossard, M.V.P., replied, "I like football so I went out to improve my skill and to try to get better for Varsity." Most of the team consisted of Sophomores who have not yet had much experience. They had a lot of good times but the record was not too pleasing. With the addition of the sophomores who moved up to Varsity, the team should improve greatly in the next two years.

GUYS DOWNCAST BY LOSING SEASON

The '77 golf team did extremely well this season. Not only did they win the Oakland "A" championship and come in first in the league but they were also undefeated. They set the overall team record with a 19 and Jon Lindbom also tied the back nine record at Oxford Hills with a slim 36.

The home golf course was Oxford Hills but practicing and a few non-league matches were held at Indianwood G. C. C. All of the members of the golf team were seniors this year; most had previously been team members for the past two or three years. The guys really seemed to be a close group of people, always laughing and joking around, but when it was time to approach the tee, all attention was directed to the game of golf. As Mr. Newcomb put it, "They had all the ingredients for success; talent, experience, knowledge of the game, sense of humor, and respect for their teammates and opponents."

a) Bruce Compau, a very consistent player, addresses the ball. b) Carl Stempin, most valuable player and all league attempts to blast it out of the sand trap. c) Making up the '77 golf team are Jon Boyd, Dave Nylund, Jon Lindbom, Bruce Hildenbrand, Bruce Compau, Ty Damon, Greg Brown, Tim Haase, Carl Stempin, and the coach, Gary Newcomb. d) It seems hard to believe that this inch putt counts just as much as a ¼ mile drive. e) Bruce Hildenbrand, Dave Nylund, Mr. Newcomb, Carl Stempin, Tim Haase, Greg Brown, Bruce Compau, and Jon Lindbom gather around the scoreboard after a rewarding round of golf. f) Ty Damon, a Varsity member with good leadership qualities also helped out with the J.V. team. g) Gary Newcomb, J. GOLF SWEEPS OAKLAND 'A' CHAMPIONSHIP

'77' TEAM IS UNDEFEATED

"The Wrestling-Cross Country Cheerleading Squads in the past had some attitude problems. But these girls have the greatest attitude ever and work exceptionally well together," noted Coach Kye Ferguson. This year the cheerleading squad went to camp and placed third. Mary Raczka was one of the many girls included in individuals at camp. She received a first place individual. Every other girl on the squad put their all into getting ready for Nationals, a place where no other Lake Orion Wrestling-C.C. squad had been. The girls did exceptionally well taking a place in the top thirty Varsity squads with eighty-seven competitors.

This year's Girls Varsity Basketball started off with an exceptionally talented team. There were three seniors and only one sophomore, Chris Miller, on the team. The remaining girls were juniors. The girls had an excellent season ending with a win-loss record of 22-2. Sharlene Nally was this year's captain, while Diane Jarvis followed right along receiving Most Valuable Player. This year, Kim Axsom and Sharlene Nally received All League Honorable Mention, followed by Diane Jarvis and Lynda Axsom receiving All League.

After lots of hard work and confusion, the girls placed second in League standings, with Ford number one. The girls couldn't accept this and came back with a first place win in League Tournaments. Each girl knew that next year would be the same as long as the talent still proceeded.

The 1977 girls' and guys' tennis teams had a lot to cheer about as Linda Chadwell, Team Spirit Award winner, will tell you. The girls finished with an overall record of 8-2 and a 3-2 record in the league. This year's MVP Award went to Linda Hudock, while Sue Hagen was awarded Most Improved Player and her sister, Sandy Hagen, received the Coach's Award.

The guys also had a great season finishing second in the league with a record of 11-5. The team also placed first in the Oakland A Tournament, third in the Lake Orion Doubles Invitational, and fourth in the MHSAA State Regional Tournament. Also, this year, five Dragons made All-League: Mike Holmes, MVP; Dave Lychuck, Most Improved Player; Lee Coffman, Carl Stempin, who received the Coach's Award; and Steve Marsac, who broke two records. Steve has had the most career victories and the most career matches played in Lake Orion history reaching totals of 51 and 66 respectively. Girls' coach, Aneeta Brandow and guys' coach, Cal Darbee, are looking forward to next season since a lot of experience will be returning.

"This team failed to utilize their potential because of lack of confidence in themselves. I hope maturity will give them an opportunity to realize their full wrestling growth," stated Coach Malatin of his young team. This year's team was quite unique as there were no three year lettermen and the fewest number of seniors ever. Finishing the season with seven wins and five losses placed the team fifth in the Oakland-A league competition.

Two Lake Orion wrestlers qualified for Regional Competition by placing in Districts. Mike Fallon took first place while Eric Clausen placed fourth. Mike Fallon also broke the record of twenty-sophomore wins by recording twenty-nine wins.

HEIGHT AND EQUALITY

HIGHLIGHT VARSITY B.B. TEAM

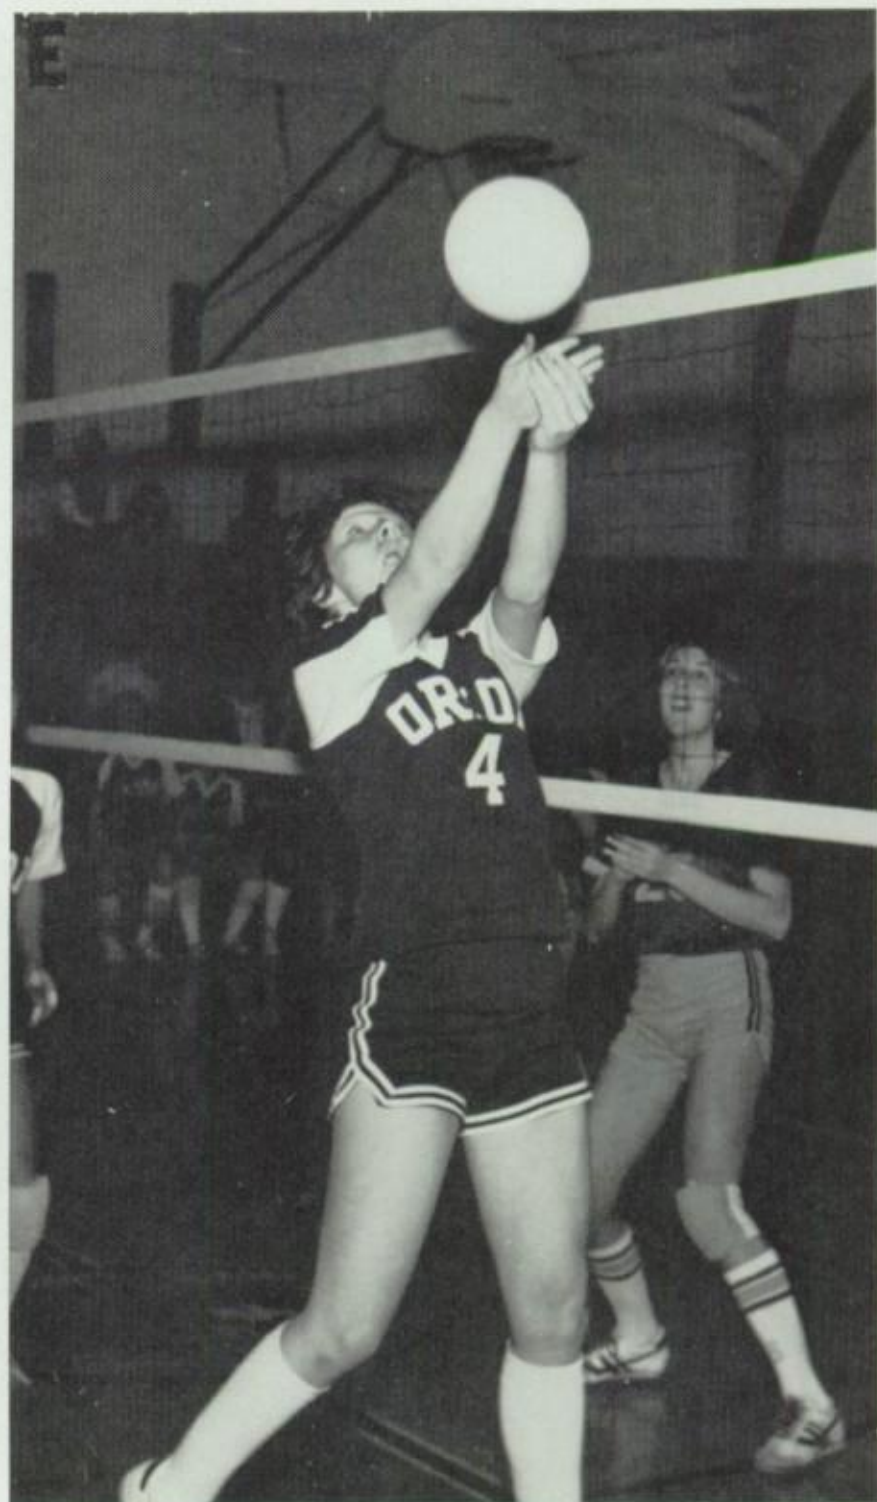

Varsity Basketball's captain this year was Tom Blythe, who was also leading scorer and rebounder with Bret Hall traveling right behind. "The team was the toughest and most balanced. It was made up of half juniors and half seniors," replied Coach Hughes. Many of the guys were of good height, helping move the team on to greater success. The team's mental attitude was good as their physical aspects, all they had to do was put their heads together and obtain extreme concentration.

A.) Senior, Bret Hall, puts forth utmost ability to overcome opposing teams strength. B.) Ed Gillis, Junior, travels down the floor hoping to raise the score two points more. C.) GIRLS SNAP LOSING STREAK

VOLLEYBALL

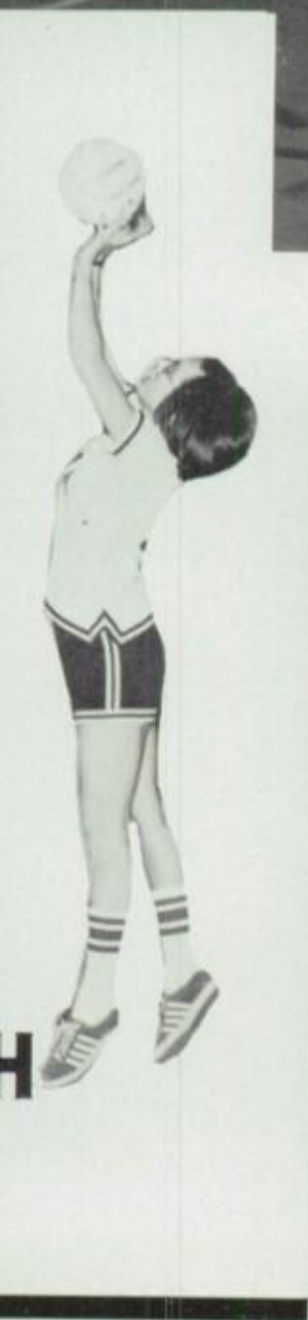

This year's Volleyball team did extremely well. Not only did they get the first win in 2½ years but won most of the games during the season. Claudia Sanchez, an exchange student from Mexico, helped the team tremendously. She had played Volleyball in Mexico for many years. Claudia pointed out that their practices in Mexico were much different than those at Lake Orion. There the emphasis was put on "exercises" while here it is mostly drills and team work. The team seemed to have a very good attitude toward the season. Everyone tried hard and contributed a great deal. During the summer the entire Varsity team attended Volleyball Camp. The outcome was a success and as Coach Mike Hatch put it, "We're good now but we'll be great next year. We'll have the chance to win it all."

Due to inexperience the J.V. team did not do quite as well as the Varsity but they did improve throughout the season.

a) Coach Mike Hatch, Linda Hudok, Lori Golladay, Rita Ambroso, Dawn Peach, Debbie Olson, Kim King, Bonnie Rebel, Sue Hughes, Terry Brown, Micki Gabriel, Chris Daugherty, Kris Miller, Sue Hagen and Kim Zilka, make up the J.V. Team. b) Kathy Mills spikes the ball in hopes of an extra point. c) Micki Gabriel, Lori Golladay, Kris Miller, and Sue Hagen stand on the sidelines. d) Dawn Peach sets up the ball for Sue Hagen to bump it over the net. e) In a game against Pontiac Central, Linda Axson sets the ball to win the game. f) Extreme concentration is an asset to a winning season. Coach Mike Hatch demonstrates this. g) Our star player, Claudia Sanchez. h) Linda Hudok sets it up. i) The 1978 Varsity team: Linda Axsom, Donna Rutt, Kathy Mills, Coach Mike Hatch, Karla Jasso, Kim Axsom, Diane Chapman, Jeanne Edmison, Julie Jarvis, Cheryl Griem, Claudia Sanchez, Diane Jarvis, Judy Shutt, Terese Vezina.

Remember when the Sophomores first came to the High School and got lost trying to find their second hour class? Especially when it turned out it was right next door to the one they had been in the hour before? Or at lunch when they sat down and started to dig into a strawberry shake and the plastic spoon shattered into a million pieces, and they ended up throwing it away? Finally at the end of the day the Sophs thought "five more minutes and we can go home," but what they hadn't counted on was that they had to run up and down the rows and rows of buses looking for the right bus to deposit them at their front door or a half a mile down the road. Oh the problems they faced those first days—months! Later they became more knowledgeable and learned such things as how to operate the candy machine or close a locker by applying a well placed kick of the foot! Experience, that's what it took!

Kurn,
 Remember all the fun we had a Sophomores,
 'cause we'll never
 that we again! Ha! Ha!
 Don't worry too much this summer, cuz we got two more years of this school to get through, and we'll need all the help we can get. Hope to see ya this summer!
 Love,
 Maryann "80"

Kim,
 It was fun running track with you this year, I hope you enjoyed it, because I didn't. Good luck next year. Love,

A: Turn the page...

Rings = $$$

When the time for ordering rings finally came around sophomores got out their combat boots, World War I helmets, billy clubs, and fought the crowd to order them. There were limited choices of styles but the number of insignias and colors gave even more ways to put them together. We had several days to order our rings. The A-M people were still ordering when it was N-Z's turn. One of the days school was cancelled because there was no heat but kids still stayed to order.

a) Soph's now have their own rings to cherish, lose, and to symbolize relationship. b) Mike Berg, John Bach, Dave Grubb, and Mark Mancini like to disrupt the peace and order of the library. Sophs like Brian Bradsher, find they can use the library before school, during study hall or at lunch.

Remember the class officers and committee and all the fun, fun projects the Sophomores devised? What a time they had trying to build the float and then displaying their beautiful dragon head in the parade. How can we forget all the times they tried to win at least one point in the pep rallys and pyramid-building, but to no avail? It was fun anyway because they knew deep down that they tried their best and only lost because they were . . . well, Sophomores. The class of "80" determined to be the "try hardest" class that ever graduated from LOHS.

C'est la vie

Comp. I. Geometry and Biology were three of the more common classes that the sophomores signed up for this past year. If they weren't writing several drafts for a composition or defining that two lines were parallel when a transversal that bisects them had congruent alternate interior angles, they were busy learning the electron configuration of DNA.

Many Sophomores found out this year that high school was a little bit harder than their respective junior highs, but were enthusiastic about the change.

Taking a study-hall also proved somewhat productive this year for those who had a steady supply of spitballs, paperplanes, and rubber bands or for those who needed that extra hour of blissful sleep.

French and Spanish classes were popular classes as well, with their C'est la vie or . . .

Wrong Place, Wrong Time, Once Again!

Having time limits and boundaries was nothing new to the "Class of 80". When they came through the doors of Lake Orion High School on September 6, 1977, no one had any idea what they would be doing in a week or a month from then. There were also the things that hadn't crossed their minds since June, like boundaries such as the parking lot fence. As October began they became accustomed to the 5 minutes between classes and the penalties for showing up at Mac's for lunch. But what fun it would have been, if they had stayed in school all day?

"What do I do next?" was a question asked by many inexperienced sophomore drivers. Everyone told them to put the key in the ignition, put the car in gear and press a foot down on the accelerator. As the Sophs attempted this so-called procedure, however, absolute chaos began. All this was soon obliterated after the nervous and flailing Drivers Ed teachers showed them a few life-saving tips.

In the classroom, the students were instructed to read chapters and were tested. During the class there were movies shown and the Sophs did everything from falling asleep to talking about T.V.

Homecoming Antics

Around the time of Homecoming sophomores got a little pale in the face and had tremors of the body. The reason for this was that the "Class of 78" caught "senioritis." This caused them to go around giving free swirlies, bruised bodies and other antics to anxious sophomores. Shaving cream was hit, toilet paper was in abundance, and the rope and gag trick was an alltime favorite.

Some were kidnapped, taken to Oxford and given 19¢ in pennies. However all the ordinary pay phone requires 20¢, but not pennies, even to call the operator, who was usually the only hope.

This year the antics caused the administration to cancel float building activities. Decorated cars were substituted and sophomores breathed a little easier . . .

No Floats, No Fun

This year was like no other year in the history of Lake Orion High School's Homecoming and its events. Sure there was going to be a game and dance, along with the pep assembly, skits, pyramids, parade and even a theme for the class float. But, was there going to be the traditional float building contest? After many hours of deep thought, debate and votes a "NO" decision was made. Still a question remained: "Would there be a parade and if so, of what would it consist? After many suggestions the Student Council decided on decorated cars to replace the floats. This year's theme was "Burn em up Dragons."

Reggie Pankau and John Bono were chosen to represent the sophomore class during this most unusual Homecoming.

"The math wasn't bad but the English was the pits," groaned many Juniors after finishing the PSAT as they reassured themselves that the ACT, administered April 1, would be much easier.

Juniors seemed to split time between improving the all-important grade point counselors always lectured about, working after school, or loitering at Mac's and Big Boy.

This year tended to get rather tedious at times but classes such as Stenoblock, Neovec, and Co-op, were available to break up the routine.

In what became a tradition, this class proved their Junior spirit superior as they continued to rake in pep points from assemblies and "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," the winning Homecoming class-decorated car.

It's always been said that the middle child has the hardest time; he isn't the pampered baby of the family nor does he have the privileges of the older child.

Here at Lake Orion High, the problem of the middle man—commonly called "Junior" was the extra load of responsibility, including P.S.A.T., S.A.T., entrance requests for college, and pulling off the Prom.

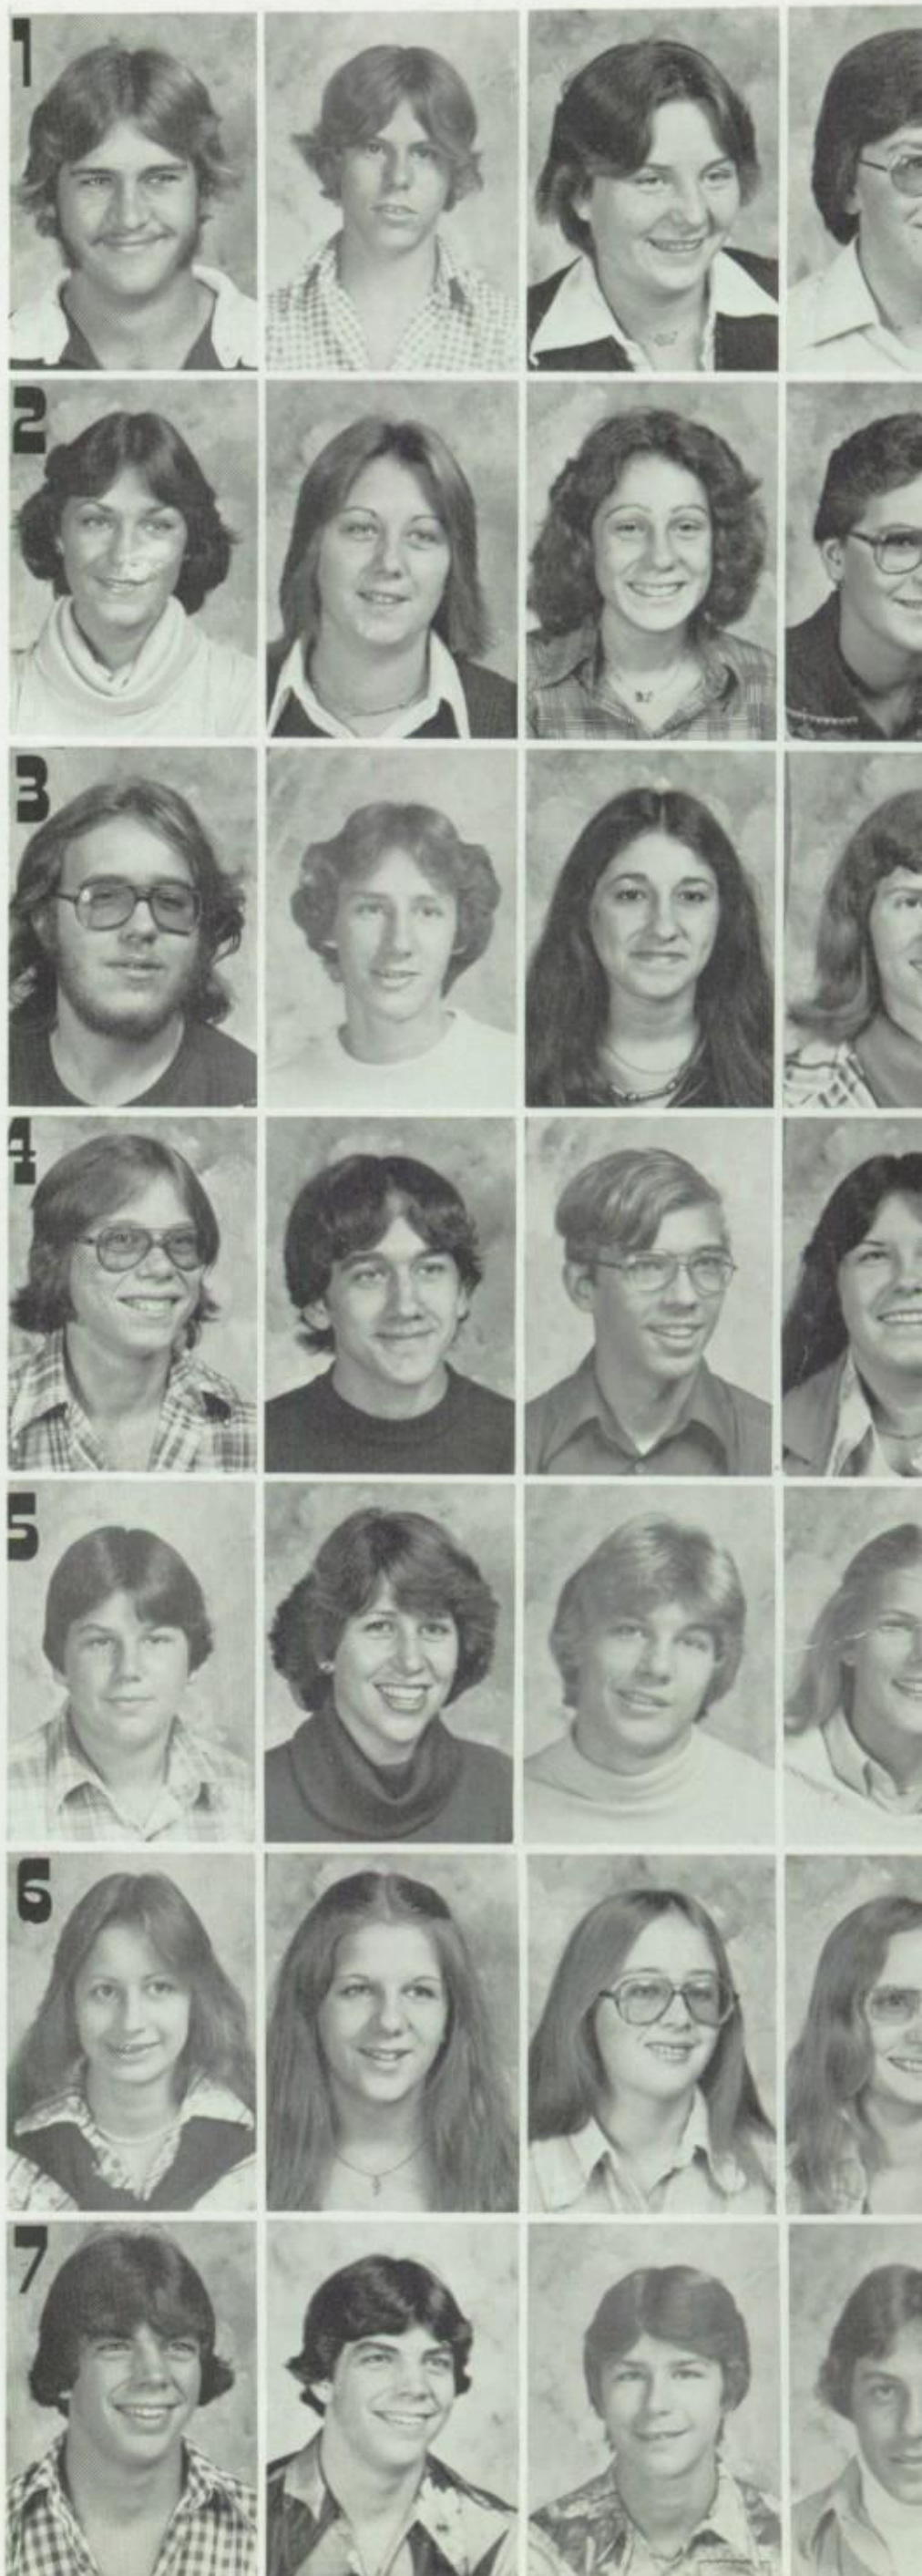

For some it was O'Club initiations by the conniving Senior who, at his whim, would make a fool out of you for life.

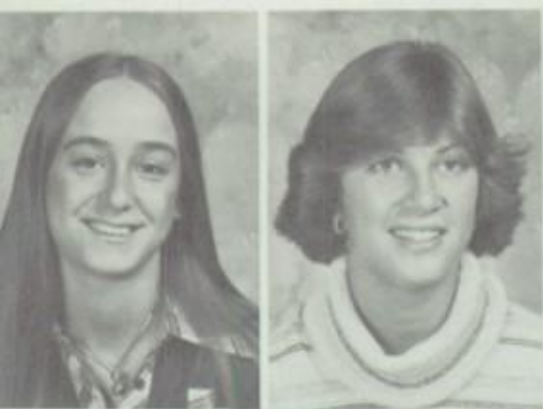

Either way you looked at it, whether it was tests or that pain-in-the-neck-senior vengeance, some days a Junior just couldn't win!

a) Even on some days Juniors, like Bill Olson, can't even succeed in doing a simple task like blowing a bubble. b) Chris Thomas and Mrs. Fredricks discuss his notes in fifth hour Increasing Vocabulary Class. c) Sophomore, Brian Lamb, flashes his charming smile as he displays his test to Mary Trauthwein.

After going through the driver's training course in tenth grade and passing the road test, the lives of the Juniors were more independent and they had a lot more freedom.

On a Friday, in the Junior hall could be heard plans being made for the weekend. "I'll drive tonight," "Let's cruise around Rochester," "I'll see if I can get the car to go shopping on Saturday," or "Are you going to drive to the away game tonight?". Having a license and cruising around had to be one of the favorite pastimes for a Junior.

Being able to drive also meant having to be on probation for one year and paying the car insurance . . . nothing compared to how good it felt to have a license and a car. So you could "Come on and cruise."

"Use No. 2 pencils only, darken ovals carefully and completely . . ." From Iowa Basic Skills to PSAT and ACT we heard the same thing each year.

Lake Orion has had only a modest number of semi-finalists in PSAT competition these last few years. This is attributed to the fact that this school does not have accelerated Math or English courses and because no major testing is given as a Freshman or Sophomore. So although many may have been disappointed when the scores came back, the counselors reassured us that it was good preparation for the ACT given in April, and LOHS scores usually rise to join the rest of the schools in our area.

Of course college entrance exams weren't the only thing that required a lot of writing. Filling out job applications became frustrating when trying to remember addresses and phone numbers of references and previous employers. We certainly couldn't forget writing assignments which included the famous research paper, dreaded essay questions, and reports of all kinds. Whatever the subject, it provided hours of scribbling and re-copying enjoyment to all.

Yell off ignites Junior Homecoming Spirit.

"Push 'em back, Push 'em back, way back" and "This is Dragon Country" were heard throughout the school as spirited Juniors participated in their skit. Mike Fritz narrated the story of how a bunch of Indians took over a 100 yard piece of land called Chippewa Valley in Dragon Country. This started the war between the cowboys, led by Jim Burt, and the Indians but ended when the cowboys let loose their secret weapon, "The Dragon." Then the Juniors used their skill and stamina to try and build the winning pyramid which held up for two minutes, then collapsed. Tons of confetti, Junior banners waving high and loud cheers made it possible for the class of '79 to grab the yell off. Tom Fluent and Linda Fix were chosen to represent the 500 members of the Class of '79 in the Homecoming court.

a) Patti Eldridge and Jeff Mancini boogy to the music of Orion. b) Tom Fluent and Linda Fix, chosen to represent the Junior Class. c) Jenny Golden tops the Junior pyramid. d) While Mike Fritz is narrating, Donna Redding, Julie Elias, Lisa Cole and Darlene Hottmann sit around in their pow-wow as Jim Burt, Nancy Waterstradt, and Debbie Egner plan their attack.

"HOW COME THERE ARE NO FLOATS?!"

It was a chilly night when Lake Orion started working on Homecoming floats.

The Juniors and Seniors had finished an exciting and profitable night, kidnapping the Sophomores and locking them up in a mosoleum up by "Blood Road" but as the elated Seniors walked to their cars, the sound of laughter was replaced by one of dismay . . . cars had been painted.

Sad faces left the library October 24, 1977 after a two hour heated debate of class officers, sponsors, and the administration. The desicion was made; there would be no Homecoming floats this year. If an alternative idea for the parade could be found, it would be considered.

Student Council came up with a suitable substitute; decorating cars, one for each class or organization that wished to enter. The Juniors responded with "Chitty, Chitty, Bang, Bang" which cruised away with first place, making it two years in a row for them.

Handwritten note:
You are a bit strange but I suppose
I would all night.
Have a fun time
with the cars
Good luck

a) Since there were no floats, many hard feelings were aimed at the "unknown painters" of the Senior cars. b) "Chitty, chitty, Bang, Bang" was built from 7:00 a.m. to 10:00 Homecoming morning, by a group of spirited Juniors, who braved the cold and had a ball constructing the flying vehicle.

The Class of 1979 ran into hard times and was cursed with a bad case of non-participation.

At class meetings only a couple of steering committee members and a very small number of interested Juniors would show up. Appearances by the majority of steering committee members were a rarity.

Junior class President Jim Burt commented, "People don't know how much it takes to throw a prom."

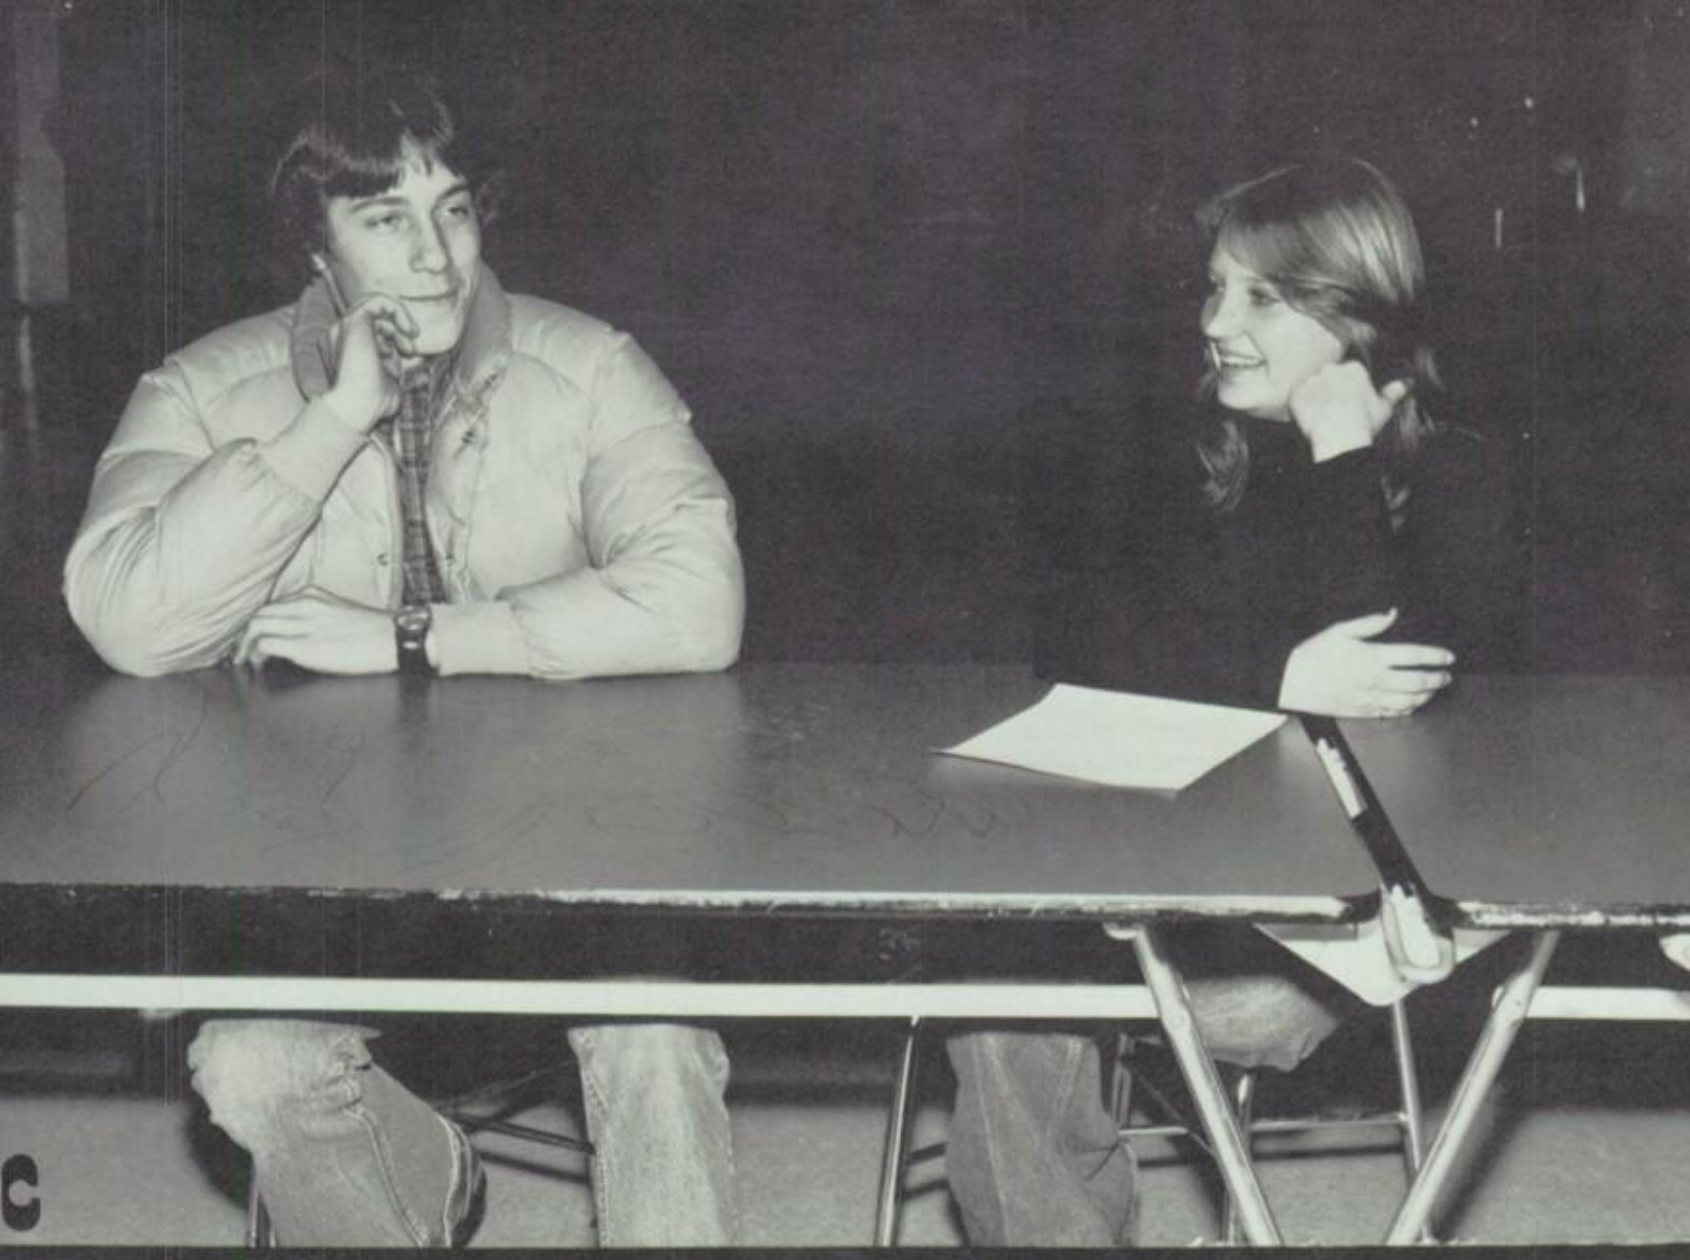

At the end of the first quarter the officers and some interested Juniors had made the first grand, leaving only $4,000 more to go.

a) This year's Junior Class Officers and sponsor found their jobs a challenge. Top; Christy Hoffman—Secretary, Mr. Scott Roberts—Sponser, Louanne Smith—Treasurer. Bottom; Jim Burt—President, Cindy Rice—Vice President. b) Steering Committee members who attended two or more meetings out of 16 homerooms. Bottom, from left to right; Lisa Cole, Perilyn Hoagg, Carol Gray, Karen Williamson. Top; Cindy Rice, Jerry Dwyasuk, Deanne Hilborne, Kim King, Debby Liddicoatt, Jennie Golden, Leslie Thompson. c) Walter Boyd and Theresa Zemple discuss plans for the Junior-Senior Prom, to be held at Roma Hall of Bloomfield.

It was very quiet and everybody was studying in the library when all of a sudden a "snap" and an "ouch" were heard. Over on the other side of the library in the corner could be seen a conspicuous Junior with what appeared to be a super-rubber-band-shooter. Or how many times could you step inside the restroom and see somebody playing the guitar? One could usually count on a Junior doing the darndest things in the darndest places.

During the initiation weeks for girls' and boys' O Club some Juniors were seen dressed up in silly outfits, singing on stage during lunch, or dancing down the hall.

You could almost always depend on a Junior to make the day a bit more rowdy.

LOHS provided a large variety of courses to choose from which could usually satisfy anyone's interest. Twenty years ago there was only one English, Math, History, and Science class offered for each grade so there was no real choice involved. This year there were, for example, 70 English mini courses and all of the curriculum was rated by levels so you could schedule classes that were right for you.

Juniors had some new opportunities including Comp II, Chemistry, Secretarial-Clerical Lab, and Algebra II. For some, Co-op and Neovec was a welcome break from the normal routine of a school day.

A.) Joe Hodak works on his project in Drafting M-II. B.) Jim Menzie removes the flask from the flame in Chemistry. C.) Helen Soldan finishes her OJT in Secretarial-Clerical Lab.

If we ever needed an excuse to get out of something, work seemed to be the answer. Of course it backfired too, like when they scheduled you during a football game, dance or date.

This year SCEPTRE reported that nearly 50% of the Juniors had gotten jobs. We were all sixteen, and except for waitresses, could demand minimum wage of $2.65 an hour. We were protected by the state law which said that no person under eighteen could work more than 48 hours a week, other than weekends, including 35 school hours. But some Juniors still felt over-worked when trying to include homework and sleep, for which there never seemed to be enough time. After our first paycheck we realized just how much "Uncle Sam" really does take out.

Co-op was available to Juniors which allowed students to leave after fourth hour for a job, receive credit toward graduation, and a letter grade according to the employers' review of their work. When McDonalds opened you could see many Junior faces hustling around promoting "the age of fast foods."

Despite the pitfalls, working was a good experience for us and the money was always welcome, with the prom expenses and saving for next year's Senior Trip in everyone's mind.

Although sophomores and juniors anxiously await the arrival of their senior year, those who already were seniors, weren't sure if they wanted to be. The 1977-1978 school year brought on new responsibilities. Senior pictures, graduation announcements and caps and gowns had to be ordered. SAT and ACT tests were taken, college applications filled out, and senior trip deposits made. Through all of the mushy mess and complications, seniors often asked themselves, "Is this what I've been waiting for?"

"Is my hair right? I know I'll take a picture worse than last years. Your pictures are great, but mine are terrible." These were just a few of the many moans and groans heard from Seniors when Senior pictures were taken last August. Naturally, everyone thought theirs was the ugliest in the class and, no matter how much praise was put upon their "photogenic qualities", modestly prevailed.

With the average cost of an order an outrageous $60.00, some class members wondered if the photos were worth it. With the Senior trip, cap and gown, open houses, announcements, and pictures, the Class of 1978 found their Senior year cost them near $500.00. Was all the money necessary to make the Seniors happy in their final year? That was a very debatable issue.

a) Senior announcements are ordered every year from Intercollegiate Press. Many Seniors include their Senior picture and possibly a namecard when sending their announcements to friends and relatives. b) When pictures are passed out during lunch, there is an immediate frenzy among Seniors to get as many pictures from as many friends as possible. After everything calms down these priceless collections end up in photo albums, desk drawers, and wallets. c) Tracy Wallen and Maribeth McIsaac compare collections during lunch.

Spirited Cheering Helps Seniors Grab Pep Points

"Seniors, Seniors, S-E-N-I-O-R-S, '78', '78', '78' ". This was a familiar sound coming from the section of the gym holding the Senior Class of '78'. As in years past, the seniors were fired up and took a marginal lead on pep points right at the beginning of the year at pep assemblies. The class that won the 76-77 pep jug put forth the effort necessary to make it two in a row. Many people participated in our pep assemblies this year to make them different. With a little volunteering from Mr. Holcomb and Mr. Malatin, assistant football Coach Weller good-heartedly received a whip cream pie in his face from football co-capt., Bart Griffith. The "Class of 78" took points for their skit, pyramid, and pep assemblies.

a) The Seniors make sure they are noticed with posters and overall spirit. b) Dave Golladay reveals the secrets of the 77-78 Homecoming court. c) Penny Gladstone, Lori Moller, and Lynette Herbert wait for the decision on the winners of the yell off. d) The Dragon joins costumed Seniors working for pep points. 3) The reason for the pep assemblies were to support and cheer on our teams.

What, no Mr. Hatch? Who then will be the Senior class advisor? The Class of 1978 continued to have co-advisors with the new librarian, Miss Wojtanowski, taking on half the load.

Miss Wojtanowski was a media specialist at Bishop Foley High School which entitled her to be around students and to learn their ways. To aid in her student advisor experiences she also was a sponsor of three clubs at her old school.

Asked if she could compare sponsoring a class to a club, she replied, "Not really. A club has a few people in it. Classes have many people in them who care and take time to make them work."

She enjoys working with the seniors. She feels Miss Wertenberger has helped her immensely by always keeping her up-to-date on what happens with the officers and the school.

a) Miss Wertenberger and Steering Committee work close together to get things done. b) Returning President Michael Daugherty, Vice President: Sue Hart, Secretary: Denise Kobe, and Treasurer: Cheryl Duggan take time to communicate with Miss Wojtanowski, Senior class co-sponsor. c) Co-Advisors Miss Wojtanowski and Miss Wertenberger discuss the mix-up on the T-shirts sold by the Senior Class.

Seniors promote only the best

In keeping with last year's fund raising tradition, the Seniors still had their cartoon festivals offered to the Elementary students.

"A dance?" It's about time!" Seniors knew this and held it in December with the returning prom band, "Eastwood Park" which cost $300 a show.

Without the big expense of a prom the Seniors could take it a little easier.

But of course there was the Senior Banquet and the flowers for everyone at graduation. If enough money was left the class would then leave behind to the school a gift of some sort.

a) Lyn Cole stays late to clean the remains from the pop-corn machine. b) Jeff Dechabach escorts children into the cafe to watch the Cartoon Festival, which has added many pennies to the account. c) Donna Stewart receives her stuffed animal from Sue Veers for selling $6.00 in magazine subscriptions while Joni Hauxwell waits patiently for the other awarded prize of a gigantic slow-poke sucker.

Homecoming Breaks from Past Traditions

People are always looking for variety and the 77-78 Homecoming sure found it. Traditionally people look for Homecoming floats to bring in the spirit. However, following tradition again, many students aided the other classes' floats causing more damage than in the past. This caused the float contest to be cancelled. After some discussion it was decided that the organizations would decorate cars on the day of the parade. After the parade, was the contest of the Dragons vs. Chippewa Valley, which was won by the home team. There was the traditional Homecoming dance though featuring "Orion", during which Vicki Spencer and Bart Griffith shared the King-Queen Dance. All of this began with the big kickoff pep assembly on the Friday before the game. The Senior kit took a point along with two others taken for the pyramid and the spirit throughout the entire pep assembly.

Senior Privileges: Late to Rise, Early to Leave

Remember how you couldn't wait to be a senior because of all the privileges you would receive? The time arrived so quickly and most of the seniors took advantage of the opportunity to get out of history, math or any other class, two minutes early or, in order to get another hour of sleep, took an excused first hour.

Students had many other advantages in their senior year. For instance, though some might not refer to this as a privilege, U.S. Government and certain other classes were something that only seniors could participate in.

Also one day that every senior looked forward to was their senior skip day, an excused day when seniors had a chance to do what they wanted, whether their idea of a perfect day was to go to the beach, to catch up on swimming or going to an all day party.

Junior Miss 78 - Cathy Lebow

After four weeks of practicing, worrying, and waiting for a final moment behind the stage before the curtains opened one last time, 24 girls found themselves saying they were relieved, but sad that Jr. Miss '78 was over. The girls had learned a down home-country dance routine as a group and an individual talent. The dress rehearsal the night before the pageant lasted from 6:30 to 12:30. Then came the day they were waiting for. Everyone came in the room reserved for them at Jr. High West chattering, mostly out of nervousness. Then, after many hours of worry and performing both individually and in groups, the curtain opened and the audience and judges would see the girls in evening gowns, holding carnations for the last time. The awards were given and they were as listed below: sitting (left to right): Tracy Wallen, 2nd runner-up; Cathy Lebow, Jr. Miss 1978; Connie Garland, 1st runner-up—Talent award; standing, Laurie Mayes, 3rd runner-up; Mary Raczka, Miss Congeniality.

Who said partying was getting high? Though some enjoyed this phenomena, some fans of the natural life enjoyed good music and a can of Pepsi as well. Many people had fourth and fifth hour "parking lot" while others would cringe at the very thought of having a can of beer. Therefore, it's hard to say just what partying is.

During the senior year of the Class of '78 there were many reasons to "party". There

a) Some students like to party before, during or after school. Over one-hundred and twenty five seniors returned to LOHS as one senior put it, "as either a jigaboo or a lobster" following Easter vacation. The dark-tanned graduates-to-be invaded the school bragging about their walks down the beaches during sunset with the cool ocean waves rippling over their piggies or how tender and juicy that steak was at the poolside cafe. The Bahamas offered such luxuries as glass bottom boat rides, deep sea fishing, and for the daring, scuba diving.

Dark sagging eyes were flung open when roommates helped their friends wake up to a bright cheerful morning by playing "One for the money, two for the show, three to get ready and four to . . . SPLASH!" Being allowed to act like an imbecile, croak your friends, take 3 A.M. dips, and collect sea shells made this Easter Vacation worthwhile compared to the other twelve spring breaks which preceeded the Senior Trip.

Roma Hall Wins Prom Decision

On the night of Saturday, June 3, the place to be was Roma Hall of Bloomfield. The tradition of Pine Knob and even Main Event was once again broken as the junior-senior prom was held at Roma Hall. Juniors, seniors and their guests swayed to and fro and boogied all about to the music of "Take Five".

Since the Junior class traditionally has had the obligation of paying for the prom, last year the class of '78 worked ambitiously to achieve the goal, but this year they could just peacefully relax and let the Junior class of '79 take over.

a) Donna Keehne attempts to figure out just how she's going to tackle her Senior Math assignment. The blank look of Seniors who took Senior Math is a more familiar sight this year. b) The movies in the cafe are not the most luxurious, but the price is right. Therefore, films like "Tommy" and "The Other Side of the Mountain" are great successes for the Class of '78. c) Rebecca Bourgoyne reaches for a source in the library with hopes of finding that last piece of needed information for Comp III. d) Buttons Club members are all Seniors this year. Members are: back row; Kristi Garcia, Cheryl Duggan, Michelle Ranville. Center row: Becky Boyd, Karen Upton, Vice-President, Anne Porritt, President, and Joni Hauxwell, Treasurer. Back row: Sandy Hagen, Secretary, Diane Caylor, Helen Pender, Mary Raczka, and Ms. Peggy Gardner, advisor. Buttons helps families during Christmas and also helps with other beneficial community projects.

The Class of 1978 has come and gone and its accomplishments were many. The Seniors began showing movies in 1975 and the project was so successful they continued them through the end of this year. Among some flicks shown were "Tommy", "The Other Side of the Mountain" and "The Deep". The Senior trip was chosen to be Freeport, Bahamas to the surprise of many. It turned out to be the largest ever from this school. This was the class that charged for the prom for the first time. About the only thing this class couldn't pull off was good-looking Homecoming floats but they still won the pep jug. It was always evident at the end of a quarter that a Senior was near when cries of sadness could be heard because research papers were due. The Class of '78 did not follow the rules of tradition.

College: Exciting or Unbearable

ACT, SAT and applications. What comes to mind when these words are heard? Probably college, right? These were a few steps that were taken before senior was able to go to college. For a senior, attending a college was going to be a big step. Of course, the decision of which college to attend had to be made. The answer also depended on grade point averages. Learning how to do things on your own would be a major point when going to college, whether attending a nearby university or living on campus. At college there are no teachers or principals who push students to finish homework or give punishment for missing a limited number of days. If you fail while in college it is completely your own fault. Another factor about living on campus is learning to live and cope with roommates. Then there is also the problem of leaving your home and family. For some, college can be a worthwhile experience, but for others, a intolerable duty.

a) When a graduate goes away to college he or she stays in a dorm and experiences campus living. b) One of the most difficult steps proceeding college is registering classes because the classes you want might be full and you have to find a class to put in its place. c) In order to prepare themselves for college taking ACT and SAT tests are a necessity for high school seniors. d) Anyone of the counselors are more than willing to help students to plan their college futures.

Graduation: A New Experience, an Old Tradition

Although the custom of graduation has become a tradition, Seniors anxiously looked forward to their new experience for a long time.

Finally, a small piece of paper enclosed in a folder would account for all of the pain and anguish involved in research papers, Chem worksheets, and social science projects. The many nights with four hours of sleep and the hours spent after school were all accounted for.

As usual, speeches were delivered by Mr. Joe Duris and the Valedictorians and Salutatorians. To carry on with tradition, class flowers were distributed by class President, Mike Dougherty and Vice-President, Sue Hart.

a) Brenda Elias delivers the traditional valedictory. Debbie Edwards accepts her diploma with a cheerful grin. c) The graduates, after receiving their diplomas, raise their class flowers to the sky.

To whom it may concern: The class of 1978 would like to give a special thank you to the staff and faculty at Lake Orion High School.

Many of the students feel that with out special help from various teachers they could not have found a field of employment or a scholarship. To those people Seniors give a special thanks.

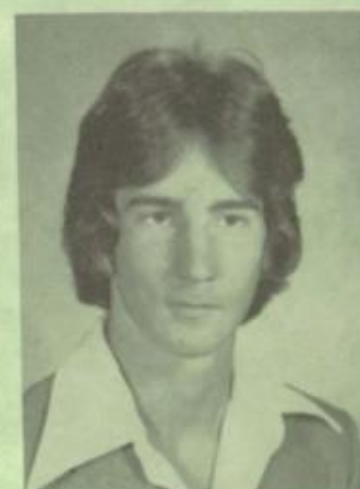

Of course there were also those times that had to be spent in the hall, after school or in Mr. Kinser's office, but those problems were soon forgotten as graduation approached.

There have been many people in the students' lives who have helped them grow. . . parents, friends, teachers and even strangers!

To you, the faculty and staff at L.O.H.S., the Seniors salute you. We just hope we have left memories imprinted in your minds as you have in ours!

Sincerely,
The Class of 1978

At Last, Relief

Although students have traditionally procrastinated about attending school, seniors found that where tests may be boring and frustrating, the remaining five minutes between classes, lunch, and extracurricular activities can make or break your school years. At last, we had our chance to plan our future whether we decided to work, play, attend college or settle down and get married.

a) Shawn Nally carries the football for a 12 yard gain at a home game against Troy Athens. b) Cat Lebow awaits the judge's decision as to who will receive the pep points. c) Group A of the Junior M contestants perform a country dance routine. d) The last week of the school year seems quiet and empty due to the absence of seniors. e) John Gilb dances around before winning his match by decision. f) Center: Cheryl Duggan fills up her senses with the fragrance of our Senior Class Flower. Becky Boyd and Tim Duddly pose cheek to cheek during the Football Homecoming dance. h) Steve Watts watches a dime and a nickel fly into the trash compactor while dumping out his trash. i) Judy Pennela fills out an application to Michigan State.

Hi Kimm, I just got to know you this year and I'm glad I did. You've really helped me a lot in Spanish as well as track. I don't think I would have ^{ever} been able to keep up with it without all your support. Thanks. Next year maybe I'll be able to help you with something. I hate writing these things because I never know what to say and what I do say sounds corny. Next year I'll draw you a picture of something. Good luck over the summer and don't forget to run 2 miles everyday!

Ha I bet you!

Rebirth is the work that best describes the controversial changes in Orion's business district this year. Despite objections by more than a few, Orion now has not only a K-Mart, but also a McDonald's and a Burger Chef. The fading downtown district was revived by the addition of new stores and restaurants. This renovation of Orion's commerce also created many new job opportunities for the students. Students had more jobs and more money to spend, with most of their expenditures in the Orion area.

As the downtown flourished, the daily shopping turnout increased noticeably. With more stores and products to choose from, Orion consumers were much more willing to shop downtown which pleased Orion merchants.

Orion goes Hollywood

Each day hundreds of people drive through Lake Orion on their way to work, to go shopping or to visit friends. They know nothing about Orion. To them Orion is just another town, but we are unique. After all, it isn't every small town in the U.S. that plays host to a major Hollywood film crew. Maybe you didn't notice or hear about it, but several scenes from "The Betsy" were filmed right here in Orion. The movie is based on the novel by Harold Robbins about politics and intrigue within the auto industry. One of the scenes filmed here was a car chase on M-24 and E. Scripps Rd. The First Baptist Church, Junior High East and the high school were all in the footage shot on Scripps Rd. Another scene was a car crashing into a roadside lake that was filmed at Bald Mountain Recreation Area.

Where is Square Lake going ???

Where's Square Lake going? Why is Square Lake disappearing? These were questions that began to be asked in June 1976 and are still being asked today. Experts were brought in to find out why the lake was losing so much water. The lake had dropped four feet by December 1976, and was expected to drop three more feet. After much time and explanation, the canal area was blamed by some for the drop. The canal area, a system of channels between Square Lake and Lake Orion, goes through a new neighborhood, creating new lakefront property. People living along Square Lake are afraid that soon there will be no more lake, thus devaluing their property and threatening life-long housing investments.

Sailboats & snowmobiles interest area

Look at that sleek boat! How fast is he going? These were questions being asked at the Annual Lake Orion Boat Races during the summer of 1976. The races attracted many people and brought out some of the faster and more beautiful boats. While the boat races were going on, snowmobile enthusiasts were busy getting their machines ready for the January races. Their suits also had to be checked because of the frigid temperatures. So overall, Orion Lake was a very busy lake and many people witnessed "the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat."

Farming vs. Industry

Lake Orion, a growing community, has had a steady increase of industry and a reduction of farming. In the last ten years, Orion's industry has steadily increased 85%, but its farming has decreased to a mere 25% of what it formerly was. In the last year fifteen new businesses have begun. Two major reasons were cited for the parallel. The primary reason for a decrease in farming is increased production costs which have decreased farmers' profits. Orion, however, was beginning to grow and needed land for building houses and shops. The farmer then sold his land to developing firms which were offering him an acceptable buying price. By doing this, he also increased the amount of commercial industry and decreased the amount of farming acreage. This trend has been continuing to the present day. In the future, Orion's businesses are expected to increase to serve the growing population, but its farming may become non-existent.

a) Is this to become Orion's future? The ever-increasing industry may bring about this future change. b) Orion's decreasing farming is typified by the condition of this and many other farms like it. c) Donelli's, 2275 S. Located on the northeast corner of Joslyn and Greenshield, the two story building opened on February 3, 1977, replacing a small one story structure on Lapeer Road. Great blizzard of '78 paralyzes Lake Orion

It wasn't a weekend, but the halls were void of any activity for it was one of Orion's "snow days." School had been called off because the bus routes were too dangerous to risk transporting students.

"We have three to four snow days a year," according to Mr. Duris, "and an average of two or three fog mornings." These days are decided by transportation supervisor Del Milbocker with the help of Assistant Superintendent Jim Hoag. They start driving the roads around three o'clock in the morning checking for ice, drifts, and fog.

It is the Oakland County Road Commission's job to clear the bus routes, and they spend about 5,000 dollars an hour to clear the county and state roads in the area. Over 215 salt trucks and plows are used by the O.C.R.C. to prevent school closings by making the highways safe.

Will LO's water continue to come from LO ?

Remember the ageless schoolboy tradition of painting the rival school's town water tower? Well the tradition is alive and well in the Lake Orion area. Our own tower has recently been renamed "Oxford Seniors." The culprits are still at large, but there is little doubt as to their place of residence. Lake Orion's water tower has been the main source of the town's water for many years, but may soon be torn down if a proposed plan to bring in water from Detroit is adopted.

New post office to serve Orion

Lake Orion has a new post office. Due to the fact that the postal employees handle about 25,000 pieces of mail a day, the new post office added over 7,000 square feet of needed space, because the employees and machines left no room for expansion. In the words of Postmaster William Bonning, "If one person coughed, the entire crew came down with a cold. The new location was, however, quite a disappointment because it is too far north of town." The post office has a crew of thirty persons in jobs ranging from clerk to superintendent of postal operations. The postmaster asked that people remember a few helpful tips: 1) package with tape because strings clog the machinery, 2) place the return address on the front of all mail to facilitate quick return, and finally, 3) show courtesy to your mailman; he carries words to you from around the world.

Preserving FASHION is our Business

Students have mixed feelings about Orion expansion

McDonalds! K Mart! A&P! Burger Chef! Orion House! These were some of the new businesses constructed in the Orion area sending Lake Orion on its way up the economic ladder.

Many students foresaw the future of Orion with hopes of expansion while others were happy with the "country form" and felt it should be left alone. Seniors Meg Godwin and Jeff Deckebach stated that "Orion will be like another Troy or Birmingham in ten years—really rich!" Another Senior, Bruce Compau, suggested that "DOWNTOWN will eventually be the area surrounding M 24—beginning with K Mart."

Rumors also concluded talk of the construction of a SECOND high school due to the increase in student population. Movie theatres, swimming pools, fly-in subdivisions . . . all were rumored to be part of Orion's future.

If the winters in our area continue to become progressively worse, the Oakland County Road Commission will soon face an impossible task. In 1976 we suffered through the worst ice storm in Michigan history as transportation came to a grinding halt. Even worse was the winter of '77, one of the coldest ever, and the county spent nearly half-a-million dollars on salt for the icy roads. As if the previous two years weren't bad enough, the winter of '78 proved the worst. Southeast Michigan was declared a disaster area and the National Guard was called out to aid in clean-up and evacuation efforts following a paralyzing January blizzard.

Thanks to merchants

The merchants of Lake Orion and Oxford should be thanked for the ads they took out in the "Dragon" yearbook. Ad prices ranged from thirty-five dollars for an eighth-page ad to ninety-five dollars for a full page ad. A forty-five dollar quarter-page and a sixty-five dollar half-page ad were also available. Because of the merchants taking out ads, the book, which costs twelve dollars per copy to print, cost the students only eight dollars and fifty cents. The ad money also helped put thirty-two pages of spot color, eight pages of full color, and thirty-two pages of colored pages into the book. All these extra features were made possible because the yearbook students doubled last year's ad sales from $2000.00 to $4000.00.

Dragon mascot is actually sea serpent found in Lake Orion

"It was about forty feet long, and had a head the size of a calf's, but with horns instead of ears." This is the account Mrs. Brown gave after she narrowly missed being drowned by the Lake Orion serpent.

She had been out fishing with her nieces when the monster approached their boat. "I hit the beast with my oar, but it just kept coming!" Mrs. Brown then rowed to the nearest land without looking back until she had reached the safety of her home.

Before the end of the summer, the dragon had grown to eighty feet and had been spotted by over twelve people. The summer was 1894, and all of this really happened according to the ORION REVIEW of that period. It is thought that our mascot, the dragon, evolved from this legend.

Parking meters sidestep inflation

Parking meters, the nemesis of forgetful motorists, are one of the few things which remain unaffected by our spiraling inflation. A dying tradition in many cities, parking meters are still very much a reality in downtown Orion. The meters are checked by the officer on duty. Frequently, the officers write up tickets in groups of fifteen or twenty. The maintenance of Orion's 110 parking meters is the responsibility of the Village D.P.W. Total revenue from the meters and tickets amounts to an average of $115 a week.

Fear of flying

"Look at those gliders! Did you see that parachutist? There must be a student pilot flying that plane." Have you ever wondered where gliders, parachutists and student pilots begin their flights? They start their flights in Orion at the Orion-Oakland Airport.

Although the airport is relatively small, with only one paved and one sodded runway, it averages 12,000 flights a year. The air travel ranges from charter to private flights consisting of single and light twin-engine aircraft. On a clear, cloudless weekend one can easily see parachutists and sail-plane enthusiasts making adequate use of the airport facilities.

Due to the fact that the airport is a relatively small one, it doesn't have much of the navigational equipment of the larger airports. The authorities are investigating these instruments and are making the necessary negotiations with the FAA. The landing lights of the runways do allow night traffic, but this and the other activities of the airport are limited by the weather. The pilots, instead of flight controllers, control their own maneuvers for landing and taking off by means of a radio. This radio, called Unicom, allows all pilots to hear the procedures taking place. This, coupled with the fact that the FAA regulates all the standard procedures, avoids confusion in the airways.

Police, fire departments protect L.O. citizens

The Lake Orion Police Department (L.O.P.D.), is divided into the Village Police and the Orion Township Sheriff's Department. The L.O.P.D., headed by Police Chief James Leach, has two patrol cars and four policemen who respond to about 3400 calls a year. The Orion Township Sheriff's Department, commanded by Sgt. James Stites, uses four cars and nine men to handle any calls received.

Lake Orion also has two Fire Departments, Gingellville (Station #3) and the Village of Lake Orion (Station #1). Station #1, led by Firechief Cecil Rickman, has six trucks and thirty-seven firemen which respond to approximately 257 calls a year. Station #3, headed by Firechief Gerald M. "a two story shack on a forty story foundation"

A business executive was standing with a friend in the Skyroom of an office building in Houston. He pointed far below. "Look at that building," he remarked. "They sank a forty-story foundation, and then built a two-story shack on it."

The executive hesitated a moment, then concluded, "That's like a lot of people I know: forty-story foundations and two-story lives."

There are men and women who are equipped by natural skill and training to make a significant contribution to their company or business, yet they are satisfied to waste their time and efforts. That's building a shack on a skyscraper foundation.

There are men and women who have the opportunity and the potential to develop and grow in their personal lives, yet they are content to put forth the least possible effort. That's building a shack on a skyscraper foundation.

There are men and women who have education and training which makes them potential leaders in the continuing battle for a better society, yet they resist every effort to enlist their support for worthy endeavors. That's building a shack on a skyscraper foundation.

There are men and women who possess a heritage of faith and idealism sufficient to make them impervious to the pitfalls of moral decadence, yet they are weakened by shoddy thinking and destructive habits. That's building a shack on a skyscraper foundation.

Pressures to be successful are severe in our society. Too often our world is impatient with failures of any kind. But that is no reason why you should hesitate and procrastinate while you wait for someone else to give you what you think you want from life. Build what your dreams and your conscience tell you is the rightful goal for one with your potential and abilities.

Make your achievements of skyscraper proportions. Nothing else will suffice for a man or woman to whom life has given a skyscraper foundation.

Postscript

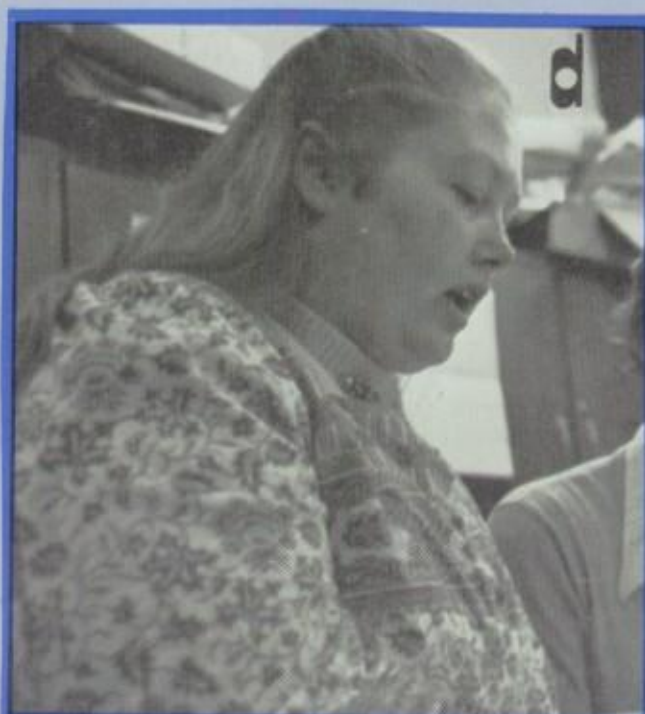

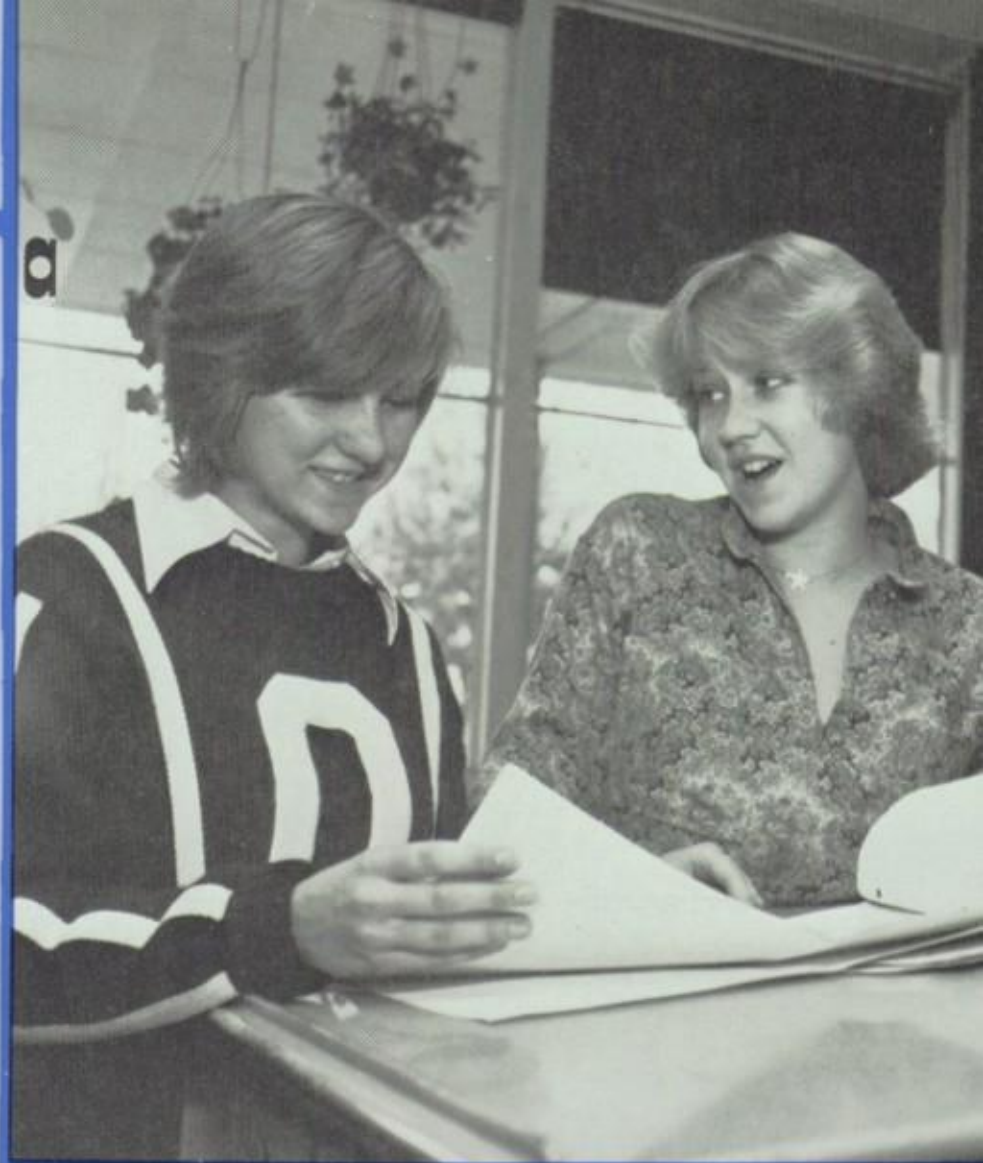

With the almost daily traffic jams along M-24 due to construction, we decided to look for a theme that reflected Orion's quick changes, but also showed that we didn't know where Orion was heading. After weeks of agonizing brainstorming we came up with "Turn the page . . ." It was simple, clear-cut, and could cover all subject matter easily.

Though we've consistently taken first place from the Columbia rating service and 11 awards at the MIPA conference at CMU, the students wanted something more. This year we gave it to them—spot color, more pages, and a variation on the traditional green and white cover.

The staff itself didn't always have a good time. Though there were days of fun, parties and PUB T-shirts, there were also frantic days of total chaos. Homecoming was the 29th of October and the deadline to the plant was November 1. With constant pressure like this, staff members sometimes wondered if it was worth it or not. We hope they think it was and enjoyed the past year in yearbook. We thank them and give a special thanks to our advisor, Mrs. Ruth Peng, without whom this book wouldn't have been possible.

a) Holly Vix and Jackie Hill, 1978 co-editors, go over layout design in the early steps of yearbook planning. c) Kathy Mills, secretary, takes attendance daily. d) Mrs. Ruth Peng, DRAGON Advisor, looks over a layout mat before a deadline. e) Cindy Rice, frustrated typist, hammers out copy before the deadline. f) Mark Chuey and Mike Daugherty, business managers, go over the ads file checking how sales are going in order to finance the book. g) Mary Raczka, photo co-ordinator, sorts out over 2000 pictures before they are given to the proper section.

And so, the reader arrives at the final chapter of the 1977-78 school year. As it draws to a close, seniors look forward to getting out on their own, juniors to senior privileges, pictures, and the trip, and the sophomores hurry to become juniors. Pep assemblies, college applications, tardy bells, bus rides, tray numbers, all are over for the year. What lies ahead? Once again, "Turn the page . . ."

Conclusion

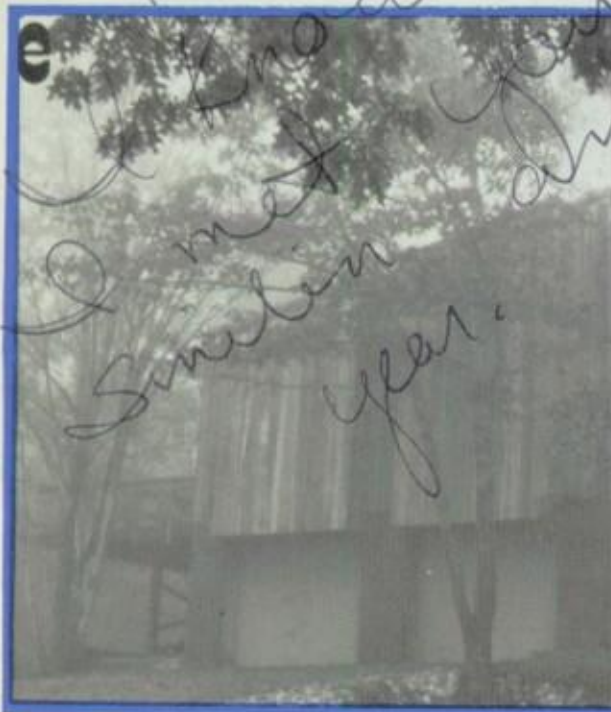

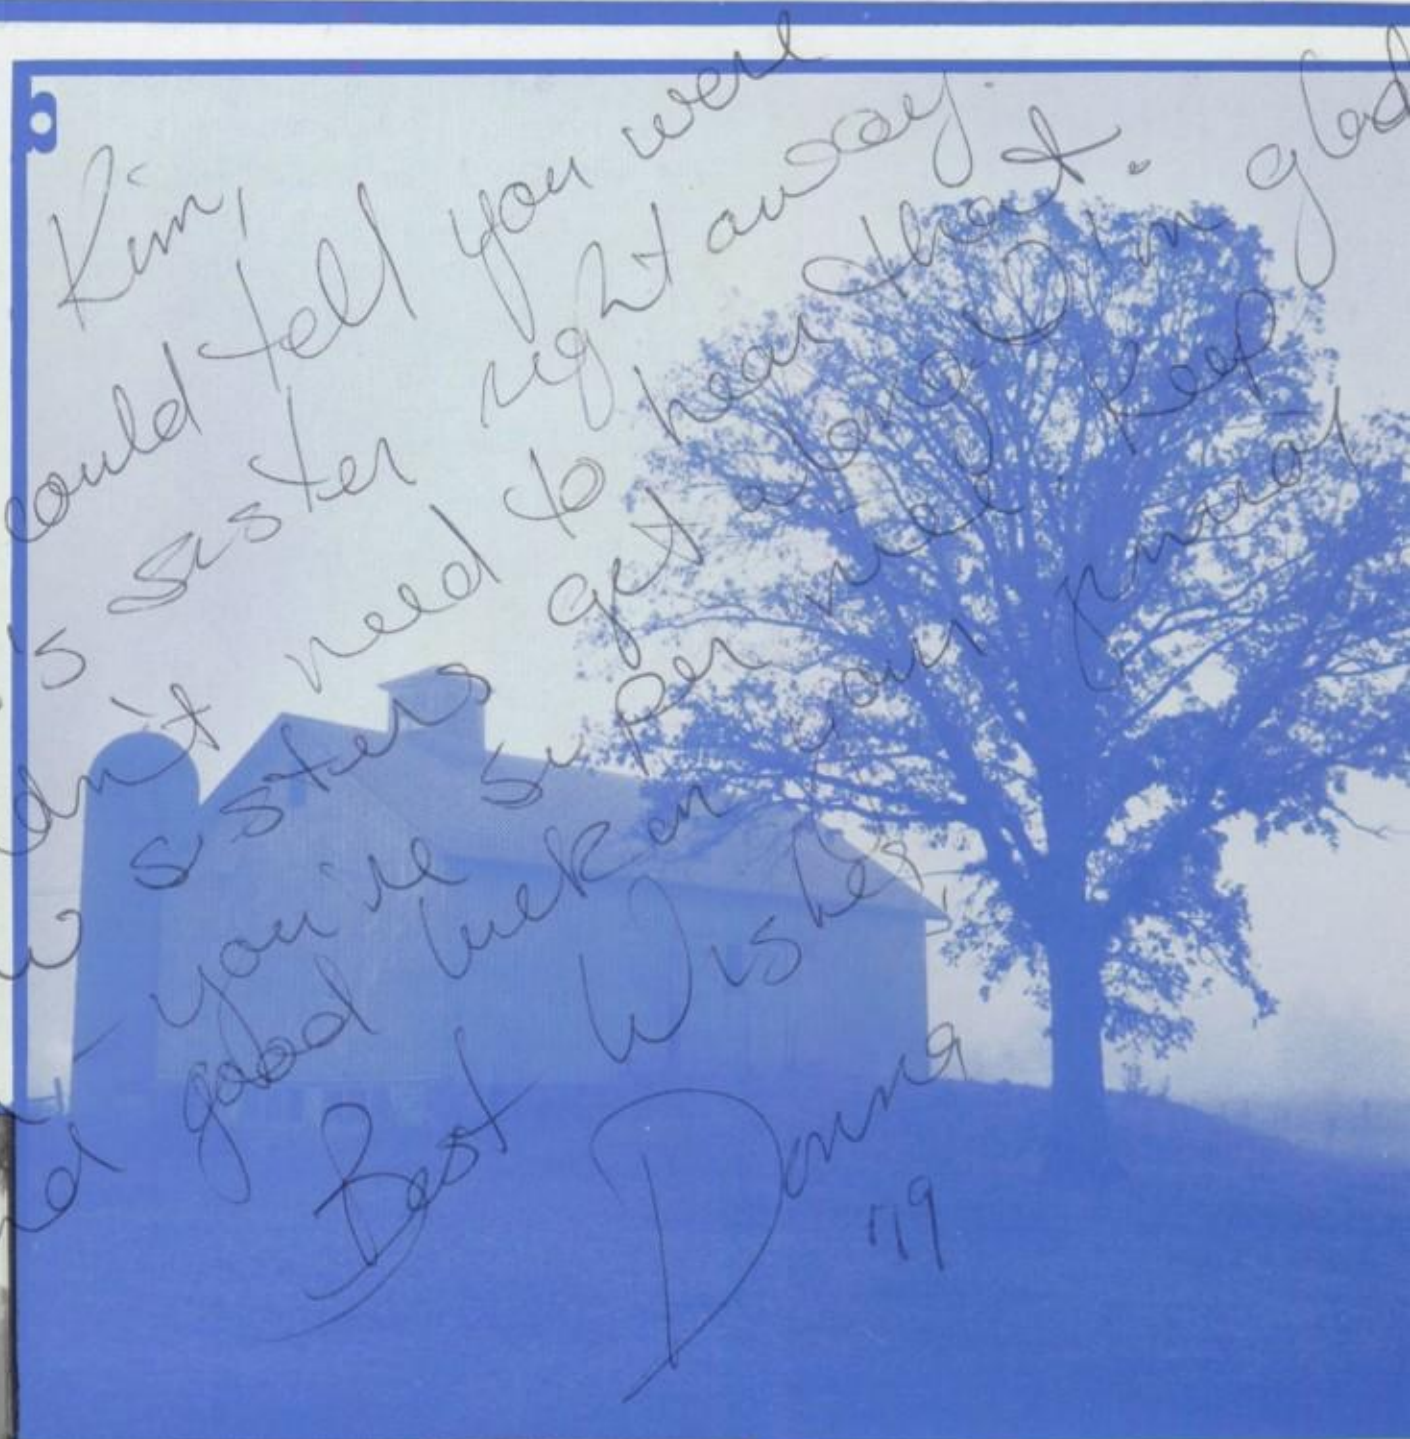

Q: What lies ahead for us?

A: Turn the page...

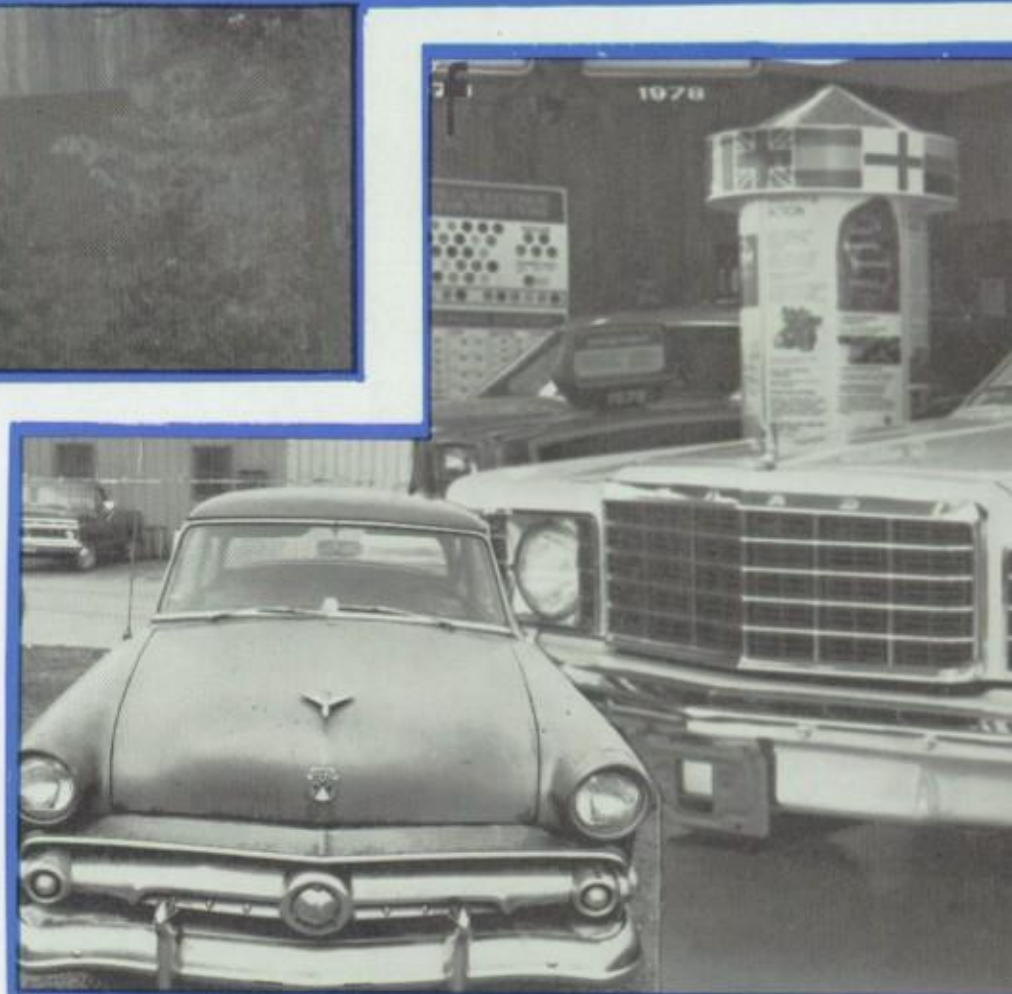

a) At one time Orion had many fields and countryside. Now as industry grows and buildings spring up the fields disappear. b) Rural scenes, such as this, are seen less frequently as the industrial machine moves in. c) The Township Hall proves that fast food restaurants aren't the only addition to Orion. d) Mr. Davis, Mr. Coaster, Mr. Wodyla, and Mr. Cherry correct papers, chat, and lounge around on their conference hour. e) Orion's natural beauty is exhibited around its countryside.

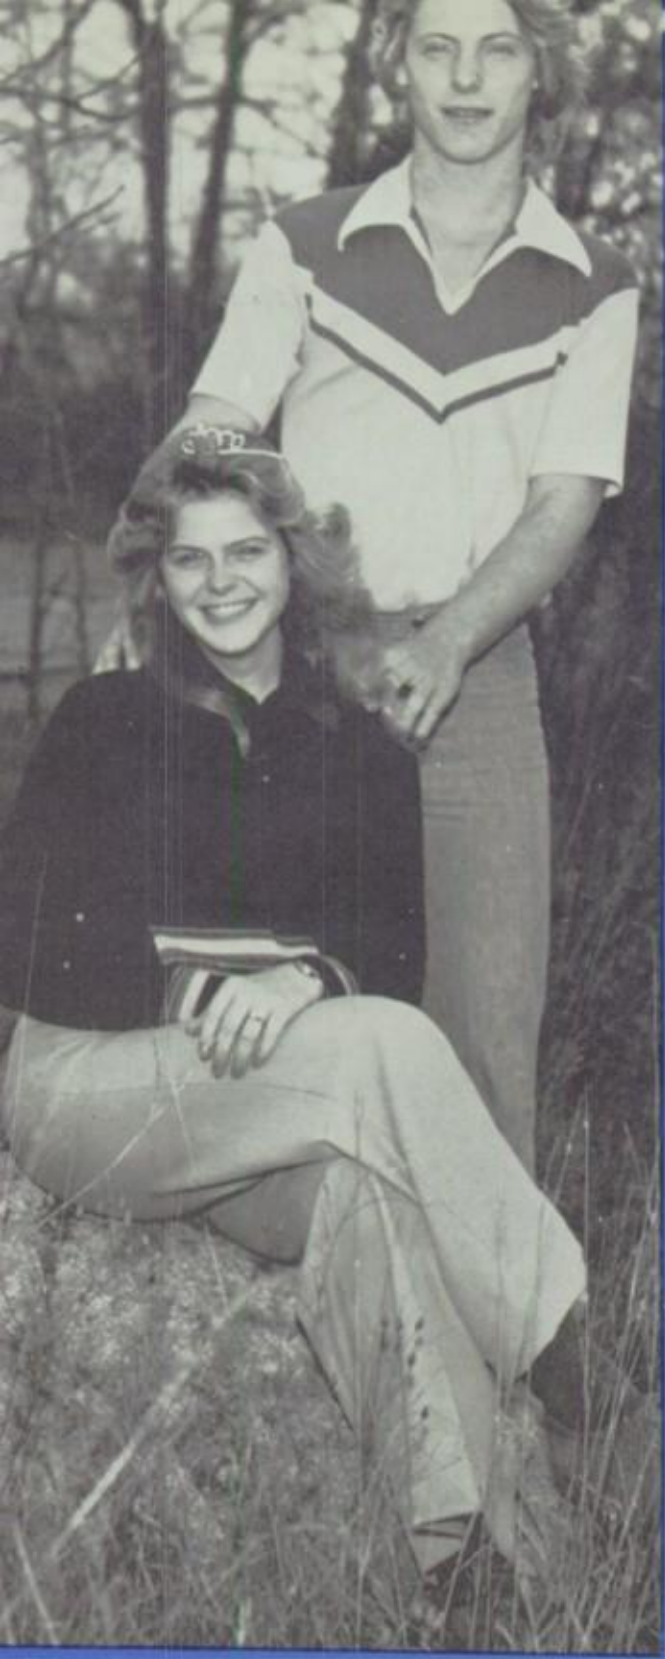

Orion: Is it too late to save?

a) With the many new paving projects going on in town, the railroads, such as this crossing at Flint and M-24, were ripped apart. b) The many barns, like this one on M-24 near the school, once prevalent in Orion, are now being torn down to make room for people and buses. c) Michelle Ranville and Dan Messer, the 1977 Donut King and Queen, represent a new tradition reflecting the "good old days" in Orion. d) New power towers have to be built as the increasing population needs more energy. e) Modern housing using solar energy is becoming more economical, even in Michigan's grey winter. f) Milosch Chrysler; 677 Lapeer Road, Lake Orion, Michigan, 48035, offers modern transportation versus (inset) the model of yesterday. g) Lucky's, 101 S. Broadway, Lake Orion, has shopping with that old country store flavor.

Milosch Chrysler

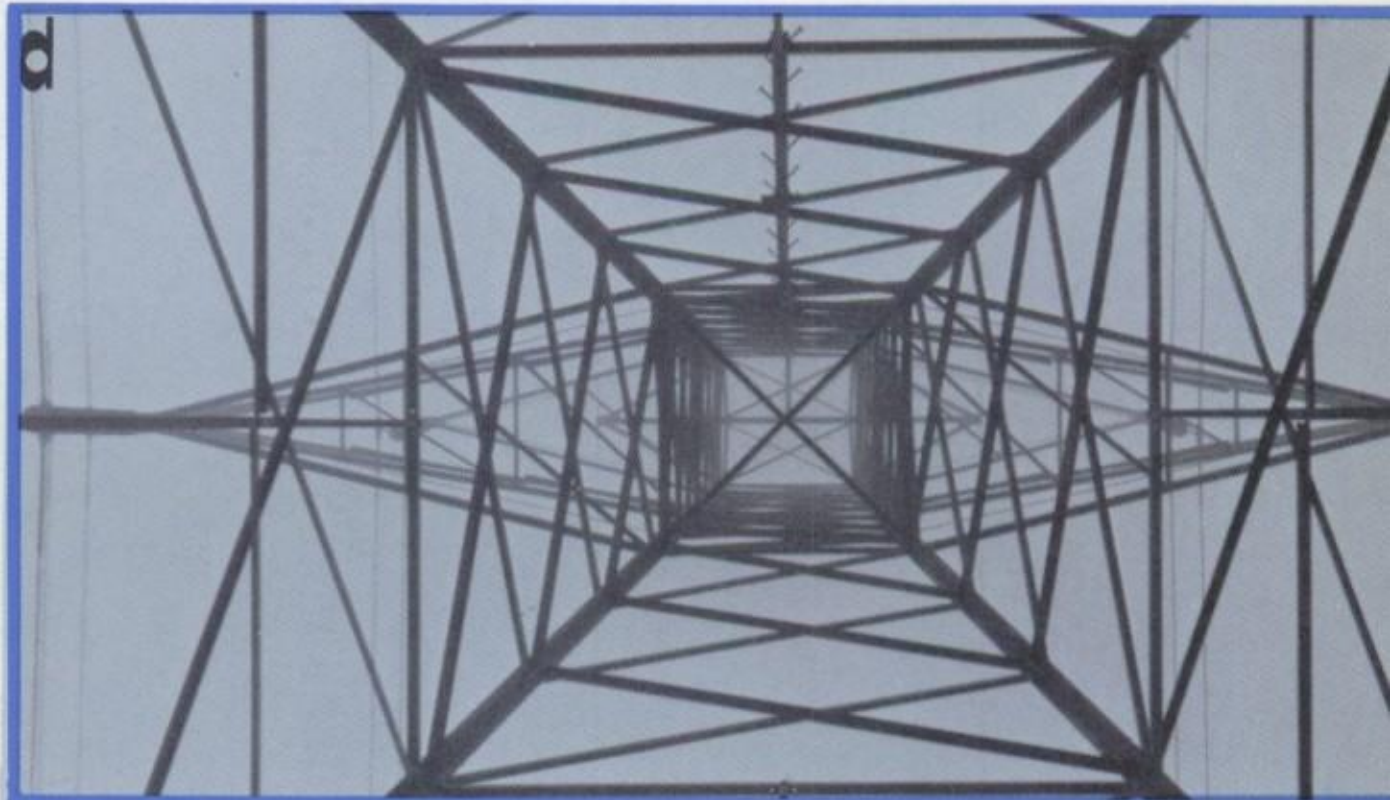

More roads, more buildings, more homes, and more people was the way Orion was looking in 1978. Gone was the one bank and one store town, gone was the fun of stopping at Patterson's Pharmacy for a hot fudge sundae.

With all this urbanization the town continued to grow. Already plans for another high school were being considered, along with extensive repaving of several dirt roads.

As the people crowded in more of nature was lost—forever. Square Lake was dying and several other lakes weren't far behind. The pollution and crowded conditions continued to chase away more of the deer and other wild life, once native to the area.

Where will it all end? Can Orion stay as it is now? Can it maintain its small town flavor? Of course, the future holds the answer, and we'll find out as we continue to Turn the page

Lucky's

Though Orion's countryside changes

Bap! Bap! "Not another fire drill!" these words were heard last fall each time the mysterious alarm-puller struck. In addition, we had a pencil-sharpener thief. The search was on for a working sharpener! Last fall there were eight new faces, but they were not suspected, in fact, they were new teachers!

Despite these few changes of pace, the high school maintained its routine. But outside, M-24 continues to grow as Orion's countryside continues to shrink.

a) Ghosts of thousands roam this hall. b) Seasons change and so do the types of nature around Orion. c) Our daily bus rides up Scripps Road will be remembered. d) The "fire drill." e) Students sometimes feel the urge to break away. f) The familiar sight of students standing outside during a fire drill. g) Mike Skelly, Neil McGrath, Justine Katz, Nicki Foltenyi, Phil D'Onofrio, Eric Drummond, and Jeff Tait chat about what's happening around Lake Orion High.
